CATHERINE ZURBIER HAYWARD

DOCTOR OF HUMANE LETTERS—WILLIAM EDWARD CHAMBERLAIN

William Edward Chamberlain was born in Ann Arbor, Michigan, reared in California, and attended the University of California at Berkeley where he received his Bachelor of Science degree in Electrical Engineering in 1913. In 1916 he received his Doctor of Medicine degree from the University of California, San Francisco.

He was held in high esteem by the faculty at the University of California and was urged by his professors to enter the field of x-ray. His background in electrical engineering and his high motivation for innovations and creativity have made him an idol to radiologists throughout the world.

Dr. Chamberlain's leadership abilities were recognized early in his career. After a year of private practice in Radiology, he was appointed Chief of the French Hospital in San Francisco; during World War I he was Radiologist-in-Charge at a United States Naval Base hospital overseas; and in 1920 he was appointed Chief of Radiology at the Stanford University Medical School where he became a full professor in 1927.

In 1930 Dr. Chamberlain came to Philadelphia as Professor and Chairman of the Department of Radiology at Temple University. He served in this position until his retirement in 1957. During his career at Temple, he gained a reputation as a superb teacher, outstanding clinician, and excellent researcher.

After his retirement from Temple, Dr. Chamberlain spent the next 20 years with the Veterans Administration. Starting as Special Assistant for Atomic Medicine and Associate Director of Research Service, in 1969 he was named Chief of Radiology at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Brooklyn, New York, and from 1976 to 1977 was Consultant-in-Residence. Subsequently, he came to Thomas Jefferson University as Visiting Professor. During the two years he has been at Jefferson, Dr. Chamberlain has continued to stimulate young people as he has in the past. Recently he has described a new method for measuring the volume of the heart on x-rays—again demonstrating the youthful enthusiasm he has shown all of his life.

Dr. Chamberlain has held memberships in and served as President of numerous medical societies. He has been awarded many gold medals, including the Gold Medals of the American College of Radiology and the Radiological Society of North America.

Dr. Chamberlain's contributions to Radiology are legendary. He introduced and described the image intensifier in fluoroscopy which now allows the radiologist to fluoroscope in the light without having to undergo darkness adaptation. This has permitted greater comfort for the patient and has been a significant contribution to the science of Radiology. He is also well known for the "Chamberlain line" seen in skull x-rays and for the "Chamberlain" x-ray of the skull.

He has contributed over 64 articles to the medical literature, including the classic, "Fluoroscopes and Fluoroscopy", published in 1942.

Dr. Chamberlain and his wife, Mae, reside in center city Philadelphia.

DOCTOR OF LAWS—JESSIE M. SCOTT

A native of Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania, Jessie M. Scott received her nurse's training at the Wilkes-Barre General Hospital School of Nursing. She subsequently earned the Bachelor of Science degree at the University of Pennsylvania and the Master of Arts degree at Columbia University.

After serving as Science Instructor in the School of Nursing, Jefferson Medical College Hospital, Miss Scott worked as a private duty nurse in Wilkes-Barre, as an Infirmary Nurse and Science Instructor at the University of Pennsylvania, as Educational Director of the Mt. Sinai Hospital in Philadelphia, and as a staff nurse and Assistant Science Instructor at St. Luke's Hospital in New York City. She also contributed her knowledge and experience as a Counselor and Assistant Executive Secretary of the Pennsylvania Nurses' Association.

In 1955, Miss Scott began her distinguished career in the federal government when she was chosen Nurse Consultant to the Division of Nursing in the Bureau of Health Manpower of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. She was promoted to Deputy Chief of the Division in 1957 and Director of the Division of Nursing in 1964—a position she still holds concurrently with the rank of Assistant Surgeon General in the United States Public Health Service.

Jessie Scott's reputation as nurse educator, administrator, and researcher is internationally known and her expertise has frequently been sought in those arenas.

Miss Scott has been the recipient of numerous honorary degrees and other special awards and citations, including the R. Louise McManus Medal of Columbia University, the Florence Nightingale Medal of the State University of New York, the Mary Adelaide Nutting Award for Leadership in Nursing, the University Sesquicentennial Award for Distinguished Service to Nursing, the Pennsylvania Nurses' Association Award for Distinguished Service to Nursing, and the University of Evansville Medal of Honor.

