Happy Halloween!

NEW!! Check out our OPWPC Resources Page in Canvas

The OPWPC has a one-stop shop for tips on scholarly communication for Jefferson authors in Canvas. We have created 3-5 minute video presentations and posted helpful resources on topics such as authorship, abstract writing, inclusive writing, and more.

To access the Canvas page, respond to this email and ask to be added to the course. Once you've had a chance to look around, let us know your thoughts. We welcome any feedback.

First Friday Writing Retreats Continue – This Friday

The OPWPC will host a virtual First Friday Writing Retreat this Friday, November 3rd. The retreat will run from 9 AM to 4 PM and give you the chance to focus on your writing projects at any stage of the process. Work independently, get feedback from a member of the OPWPC team, or consult a Scott librarian. Sometimes all you need is dedicated time, so take advantage of this opportunity! Drop in at any time or stay for the full day—and be sure to register in advance here.

The Annual Yeo Writing Prize is Back

The annual call for submissions to the Yeo Writing Prize and Evanescent literary journal opened October 11th, and submissions will be accepted on a rolling basis through December 31, 2023. This year's theme for both the prize and the journal is LGBTQ+ topics, and all Jeffersonians, Jefferson patients, and members of the Jefferson neighborhoods are invited to submit. Poems, essays, and short fiction will be accepted for the Yeo Writing Prize, and poems, essays, short fiction, and visual art will be accepted for Evanescent. Check back for more information on the cash prize next month! You can access more information and submit your work here.

Learn How AI Impacts Scholarly Writing, Reviewing, and Publishing

The Journal of the American Medical Association (JAMA) and Memorial Sloan Kettering (MSK) Library collaborated on a presentation addressing the impact AI has had on scholarly publication, particularly as it pertains to authors and authorship. That presentation can be accessed in full here.

PUBLICATION SPOTLIGHT

Congratulations to Russell K McIntire, Hee-Soon Juon, Scott W. Keith, Nicole L. Simone, Dexter Waters, Eleanor Lewis, and Charnita Zeigler-Johnson for publishing their paper, "A novel method for measuring the burden of breast cancer in neighborhoods" in Preventative Medicine Reports.

REMINDERS

Scott Memorial Library renovations

The fourth floor of Scott Memorial Library remains closed for the foreseeable future while the Archives are undergoing an exciting renovation. Stay tuned for more news on that closer to the new year!
