I hope you will enjoy reading and proudly note the activities of The Association, School of Nursing and Hospital.

As a retiring officer, I humbly Thank the Officers, Committee Chairmen, Committee Members, Board of Directors and faithful attendees at meetings, without whose tremendous help I could not have served as, your President.

Sincerely yours,

Vivian I. Moyer, President

SOCIAL COMMITTEE

The Social Committee has attempted to plan several functions for the association this year so that everyone could meet and have a social “get together.”

On Thursday, March 1, 1960, we had a very enjoyable Buffet supper and an Auction Sale. The proceeds from the Auction Sale of $151.46 was placed in the Relief Fund.

A dinner for the Graduating Class of 1960 was held on Wednesday, May 25, 1960 at the John Bartram Hotel. There was 100% in attendance.

It has been a policy that our Alumnae Luncheon is always planned for the First Saturday in May. This year it was held at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel on Saturday, May 7, 1960. There was an attendance of 364. Following the luncheon there were conducted tours of the new Nurses Residence.

A very enjoyable Christmas Party and Buffet Supper was held at the Nurses Residence on Thursday, December 9, 1960. Each one that attended received a gift from Santa Claus. Miss Mary Ann Stauffer was our very delightful Santa Claus.

We hope that you will mark the date on your Calendar for the Annual Luncheon as the First Saturday in May.

Again we Thank each and every Alumnae Member for their continued support in attending these affairs.

BETTY PIERSOL, Chairman
MARGARET SUMMERS, Co-Chairman

THE CLARA MELVILLE SCHOLARSHIP FUND

All organized fund-raising efforts during 1960 were directed toward the Relief Fund. Nevertheless, the scholarship investment was increased by somewhat more than $1,000.00—the interest from the investment — bringing the total to $21,000.00. The Scholarship Fund also received a bequest of $500.00 from the estate of Ella Shoemaker ’16.

Scholarships of $500.00 each were awarded to Norma Jean Dawson ’56 and Barbara Godfrey Smith ’55. Miss Dawson is attending the School of Nursing, University of Pennsylvania and Miss Smith, the School of Nursing, University of Colorado.

Each year this committee attempts to bring you accurate news and items of interest about your association and hospital. The committee appreciates any suggestions offered by alumnae members for future Bulletins.

We wish to extend our gratitude to all of those that have helped us.

PRIVATE DUTY NURSES' SECTION

The Private Duty Section of the Alumnae has had a very busy year. Although we are a very small group now, at times we are much in demand. We regret that our section does not attract new graduates, but perhaps we can hope for increased membership in the future.

With so much activity in other professional and commercial registries, our big question so frequently is "Will the Jefferson Nurses Alumnae Registry stay in existence?" We hope so!

REPORT OF THE SCHOOL OF NURSING AND NURSING SERVICE

Looking back over the past decade we can point with pride to the many progressive changes made at Jefferson. I am happy to report that Jefferson is still forging ahead, and that during the next decade we shall see the completion of some projects, and the beginning of others in the development and expansion program planned for the Jefferson of Tomorrow.

The first step in this program was the building of the new Nurses' Residence opened in 1959.

We are proud to announce that in December 1960, the School of Nursing was granted full accreditation by the National League for Nursing. This is a major accomplishment for the year 1960, and represents much effort and hard work on the part of the faculty, and complete confidence and support on the part of the Board of Trustees and the Hospital Administration. Although we have attained this coveted status, we must not be complacent, but continue our efforts to improve the educational program, and maintain our full accreditation.

One of the major problems confronting all schools of nursing today is the difficulty in securing an adequate number of qualified faculty members to conduct the programs. Several years ago, the universities and colleges discontinued the program offering a baccalaureate degree in nursing education, thus eliminating the major source of supply of instructors. School enrollments have increased over the same period, increasing even more the need for faculty.

We are making every effort to meet any deficiencies we may have either in number or preparation of faculty members. In addition to our faculty, college level in-service program, made possible by an endowment fund sponsored by the Nurses' Residence Department of the Women's Board, we have been successful in initiating another program to offer required courses in education to our key nursing personnel.

On February 1961, a cooperative program between Jefferson Nursing Department and Pennsylvania State University was established. Classes in education for graduate nurses are being conducted in the Medical College by faculty of the Pennsylvania State University. College credit will be granted. For this Initial program in which twenty-seven faculty members, supervisors, and head nurses are participating, the hospital is assuming total financial responsibility. We are looking forward to expanding this program next semester, probably offering it to nurses employed at other hospitals.

