Science Today in Verse

Institutional Repositories

Scientists engage in cerebration
Resulting in accumulation
Of data that must be Accessible perpetually
Librarians step in to say
"Never fear, we know a way
This problem to address
And we guarantee success
A repository we will create
Maintain and haply operate
All that is required for such bliss
Is money to accomplish this."

Organisms

An organism responds to stimuli
And I'm assuming it can multiply
For it definitely would be little fun
To get nothing major done

Open Access

Open Access means that we can read
Science free of corporate greed

Drug discovery

Among life's assorted blows
Are pain and cramps and other woes
And as I ponder physiology
I thank God for pharmacology

Lucky me

Anthrax, plague and asbestosis
Botulism and brucellosis
Typhus, gangrene, thrush, arthritis
Diphtheria and cellulitis
Hepatitis A and hepatitis B
Mumps, malaria, leprosy
Scabies, shingles and rubella
Tuberculosis, salmonella
Whooping cough and Graves' disease
So far I have none of these
And what a very cheering thought
That others do, but I do not

Medical advice

Abrasions, fractures, ankle pain
Tennis elbow, muscle strain
Achilles tendonitis
Head injuries and bursitis
Concussion, blisters, laceration
This concatenation
Suggests it would be wise
To avoid all forms of exercise ❖
