Editor's Column

I am pleased to have been selected as Chief Editor of the Jefferson Journal of Psychiatry. The Journal provides a unique opportunity for residents and fellows in Psychiatry to gain exposure in the psychiatric community.

The articles that are in this issue represent a wide variety of topics that are of interest. I hope that you as readers will appreciate them.

I look forward to continuing to bring to you the works of promising Psychiatrists who will surely make a contribution to the field now and in the future.