In January 1961, the Board of Trustees approved our recommendation for more faculty positions with salaries which meet Pennsylvania Nurses' Association recommendations and are commensurate with the preparation and experience of the faculty member. If the education program is to progress, we must have qualified instructors in proper ratio to the number of students enrolled in the school. We should like to enlist your assistance in helping us to fill these positions. If any of you are interested in and qualified for teaching positions, or if you know anyone with such qualifications, we hope that you will contact the Director of the school of Nursing.

A tour through the hospital would show you the many changes in the physical facilities made during the past year. Among these, is the renovated Intensive Care Unit which is now a thirteen-bed facility, with wall oxygen and suction. Through the generosity of the Women's Board and its various committees, we have been able to place in this unit, some of the most modern and effective life-saving equipment.

Another major change which shall be completed within a month is the closing of Barton Memorial Division on South Broad Street, and its moving into the completely renovated Medical Floor of the Main Building. The Barton Division will occupy the area in which Men's Medical, Women's Neurology, and Center Wards were located. Twenty-seven beds will be assigned to the Barton Unit, and twenty-seven beds at the former Women's Medical site, to Medicine. Instead of the large open wards, patients will enjoy two or four-bed rooms with baths in each. Each unit will have a patient lounge. The expansion and development program provides for the rehabilitation of the entire Main Building to be completed within the next five years, at a cost of $5,000,000.

These projects are only the beginning of the major plans for the expansion of our Medical Center, a tremendous undertaking which will cost $40,000,000 and will be completed in a fifteen-year period. We invite you to return to us as staff members and guests, and to share with us the new Jefferson as it unfolds each year.

The Nursing Offices are being extended, and will soon occupy all of the office space to the corridor which connects the Thompson Annex and the Pavilion Buildings. This project will provide offices for both the School of Nursing and Nursing Service personnel. In addition, more instructors' offices are being constructed on each patient Pavilion Floor where students are assigned for experience.

As each new unit opens, more nursing personnel are required. Recognizing the continued need for nurses to give good patient care, the Board of Trustees in January, 1961, approved our recommendations for salary increases for professional and practical nurses. With the exception of government hospitals, we now offer the highest starting salaries in the area. Because of this, we have been able to employ more nurses. Romance and marriage with all their complications, however, cause a rapid turnover in the young general staff group, and we are still in need of more nurses. Again, we need your help in recruiting more staff.

Miss Betty Pierisol and Miss Margaret Summers rallied to the cause and are conducting a refresher program for some of our graduates who have been away from active practice. The enthusiasm of the "students" speaks well for the success of the program. We shall be offering another course in the fall and hope that any of you who wish to return to work at Jefferson, but who feel the need to brush up on modern nursing, will contact us.

We have appreciated your many communications during the past year and hope that you will always feel that your school of nursing is interested in you, your activities and plans, and stands ready to offer any support and assistance possible. We are grateful also for your help and understanding when we call upon you.

May the next year be a rich and rewarding one for each of you.

Mabel C. Prevost
Assistant Director
THE STAFF NURSES' ASSOCIATION

The Graduate Nurses’ Association of the Jefferson Medical College Hospital has again been quite active during the year.

The monthly In-Service Educational Programs have been held regularly as were the monthly Business Meetings. The attendance at these meetings has improved.

During the year cards and flowers were sent to those with long hospitalization.

Results of the October election brought two new officers to the Association replacing Janet Hindson and Ann Gallagher. Judith Romack was elected to the Vice-President office and Barbara Hand became Treasurer.

Again this year in January, we sponsored the play “All for Mary”.

In April, the Spring Variety Show was given. The participation included a larger area of the Medical Center than it had in previous years.

May 27th, will bring the Annual Spring Dance which is to be held at the John Bartram Hotel in the Crystal Room.

E. P. Shenk, President

STUDENT ACTIVITIES

The year began with the entrance into the school of the class of 1963. The class of 1961 showed the new students to their rooms in order to establish a good relationship between the classes. This has continued throughout the year.

The Social Committee sponsored the Big Sister - Little Sister party given by the second-year class. The party was held in our recreation room where all students congregated to meet one another and enjoy an entertaining evening.

