THOMAS K. BILLS

DOCTOR OF HUMANE LETTERS—DEREK ERNEST DENNY-BROWN

Derek Ernest Denny-Brown was born in Christchurch, New Zealand, on June 1, 1901. He received his M.B. and Ch.B. from Otago University in New Zealand in 1924 and became a Demonstrator in Anatomy. Interested in problems of posture and movement, the young anatomist was skeptical about some of the prevailing views and he went to Oxford University in England where he was a Beit Fellow from 1925 to 1928.

From 1928 to 1931 he was Resident Medical Officer at the National Hospital, Queen Square, London, and from 1931 to 1935 he was Registrar in Neurology at Guy's Hospital. Here his studies continued, both in animals and in man.

In 1935 Dr. Denny-Brown was elected to full staff appointment, Assistant Physician, at the National Hospital. The same year he became Neurologist at Saint Bartholomew's Hospital.

In 1936 Dr. Denny-Brown went to Yale University and studied the activity of the frontal lobes in monkeys. American scholars had a chance to see and hear first-hand the young man who could speak with knowledge and authority about both clinical and laboratory investigation.

Dr. Denny-Brown became Director of the Neurological Unit at the Boston City Hospital in 1939, but when the war broke out he returned to Great Britain to organize a military hospital for head injuries. In 1941 he returned to the United States and to the Neurological Unit at Boston City Hospital and also assumed the position of Professor of Neurology at Harvard Medical School.

The Neurological Unit was a remarkable place. Standards were set and they were maintained, both in the clinic and in the laboratory. Rounds, conferences, clinico-pathological exercises, and seminars were abundant. Dr. Denny-Brown accomplished much in those years. He saw or heard about every patient admitted to the Neurological Service and did two or three months of active visiting on the wards each year. The Neurological Unit has provided the major part of the graduate training for a large proportion of the chairmen of academic departments of neurology in North America.

From 1944 to 1946 he served again with the British Army and while in India became interested in the nutritional problems of prisoners of war and published his observations after the war.

In 1946 he returned to Harvard and Boston as the James Jackson Putnam Professor of Neurology—a position he held until 1968. In 1967 he became Chief of the Section on Neurophysiology and Associate Director of the New England Regional Primate Research Center.

Dr. Denny-Brown served on the Board of Consultants of the National Institutes of Health from 1962 to 1966 and in 1972 became a Fogarty Scholar-in-Residence at the NIH.

He has received honorary degrees from Harvard, Wayne State, Otago, and Glasgow. In 1942 he received the decoration, Officer in the Order of the British Empire, for his work on care of military casualties with head injury. He is an Honorary Fellow of the Royal Society of Medicine, of the College of Physicians of South Africa, and of the Swedish Society of Medical Sciences. He has received the Sherrington Medal, the Leonard Wood Award, the Jacoby Award, and the Modern Medicine Award. He served as President of the Boston Society of Psychiatry and Neurology, of the American Association of Neuropathologists, and of the American Neurological Association. He received a citation in 1947 for his contribution to the work of the Office of Scientific Development in World War II, and another from the Navy in 1964 for his work at Chelsea Naval Hospital.

Dr. Denny-Brown seems never to grow tired. He is a splendid conversationalist and story-teller who knows and loves music, art, and literature. He is a fine sailor and at his summer home in Hancock Point, Maine, spends much of his time under sail.

He is married to the former Sylvia Summerhayes and they are the parents of four sons.

DOCTOR OF HUMANE LETTERS—MILLARD ELWOOD GLADFELTER

Millard Elwood Gladfelter is well known in Philadelphia in general and to the academic community in particular. He was born in rural York County, Pennsylvania, and received his primary and secondary education in York. In addition to his many accomplishments he has a special interest in the history of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and lectures on the culture, folklore, and history of the Pennsylvania Dutch.

His Bachelor of Arts Degree was earned at Gettysburg College, his Master of Arts from the University of Wisconsin, and his Doctor of Philosophy was awarded by the University of Pennsylvania.

He began his illustrious career in education as a teacher of history and later became a Principal and supervising Principal in the West York School system. In 1931 he moved to Temple University as Director of the High School. Over the ensuing three decades his superiors and his peers recognized his ability, accomplishments and devotion to Temple University in many ways. His career was capped in 1967 when he was appointed Chancellor of the University. Previously he had been President, Vice President and Provost, and Registrar.

During his tenure as President, Temple University achieved national prominence and assumed a leadership position in the educational community. Dr. Gladfelter led his institution into a fruitful partnership with the state of Pennsylvania with Temple becoming a key part of the Commonwealth's system of higher education.

He has served in many educational capacities including the Executive Committee of the Pennsylvania State Council on Education, as President of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, as President of the Pennsylvania Association of Colleges and Universities, and many others.

His community interests are numerous and include involvement in the Kiwanis Club, the Boy Scouts of America, the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce, the United Fund, the Goodwill Industries, and the Philadelphia '76 Bicentennial Corporation. He has had a long and abiding interest in the Lutheran Church and its educational activities. Dr. Gladfelter has served on the Board of many educational and business organizations including Muhlenberg College, Ursinus College, Gettysburg College, the Philadelphia Bible Society, the Philadelphia Free Library, the Philadelphia Life Insurance Company, and the Continental Bank and Trust Company.

Many honors have been bestowed on Millard Gladfelter including an honorary degree from his alma mater and 17 other institutions of higher learning—a tribute to his educational and administrative prowess. He has also received the National Humanitarian Award of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, and the Samuel S. Fels Medal.

A special interest of Dr. Gladfelter's is painting and his oils have been shown in several exhibitions. Dr. Gladfelter is married to the former Martha Louise Gaut and they have two sons.