In 1973, Miss Scott was the recipient of the Distinguished Service Medal of the United States Public Health Service which was presented "For a distinguished career in the advancement of nursing, both nationally and internationally, with particular reference to her creative leadership in the development and implementation of a national program in support of nurse training." She also received the Meritorious Service Medal of the United States Public Health Service "For outstanding contributions to nursing in this country and other parts of the world."

Miss Scott has held leadership positions in many national and international professional nursing associations and is a respected contributor to the literature. From 1968 to 1972 she served as Second Vice President of the American Nurses' Association. She is presently Chairman of the Professional Services Committee of the International Council of Nurses located in Geneva, Switzerland. Miss Scott serves as the National League for Nursing's representative on the Joint Committee of the American Hospital Association and is a member of the National League for Nursing's Committee on Membership Structure. She is a founding member of the Western Society for Research in Nursing, a charter member of the History of Nursing Archives Association of Boston University, and an honorary member of the Sigma Theta Tau National Honor Society of Nursing.

DOCTOR OF LITERATURE—JONATHAN EVANS RHOADS

Jonathan Evans Rhoads was born in Philadelphia, attended the Germantown Friends School and the Westtown School, and received his bachelor's degree from Haverford College where he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. He received his medical degree from Johns Hopkins University where he was also elected to Alpha Omega Alpha, the honorary medical society. His career is distinguished by his stellar accomplishments as surgeon, investigator, educator, and civic leader.

As a surgeon, Dr. Rhoads' outstanding contributions have been in oncology and nutritional support of surgical patients. After completing a surgical residency at the University of Pennsylvania, he rose rapidly through the academic ranks to the John Rhea Barton Chair in Surgery and Chairman of the Department in 1959, after having served three successful years as Provost of the University of Pennsylvania. Dr. Rhoads' surgical leadership is attested to by the various positions he has held, including President of the American Cancer Society and membership on the National Cancer Advisory Board. He also served as President of the American College of Surgeons, the American Surgical Association, the Philadelphia Academy of Surgery, and the Society for Surgery of the Alimentary Tract.

One of the most significant and earliest marks of his surgical competence was evidenced when his mentor, I. S. Ravdin, chose Dr. Rhoads as his personal surgeon while he was still a senior resident.

As a surgical investigator, Dr. Rhoads served as Director of the Harrison Department of Surgical Research at the University of Pennsylvania where he provided a personal stimulus to a host of young people in surgical research. His life-long interest in studies on nutrition and his scholarly and orderly progression of experiments set the stage for the significant accomplishments culminating in the present science of total parenteral nutrition. For this effort, he was co-recipient in 1970 of the Joseph Goldberger Award in Clinical Nutrition given by the American Medical Association. His scientific publications exceed three hundred at the present time.

Dr. Rhoads' role as an educator is best mirrored in the accomplishments of those he has trained and these accomplishments speak more eloquently than all others. Of the young men and women who served under him as trainees or with him as surgical colleagues, during his tenure as the John Rhea Barton Chairman of the Department of Surgery, 12 are chairman of surgical departments, 55 are professors of surgery, and 199 individuals now hold faculty positions in 45 different medical schools. His teaching ability was recognized by his selection as editor of the journal CANCER and the journal ANNALS OF SURGERY, and by his selection as one of the founding members of the JOURNAL OF SURGICAL RESEARCH.

He has served as Chairman of the Board of Managers of Haverford College and as a member of the Board of Trustees of Bryn Mawr College. He was also a member of the Board of Education of Philadelphia, and is the current President of the American Philosophic Society.

In addition to his national and international commitments, Dr. Rhoads has maintained a vigorous and active role in Philadelphia, his home city. He once confided that early in his professional life he made the decision that the development of his surgical career would only be limited by his wish to remain in the City of Philadelphia. He has served the city well as President of the Philadelphia County Medical Society in 1970, and as a member of the Crime Commission, the Franklin Institute, the Philadelphia Orchestra Association, and the Society for the Preservation of Landmarks. He received the Strittmatter Award of the Philadelphia County Medical Society in 1968 and the Philadelphia Award for the year 1976.