The first of several dances in the recreation room was held in October. The dances have been well attended. Music is provided by jukebox or band.

Throughout the year, the Nurses Residence Department of the Women’s Board has graciously given us tickets to concerts and the theatre. Everyone who has had an opportunity to attend one of these functions is most appreciative. Six television sets were given to the students in January by the Nurses Residence Department of the Women’s Board. They provide news and entertainment to us after working.

The Music Committee of the Nurses Residence Department of the Women’s Board gave us records at Christmas and Easter. Our residence is more cheerful through the use of these gifts over our intercom system.

The students sponsored the winter dance in McClellan Hall during Christmas Season. In April, the hospital sponsored our dance at the John Bartram Hotel. Both dances were well attended by all classes.

Interest in S.N.A.P. is increasing among the students. Four second and third year students attended and reported on the State Convention. One student from each class attended the N.S.N.A. Convention in Cleveland, Ohio, in April.

Our cheerleaders made us very proud this year by placing first in competition in the Cheerleading Contest of the Basketball League. Our basketball team placed second in the league and has formed a club this year. A bus provided us with transportation to every game so that we were able to cheer our team on to near victory.

The Social Committee sponsored “Fun Nights” in the recreation room throughout the year. Most memorable were the Halloween party and the party given by our Residence Director, Mrs. Patterson. At the Halloween party we bobbed for apples, had our fortunes told, went through a fun house, and awarded prizes for the prettiest, funniest and most unique costumes at the party.

PERSONAL ITEMS OF INTEREST

E. Bloyd Grone, '25, hospital hostess at Geisinger Memorial Hospital and Fox Clinic in Danville. This is a special program of patient care and the key responsibility of the hostess is to visit patients in the private rooms and wards to make certain that no patient becomes a mere medical file number going through the hospital or clinic.

Gladys McConnell Temple, '47, expects to settle in Balboa, Canal Zone until retirement.

Adele Lewis, '15, retired after 35 years of faithful service to Jefferson. She is living in Port Meyers, Florida.

$40 MILLION EXPANSION SET BY JEFFERSON

JEFFERSON MEDICAL COLLEGE and MEDICAL CENTER announced a $40,000,000 development program that will triple the center city area occupied by the institution.

President Bodine called the program “the most important single undertaking by Jefferson since its founding in 1829.”

Designated as “top priority” structures are a proposed $10,800,000 Basic Science Building on the south-west corner of 10th and Locust Streets, and a $2,000,000 Student Commons Building on the southeast corner of 11th and Locust Streets.

Scheduled later are an administration building and a “complex of residential facilities” to house 1000 persons.

An urgent need for research space put the Basic Science Building at the head of the priority list and would enable the college to increase its enrollment. It would also make possible an expansion amounting to about $1,000,000 a year in research.

Plans call for the acquisition of land bounded by 10th, 11th, Walnut and Spruce Streets, extending Jefferson to a north-south distance of a quarter of a mile.

The rehabilitated second floor of the Main Hospital, scheduled for occupancy this spring will house the Barton Division of Diseases of the Chest. Expert planning assures even finer service for these patients and convenient relation to the key laboratories.
THE ARTIFICIAL KIDNEY UNIT

The Artificial Kidney Unit is a specially designed area on the North side of the 5th Floor, Thompson Building. This area provides facilities for extra-corporal hemodialysis for hospital inpatients.

The Unit consists of two rooms. One room is utilized as a dialysis room where the patient is kept on circulation with an artificial kidney. The adjacent room is designed as a laboratory, where all necessary hematology and blood chemistry studies can be performed immediately prior to, during and at the completion of the dialysis. Now operational, this unit will provide better care to patients in acute renal failure than has been possible at Jefferson in the past. This unit is available on a 24-hour basis to both private and ward patients.

INDICATIONS FOR DIALYSIS

Dialysis with an artificial kidney may be indicated in patients with acute renal failure having:

1) hyperkalemia with electrocardiographic changes
2) water overloading
3) rapidly rising blood urea nitrogen
4) general clinical deterioration, such as convulsions or stupor.

It may be indicated also in selected patients with chronic renal failure, and in patients who have ingested certain drugs or poisons. Dialysis may be contraindicated in patients in shock, or actively bleeding.

