Name: Ann

Country: US

Role: Daughter of 1952 graduate

Resource URL: https://jdc.jefferson.edu/jmc_yearbooks/65/

Comments: It was fun to look up my Dad's page and see his picture (and those of his classmates whom he stayed in touch with while we were growing up). I also liked the shout-out to the wives. My mother worked there before my brother was born. Both parents (now deceased) enjoyed their time as a young couple in Philly and the friends they made at school.

Name: Josephine P.

Country: US

Resource URL: <https://jdc.jefferson.edu/jscpsfp/1/>

Comments: This is an excellent paper on strategic leadership and strategic decision making. I have been introduced to the Epistemology Framework and the illustrations specially on nesting and the iceberg model have made it clearer. I still have to understand and master the Cynefin Framework and see its unique contribution to Organization and Leadership.

Comments: This article showing chemical exposure and psychiatric disorders helped to show the greater damage by toxic metals not only on physical health, but on mental health as well. The article was useful in creating awareness with insurers that environmental contamination may have psychiatric consequences and be included in injuries. This article allowed for additional research on PubMed NIH to expand our understanding of environmental toxins and impact on health.