DOCTOR OF SCIENCE—HOBART ANSTETH REIMANN

Hobart Ansteth Reimann was born in Buffalo, New York, on October 31, 1897, and received his medical degree from the University of Buffalo in 1921. He subsequently served his internship at the Buffalo General Hospital and then spent several years as an Assistant in the Hospital of the Rockefeller Institute where he engaged in clinical investigative work. In 1926 he went to Europe to spend a year as a Fellow in Pathology in Prague.

His teaching career began as Associate Professor of Medicine in the Peking Union Medical College in China, where he continued active research for three years. He returned to the United States and was appointed Associate Professor of Medicine at the University of Minnesota Medical School in Minneapolis. Shortly thereafter he was appointed Professor of Medicine and Head of the Department of Medicine at that institution.

Dr. Reimann was appointed the Magee Professor of Medicine and Chairman of the Department of Medicine at Jefferson in October 1936. He came to Jefferson with a reputation for attainment in scientific medicine, particularly in the area of Infectious Diseases, especially pneumonia, typhus, and scarlet fever.

The Department of Medicine underwent tremendous expansion during his years at Jefferson in spite of many adversities—including the Great Depression. He will always be remembered for his "grand rounds" and sessions in the Clinical Amphitheater when students, house officers and faculty were frequently subjected to intense quizzing which moved one to commit to memory the clinical facts concerning 20 or 30 patients so as not to be embarrassed by the "Professor". He never permitted the neophyte to become imprecise, sloppy in dress or manner, or to show any lack of respect for fellow humans.

Dr. Reimann resigned as the Magee Professor of Medicine and Chairman of the Department at Jefferson in October of 1951. Following his departure from Jefferson, he served as a visiting Professor of Medicine at the American University of Beirut in Lebanon from 1952 to 1954, as a visiting Professor of Medicine at the University of Indonesia in 1955, and as visiting Professor of Medicine at the University of Shiraz (Persia) from 1957 to 1959. In 1960 Dr. Reimann returned to Philadelphia as Professor of Medicine at the Hahnemann Medical College where he continues his activities.

His honors and awards are numerous. He received the Charles V. Chapin Medal from the Rhode Island State Medical Society in 1951 and was cited for distinguished service in medical education by the University of Buffalo, his alma mater, in 1951. He has also received the Hahnemann Corporation Medal for Distinguished Service in 1969 and the Shaffrey Award of the Medical Alumni of Saint Joseph's College in Philadelphia in 1974. The Class of 1951 of Jefferson Medical College bestowed upon him a particular honor by presenting his portrait to the College.

Dr. Reimann has contributed over 250 publications to the medical literature including over 40 consecutive annual reviews of Infectious Diseases for the Archives of Internal Medicine and the British Postgraduate Medical Journal. Dr. Reimann has made three major contributions to Medicine—he was the first to describe viral and mycoplasma pneumonia, periodic disorders, and viral dysentery.

Dr. Reimann is a member of numerous societies, including the Association of American Physicians and the American Society for Clinical Investigation.

He is an artist of some note—one of his works was the subject of the front cover of the Journal of the American Medical Association. He lives with his wife, Cecilia, in Penn Valley.

THE ACADEMIC COSTUME

The wearing of academic dress dates back to the early days of the oldest universities in the world. In the American Council on Education's book entitled "American Universities and Colleges" it is suggested that "gowns may have been counted necessary for warmth in the unheated buildings frequented by medieval scholars. Hoods seem to have served to cover the tonsured head . . ."

Throughout the years European universities have continued to show great diversity in their academic dress. American universities, on the other hand, when they decided to adopt academic dress about sixty years ago, immediately established a code of regulations which today is followed by almost all American institutions. The establishment of this code has made it possible to distinguish the Associates, Bachelors, Masters, and Doctors and at the same time recognize the university which has given them the degree.

The Associate in Arts and Bachelor's gowns have pointed sleeves and are worn closed. The Master's gown has oblong sleeves, open at the wrist. The rear part of its oblong shape is square cut and the front part has an arc cut away, and is worn open or closed. The Doctor's gown has bell-shaped sleeves. It is worn opened or closed. Cotton poplin or similar material is used for the Associate's, Bachelor's and Master's degrees, and rayon or silk ribbed material is used for the Doctor's degree. All gowns are black except for the Associate in Arts degree which is gray.

The hoods vary in length: 48 inches for the Doctor's degree, 42 inches for the Master's, and 36 inches for the Bachelor's and Associate's. All hoods are lined in silk in the academic color or colors of the institution conferring the degree. If the institution has more than one color, the colors are shown in divisions using chevrons. The binding or edge of the Doctor's, Master's and Bachelor's hoods are usually made of velvet in the color designating the subject in which the degree was granted. The Associate of Arts hood has no velvet border. The outside is black.

Black mortarboards are worn for all degrees.

Some of the colors in the bindings of the hoods are:

white	Arts and Letters	olive green	Pharmacy
lilac	Dentistry	dark blue	Philosophy
light blue	Education	salmon pink	Public Health
green	Medicine	golden yellow	Science

The colors of the linings of the hoods for some Philadelphia medical institutions are:

red and blue	University of Pennsylvania	blue and gold	Hahnemann Medical College
blue and white	Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science	silver gray and scarlet ..	The Medical College of Pennsylvania
black and blue	Thomas Jefferson University	white and cherry	Temple University

The Jefferson Processional

The Jefferson Processional was commissioned by the Alumni Association of Jefferson Medical College and played for the first time on November 15, 1974, at the Sesquicentennial Celebration of Jefferson Medical College of Thomas Jefferson University.

This piece was presented to Thomas Jefferson University by the President of the Alumni Association of Jefferson Medical College, Dr. John J. Gartland.

The composition was composed by Burle Marx.
