forever spotless. How about an unending supply of stamps so you don't have to wait until next week to mail that important letter? One girl would like some sort of sign to tell her that the metal part of the stethoscope is the wrong side to use when taking a blood pressure. Or an automatic-push-button classifier for those overwhelming Anatomy definitions. One freshman would like a tape measurer so she'll remember that a rectal tube is inserted 3 or 4 inches not 7. Her poor lab partner! What about a foolproof spot remover for those potassium permanganate stains that just happened to land up on the light. A health conscious girl dreams of a years supply of bread and tomatoe soup, her "Staff of Life" while another wants nothing but Life Savers. A stopwatch is in order for anyone who takes nightly jaunts around the hall for exercise.

Though these requests are varied and different only one thing can be added - What would you like for Christmas?

HOW THE JEFF STUDENT NURSE SPENDS HER CHRISTMAS

Nancy Brugger - I'm going to eat, drink, and be merry and then come back here.

Jerryanne Hindman - Because my Care Package didn't arrive, I won't get to go to Florida this Christmas, so as a true nightingale - I'll work.

Cheryl Knauer - Unwrapping a big surprise package from my boy friend.

Nancy Moyer - Sleep!!!

Dee De Luce - Have a quiet and restful Christmas at home, I hope.

Helen Reilly - I'm gonna have a merry Christmas with lots of merry making and recuperate from my first semester at Jeff.

played a fast moving game, out-running Chestnut Hill in the first half. But by the fourth quarter the well-trained Chestnut Hill nurses had tied the score. With excitement at its peak, Barb Lenker led her team to a close 27-23 victory. High scorer of the evening, Captain Barb Lenker landed six baskets.

JMCH-Lankenau Game

The game with Lankenau Hospital Nursing School was played on Thursday, November 21, at the Bala-Cynwyd Jr. High School. Getting a bad start, the Jeff players fell behind Lankenau's speeding team and were unable to gain a foothold throughout the game. Although Jeff's team gathered added strength at half time, it was too late. The team lost with a disheartening score of 26-36.

The next two games to be played will be on Monday, December 9 with Cooper Hospital and Monday, January 6 with Bryn Mawr. Get in the Jefferson Spirit and support your team by attending the games. Your cheering will lead the JMCH Nurses to victory.

HAPPINESS AND SECURITY OF A FRESHMAN STUDENT NURSE

Happiness is:

- the thought that Christmas will soon be here.
- winning a basketball game.
- being off the study hall list.
- being called "nurse" for the first time.
- a letter in your mailbox.
- a phone call.
- the thought of that future "I.N." after your name.

Security is:

- an extra hatpin in your cap.
- knowing your roommate will always hear your alarm.
