Diversity and Inclusion Education

In the 2016-2017 academic year, two then-second year SKMC students, Linda Magana and Kevin Gutierrez, created and conducted a “Race and Medicine” course that first year SKMC students could receive credits for their Humanities Course.

The Office of the Dean at SKMC has created a new lecture series called, “Confronting Racism, Bias, and Social Injustice in Healthcare.” This first-of-a-kind at Jefferson educational series is meant to educate on this important topic and to allow us to begin the discussions needed to move us forward in our quest to provide the best patient care. The content was developed by Drs. John Spandorfer, Traci Trice and Bernie Lopez. The lectures include:
