About The Authors

Derek Puddester, M.D. is a resident in Psychiatry at McMaster University in Ontario, Canada and is the Chairperson for the Committee of Residents and Fellows of the American Psychiatric Association.

Daniel Z. Lieberman, M.D. at the time of writing his article was Chief Resident in Psychiatry at New York University Medical Center in New York City. He has since become an Attending Psychiatrist for the Substance Abuse Team at George Washington University in Washington, D.C.

M. Bates Redwine, M.D.; Ryan Finkelbine, M.D.; William H. Carson, M.D.; Susan Hardesty, M.D.; and Linda Lewis, M.N., R.N., C.S. are all associated with the Medical University of South Carolina, Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences, MUSC Institute of Psychiatry, Access Center, Charleston, SC.

Iracema Leroi, M.D. was a PGY-4 resident in psychiatry at Dalhousie University, Halifax, Nova Scotia.

Joseph B. A. Meagher, M.D., M.R.C. (Psych.), FRCPC, is Assistant Professor of Psychiatry, Dalhousie University, and is a Consultant Psychiatrist at The Nova Scotia Hospital, Dartmouth, Nova Scotia.

Gennady Berezkin, M.D. is a PGY-5 resident in psychiatry at the Western Psychiatric Institute and Clinic, University of Pittsburgh Medical Center, Pittsburgh, PA.

Leo Sher, M.D. is a fellow at the National Institute of Mental Health, Bethesda, Maryland. At the time of writing his article he was a resident at Hillside Hospital, Psychiatric Division of Long Island Jewish Medical Center, the Long Island Campus for the Albert Einstein College of Medicine, Glen Oaks, New York.

Alan Mendelowitz, M.D. is Chief of the Residency Training and Research Unit at Hillside Hospital, Psychiatric Division of Long Island Jewish Medical Center, the Long Island Campus for the Albert Einstein College of Medicine, Glen Oaks, New York, and Assistant Professor of Psychiatry, Albert Einstein College of Medicine, Bronx, New York.