PROCEDURE TO OBTAIN DIALYSIS

Dialysis must be performed on hospitalized patients. It is not an outpatient procedure. Arrangements for patients to be seen and evaluated for use of the artificial kidney should be made by contacting James E. Clark, M.D., Department of Medicine, or Donna Reed McCurdy, M.D., Resident in Medicine. The patient, either ward or private, will be seen by a team of physicians who will make recommendations as to whether dialysis is indicated and if indicated what steps must then be taken to effect this. It should be emphasized that a significantly higher mortality rate is associated with delay in the patient receiving proper therapy.

TECHNIC OF DIALYSIS

At the time of dialysis, a plastic cannula is inserted in an artery and another in a vein of the patient. The blood is then pumped from the artery through plastic tubing to the artificial kidney where waste products and selected fluid are removed. The blood is then returned to the patient by way of plastic tubing through the cannula placed in the vein. These cut-down procedures are accomplished under local anesthesia and usually a radial artery and a near-by forearm vein are utilized.

VISITORS TO THE UNIT

Occasionally, members of the family may be permitted to visit the patient during a dialysis procedure if the patient’s condition warrants it. The patient is not anesthetized during the procedure, however, he is usually given sedatives as necessary. The procedure lasts approximately 6 hours while the patient is on circulation on the kidney, and the patient is in the dialysis unit for 7 or 8 hours total time. Usually the patient is returned to the Intensive Care Unit immediately following dialysis.

Visitors and the family of patients undergoing dialysis should use the lounge on the First Floor, Thompson Building, located directly across from the Information Desk.

COST OF DIALYSIS

In addition to the professional fees by the physician staff members of the Artificial Kidney Unit, there will be a Dialyzing Charge of $150 for first dialysis, $100 for each subsequent dialysis.* In addition, the patient will be charged for whatever drugs he utilized while he was in the unit and for any blood given.

Ordinarily three pints of blood must be available at the beginning of a dialysis. Approximately half of the blood is necessary for priming of the machine and from past experience 1,500 ml. of whole blood represents an average amount used during a single dialysis. Unless the patient has specific hematologic defects, it is not necessary to use fresh blood for this procedure. Banked blood, however, must be heparinized and the patient also heparinized.

Jefferson’s Artificial Kidney Unit is unique in that it is the first physical area of its kind designed primarily for this purpose of five other functioning artificial kidney units in the Greater Philadelphia area. There is an artificial kidney unit in the following area hospitals: Cooper Hospital, Germantown Hospital, Hahnemann Medical College Hospital, Temple University Hospital, and the University of Pennsylvania Hospital.

MEDICAL WORK IN THE CONGO

Since 1952 I have been working as a missionary of the Methodist Church in the northern part of the Kasai Province of the former Belgian Congo. We work among the people of the Atetela tribe. Since their diet consists mainly of rice, millet, and cassava greens, their general nutritional state is better than that of many other tribes in Africa, the majority of whom have the cassava root as their staple food. Although the diet is low in protein, we see very little kwashiorkor, a major protein-deficiency disease seen in many other parts of Africa.

Malaria is the most widespread disease, as elsewhere in tropical areas. It is caused by the Plasmodium parasite and is transmitted by the Anopheles mosquito. It kills many babies by cerebral complications, and drags down the health of the adults by destroying red blood cells. We had attempted some programs of control by prophylactic medication, but very little was being done to control the mosquito by spraying.

Sleeping sickness (African Trypanosomiasis) caused by the Trypanosome and transmitted by the Tse-tse fly, is the most tragic disease, because it can cause insanity if not caught in the early stages. A good control system had been practiced for many years. Every person had to carry a medical passport showing that he had had his cervical glands palpated every six months. During the first stage of the disease the Trypanosome can be found in the swollen neck glands. We gave intramuscular injections of Pentamidine every six months as prophylaxis.

Tuberculosis is the most serious public health problem at present. Most cases arrive in the far advanced stage and we were not in a position to do any case-finding, except among the school children for whom we were responsible, because we had no place to hospitalize patients except in our small general hospital. We had opened a camp a few miles from the Mission station where the patients' families could build homes, and a Congolese male aid would care for the patients under supervision of the Mission doctor. Unfortunately all the missionaries had to be evacuated from our area the last of January. We are trying to keep the medications going to our African nurses by United Nations transport and hope that they will keep up the Tuberculosis treatments.

Veneral disease is another great problem. There is much sterility due to Gonorrhea and the area is under-populated, unlike the situation in most of the rest of the world.

