Open Access Fees Waived for Jefferson Authors in American Chemical Society (ACS) Journals

The Jefferson Libraries are pleased to announce that we have entered into an institutional open access agreement with ACS (American Chemical Society) Publications. This agreement waives article processing charges (APC) for open access publishing in any ACS journal for manuscripts submitted by Jefferson authors between January 1, 2023 and December 31, 2025. Please visit the libraries' Open Access Guide for more information and details on the ACS process. (SML website)

Join us for our next First Friday writing retreat!

Do you need some “me time” for your scholarly writing? You’ll get quiet time to research literature, write, and get answers to questions as you work on your writing. We’ll have a writing consultant and librarian available to help you find materials, discuss your journal choice, answer questions, or just read what you have so far. We’ve scheduled the retreats into half-day segments to accommodate varying schedules, but you are welcome to join for any part of the day.

Date: 5/5/2023

Time: 8:30am – 11:30am

Instructors: Pamela Walter, MFA; Liz Declan, MA, MFA; Research Librarians TBD

Location: VIRTUAL - Register to receive link

Publication Spotlight

Dr. Mohammadreza Hojat published his paper, "Clinical empathy: definition, measurement, correlates, group differences, erosion, enhancement, and healthcare outcomes," in the journal Discover Health Systems on Feb. 27, 2023. Congratulations, Dr. Hojat!

Congrats to Science Slam Winners

The Graduate Student Association and Science Communication Series partnered to hold Jefferson’s first Science Slam at the Venture Café. The speakers were graduate students and postdocs who competed to present their science in an engaging, accessible manner. First place went to Dr. Melissa Molho, postdoc; PhD students Alexandra Ciuciu and Sushrut Shah placed second and third, respectively. Keep an eye out for more events that connect researchers to the public in an engaging way.

Quick Reminder
