Writing Retreat—Happening This Week!

Mini Writing Retreat

Instructors: Pamela Walter, MFA; Liz Declan, MA, MFA

Date: 12/2/2022

Time: 8:00am – 11:00am

Location: 200A Scott Library or on Zoom

\(Register for this workshop\)

Join us at our half-day writing retreat, devoted solely to your writing projects. Most importantly, you'll get quiet time to write. We'll also have a writing consultant and librarian available to answer writing and research questions, help you find materials, talk over your journal choice, edit your work, or just read what you have so far.

PLEASE NOTE: You may attend in person or via Zoom. A link to the Zoom session will be provided approximately 24-48 hours before workshop begins.

BioRender Webinar—Next Week

The Jefferson Postdoctoral Association (JPA) is hosting a crash-course on how to use BioRender to create professional, beautiful, scientific images in a matter of minutes.

This webinar will be led by Sydney Burniston, BioRender's Scientific Communications & Customer Success Manager, on Wednesday, December 7th at 12pm EST.

Coming in 2023

Scholarly Writing Conference: Its aim will be to remove barriers to professional writing and publishing with informative sessions and tools from experts. We are looking to serve the whole professional writing community at Jefferson.

Write Your Story Series: Our pilot in the Fall of 2022 showed us that Jeffersonians have an interest in personal writing, so we'll be reprising this series in a different format in the spring. Monthly sessions will include writing prompts and feedback.

First Fridays Writing Retreats: All are welcome to attend these sessions. Librarians and OPWPC consultants will be on hand as you commit time to your scholarly writing projects in 2023.

Stay tuned.

From the Office for Professional Writing, Publishing, and Communication at Thomas Jefferson University.