Leprosy exists, but is not in a very large percentage, and is not nearly as contagious as popular belief would have it. The most important element in the prevention of leprosy is separating the babies from mothers who have active disease. This is very hard to do in Africa, where all mothers insist on nursing their babies, but we do have baby-folds in connection with our two leprosy camps and manage to raise many healthy children.

Other diseases encountered are Amebiasis, Filariasis, roundworm and hookworm. In our area we do not have Bilharzia, which requires a certain tiny snail for an intermediate host.
Not all diseases are tropical. The Congolese people suffer from most of the illnesses that we have here: infectious hepatitis, poliomyelitis, measles, mumps, pneumonia, colds, etc.

The most common condition requiring surgery are inguinal hernia in the men and uterine tumors in the women and complications of gonorrhea in both. Appendicitis is very rare and I have never seen a case of gall bladder disease. We often see cancer cases, but usually in a stage too advanced to be able to help. The most common causes of trauma are falling trees during the season of clearing the forest for planting, and bicycle accidents. The Congolese seem never to have brakes on their bikes!

Obstetrics is a satisfying kind of work in the Congo. We practice natural childbirth, early ambulation, rooming-in and demand breast feeding — everything the most natural possible. The greatest danger is hemorrhage because of the ever-present anemia. There is very little toxemia and the rate of Cesarian sections and forceps deliveries is very low. We do few sections partly because there are fewer indications and partly because we must consider that in the next pregnancy the woman may not come to the hospital and may have a ruptured uterus in the village. This did happen even when there were doctors within reach — the woman says, “They cut me last time, so I’m going to have my baby at home this time.” Now when there are no doctors available, I am especially glad we were cautious about leaving scarred uteri behind us. We have about 600 deliveries a year in our 15-bed Maternity. About 15 sets of twins are born a year, a much higher incidence than in the white race. In some parts of Africa the people used to kill at least one of the twins, but I haven’t been able to discover that our people did that. When twins are born the family shakes rattles and sings many different songs, appearing very happy to welcome the babies. In the days before the missionary medical people arrived when a mother died in childbirth the baby was always buried with her. Partly this was because the mother’s family believed the baby was a witch, responsible for the mother’s death, and partly because there was no knowledge of artificial feeding and it was too heart-breaking to listen to the baby’s feeble cry as it slowly starved to death. Now the baby is brought in immediately to a Mission hospital where the family knows it will be fed and lovingly cared for.

In the days before the Congo became independent, there was a network of hospitals, dispensaries and health services throughout the Public Health service and at the Public Service Council. All these doctors were European (Belgian, American, British, Scandinavian). There is not one Congolese physician. The highest trained Congolese are called “medical assistants”; then there are graduate nurses, nurse-aids, midwives and sanitary assistants. Most of the medical personnel, except the midwives, are men. The education of women lags far behind in all fields because of early marriage and the bride-price system.

I believe Public Health to be the most significant aspect of the medical work in a country like the Congo. The Belgians carried on programs of control of smallpox, leprosy and sleeping sickness and were making a great start in tuberculous and other diseases. They sent us the drugs and our personnel carried on the program in the area for which we were responsible. There still remained, however, tremendous challenges in preventive medicine and health teaching. With our hospital at Wembo Nyanza as the center, we had established dispensaries in six strategic locations throughout the district. A nurse-aide lived in each of the villages with his family and was responsible for the medical care of that village and surrounding country. Each month I made a visit to each dispensary to supervise, help the nurse with his problems, and hold prenatal and well-baby clinics.

Medical missionary work in the Congo has been very satisfying to me, in spite of the great gaps I can see in what we have done. My training was in nursing education and nurse-midwifery, but I had no preparation in Public Health. I plan to remedy this lack during the next year, since it seems unlikely that I will be able to return to Wembo Nyanza very soon. I do expect to go back there later when the Congolese people have worked out a stable government and restored law and order. Meanwhile missionaries are at work in many other areas and emergency medical needs are being met by WHO and private organizations such as Church World Service. The Congolese medical personnel themselves are carrying on valiantly in their local areas under great difficulties. In their letters they express a need for the prayers of their Christian friends in America. In this way, even when we cannot go there ourselves, we can back them up in their work of healing, which is surely one of the most direct ways of demonstrating God’s love for mankind.