Dr. Rhoads has also received honorary degrees from the University of Pennsylvania, Haverford College, Swarthmore College, and The Medical College of Pennsylvania.

He is married to the former Teresa Folin and they have five children, two of whom are physicians—one a surgeon and the other an internist.

THE ACADEMIC COSTUME

The wearing of academic dress dates back to the early days of the oldest universities in the world. In the American Council on Education's book entitled "American Universities and Colleges" it is suggested that "gowns may have been counted necessary for warmth in the unheated buildings frequented by medieval scholars. Hoods seem to have served to cover the tonsured head . . ."

Throughout the years European universities have continued to show great diversity in their academic dress. American universities, on the other hand, when they decided to adopt academic dress about sixty years ago, immediately established a code of regulations which today is followed by almost all American institutions. The establishment of this code has made it possible to distinguish the Associates, Bachelors, Masters, and Doctors and at the same time recognize the university which has given them the degree.

The Associate in Arts and Bachelor's gowns have pointed sleeves and are worn closed. The Master's gown has oblong sleeves, open at the wrist. The rear part of its oblong shape is square cut and the front part has an arc cut away, and is worn open or closed. The Doctor's gown has bell-shaped sleeves. It is worn opened or closed. Cotton poplin or similar material is used for the Associate's, Bachelor's and Master's degrees, and rayon or silk ribbed material is used for the Doctor's degree. All gowns are black except for the Associates in Arts degree which is gray.

The hoods vary in length: 48 inches for the Doctor's degree, 42 inches for the Master's, and 36 inches for the Bachelor's and Associate's. All hoods are lined in silk in the academic color or colors of the institution conferring the degree. If the institution has more than one color, the colors are shown in divisions using chevrons. The binding or edge of the Doctor's, Master's and Bachelor's hoods are usually made of velvet in the color designating the subject in which the degree was granted. The Associate of Arts hood has no velvet border. The outside is black.

Black mortarboards are worn for all degrees.

THE JEFFERSON PROCESSIONAL

The Jefferson Processional was commissioned by the Alumni Association of Jefferson Medical College and played for the first time on November 15, 1974, at the Sesquicentennial Celebration of Jefferson Medical College of Thomas Jefferson University. This piece was presented to Thomas Jefferson University by the President of the Alumni Association of Jefferson Medical College, Dr. John J. Gartland. The composition was composed by Burle Marx.

THE PRESIDENTIAL BADGE OF THOMAS JEFFERSON UNIVERSITY

The President's Badge was created for the Inauguration of Lewis W. Bluemle, Jr., M.D., the third President of Thomas Jefferson University, on September 7, 1977. It consists of four official corporate seals of Thomas Jefferson University and the predecessor corporation, The Jefferson Medical College of Philadelphia. These seals were used to mark diplomas, certificates, and other official documents and have been gold-plated to form the Presidential Badge.

The medallion on the President's right is the corporate seal of Thomas Jefferson University today and was created in 1969 when Jefferson Medical College became Thomas Jefferson University. It carries a contemporary likeness of Thomas Jefferson.

The other three medallions are the various seals that were used in Jefferson Medical College for many years. The oldest marked every diploma that was issued by the College from 1839 to 1967. This seal carries a traditional likeness of a young Thomas Jefferson and the founding date of the College as 1826. Prior to 1839 the diploma of Jefferson Medical College carried the seal of the Jefferson College in Canonsburg, Pennsylvania—the parent institution.

Another seal was developed in 1967 as a result of research done by the late Edward L. Bauer, Emeritus Professor of Pediatrics, who determined that the founding year of Jefferson Medical College was 1824 rather than 1826. This seal is identical to the present corporate seal except the words "Thomas Jefferson University" replace "Jefferson Medical College". It was used for only two years—from 1967 to 1969.

The Presidential Badge is on permanent display in the Scott Library and is used at all convocations of the University.
