New Multimedia Resources for Researchers

AISR acquired two new resources for researchers - Henry Stewart Talks, a series of online seminars by world experts in biomedical and life sciences and Journal of Visualized Experiments (JoVE), a video journal. Both are now available on JEFFLINE.

The Jefferson Digital Commons Reached 1 Million Downloads

On Sunday July 22, 2012 the Jefferson Digital Commons hit one million downloads. The lucky asset to register this historic number was published in 2003 in the Health Policy Newsletter.

New IBM SPSS Site License

This summer AISR obtained a site license for the popular statistics software, SPSS. The software will be available in the computer classrooms in Jefferson Alumni Hall and the Scott Library. Our license also permits Jefferson faculty, staff, and students to install a copy on their computers.

Library Renovations

Later this fall, renovations will begin on the second floor of Scott Library. Updates will include the creation of a single point of service desk for Circulation and Reference support and the construction of 10 small group collaboration suites. The new suites will be built along the east and west sides; we will keep as much of the second floor open as possible during the construction.
