Peter A. Herbut succeeded William W. Bodine, Jr. as the Third President of Jefferson Medical College in an impressive ceremony held May 3 at the Academy of Music. In 1969 he would become the First President of Thomas Jefferson University. Dr. Herbut, formerly Chairman of Pathology at Jefferson, was the first faculty member to become a President of the institution (Fig. 402).

The graduation exercises were held on June 2 at the Academy of Music. Peter A. Herbut, the new President of the College, conferred the M.D. degrees upon 161 graduates. The Address was delivered by Honorable Raymond P. Shafer, LL.B., Governor of Pennsylvania.

In this year a School of Allied Health Sciences was established, which in two years would become the College of Allied Health Sciences within the newly formed Thomas Jefferson University. John W. Goldschmidt (JMC, ’54, Fig. 353) became its first Dean.

In December, 1967, under the initiative of President Peter A. Herbut, the Graduate School became more formally organized. Two years later it would become the College of Graduate Studies of Thomas Jefferson University.

In 1967 the Louis B. and Ida K. Orlowitz Residence Hall for students and house staff was opened at the southwest corner of Tenth and Walnut Streets. This 20-floor, 239-apartment building at a cost of $4.7 million also provided for social and professional gatherings (Fig. 403).

Joseph Martin Giordano, after internship and residency at George Washington University, worked at Walter Reed Army Hospital for three years and then joined the surgical staff at George Washington University Hospital in 1976, advancing to Professor of Surgery (Fig. 404). He headed the trauma unit that received President Ronald Regan on March 30, 1981, at the time of the assassination attempt. Dr. Giordano performed the chest surgery that saved the President’s life. The President required 3 1/2 units of blood in the emergency room and 4 1/2 units during the operation.

Ralph Riddall Dobelbower, Jr. became an Assistant Professor of Radiation Therapy and Nuclear Medicine at Jefferson. He pioneered in improved techniques for radiation therapy of pancreatic cancer.

Joseph Frederick Laucius, of Delaware, entered the field of medical oncology and became prominent at Jefferson Hospital and in the College as Assistant Professor of Medicine (Fig. 405).

Elliott James Rayfield went on to become Professor of Medicine and Chief of the Diabetes Section, Mount Sinai School of Medicine.

Anthony Michael Padula took his surgery residency at Jefferson and became a member of the Jefferson affiliate staff at Chestnut Hill Hospital.

Other academically affiliated members of the class included Charles B. Higgins, Professor of Radiology at the University of California, San Francisco; Jonathan L. Williams, Professor of Radiology, University of Florida Affiliated Hospitals, Gainesville; John S. Wills, Associate Professor of Radiology at Jefferson; Isabel C. Yoder, Assistant Professor of Radiology at Massachusetts General Hospital; Marc A. Shuman, Associate Professor of Internal Medicine at University of California, San Francisco; Charles A. Meyer, Jr., Associate Professor of Psychiatry, Medical College of Georgia, Augusta; Claire Langston, Associate Professor of Pathology, Baylor College of Medicine, Houston; Clifford C. Kuhn, Associate Professor of Psychiatry, University of Louisville; Stephen Frytak, Associate Professor of Oncology at Mayo Graduate School of Medicine, Rochester; and Elliott M. Badder, Associate Professor of Surgery, University of Maryland, Baltimore.

Commencement was held on May 31 in the Academy of Music. The M.D. degrees were conferred by President Peter A. Herbut upon 156 graduates, which brought the grand total of alumni to 21,152. The Address was delivered by Keith Spalding, B.A., LL.D., President of Franklin and Marshall College.

Ira Roy Tannebaum, in the joint Penn State-Jefferson five-year program, won the Alumni prize for highest average and several other clinical awards. He took his residency in general surgery at Jefferson and entered private practice in Potomac, Maryland.

Raphael Joseph DeHoratius took a residency in internal medicine and a fellowship in rheumatology at the University of New Mexico. He joined the faculty of the New Mexico University School of Medicine and conducted research in pathogenetic immune mechanisms in connective tissue diseases. In 1974 he joined the Division of Rheumatology at Jefferson and continued his studies of defects in immune regulation in systemic lupus erythematosus (Fig. 406). He rose to the rank of full Professor of Medicine in 1982, at which time he accepted a position as Director of Immunology and Rheumatology in the Department of Medicine at Hahnemann University.

Noble Thompson, Jr., an honor graduate, after training in radiology transferred from the Martin Luther King, Jr. Hospital in Los Angeles to Jefferson in 1976. He then progressed to the rank of Clinical Associate Professor of Radiology.

Several class members joined the teaching staff at Jefferson: Robert E. Bellet, Associate Professor of Medicine (Cardiology); David A. Berd, also Associate Professor of Medicine; Donald D. Serota, winner of the Potter Prize, Clinical Assistant Professor of Psychiatry and Human Behavior; and John C. Baylis, Instructor in Pathology and Cell Biology.

Class members serving in other institutions included: Thomas J. Gal, Professor of Anesthesiology, Hospital of the University of Virginia, Charlottesville; Friedrich C. Luft, Professor of Internal Medicine, Indiana University Hospitals, Indianapolis; Robert C. Kurtz, Associate Professor of Medicine, New York Hospital; Joel A. Kaplan, Professor of Anesthesiology, Mount Sinai Hospital, New York; John Lazarchick, Associate Professor of Pathology, Medical University of South Carolina, Charleston; Charles E. Sparks, Associate Professor of Pathology, Strong Memorial Hospital of University of Rochester, New York; Stephen J. Thomas, Associate Professor of Anesthesiology, New York Hospital; Philip E. Donahue, Associate Professor of Surgery, University of Illinois Hospital, Chicago; Robert A. Jacobs, Associate Professor of Pediatrics, Los Angeles County USC Medical Center, Los Angeles; John A. Jeffries, Assistant Professor of Obstetrics/Gynecology, Mayo Graduate School of Medicine, Rochester; Robert J. Risimini, Assistant Professor of Family Practice, Robert Wood Johnson Medical School, Piscataway; Gill R. Alderfer, Assistant Professor of Obstetrics/Gynecology, and Charles M. Brooks, Assistant Professor of Internal Medicine, both at Hahnemann University.

"Seeming failures are often just the threads of a larger tapestry. . . . A willingness to accept the risk of failure is the price of all success."

Howard Shapiro (Science: 250, 609, 1990)
Through the efforts of Peter A. Herbut, President of the Medical College, University Status was achieved for Jefferson by a Charter received in City Hall on May 20, 1969 (Fig. 407). At this juncture the new members of the Board were no longer required to be sworn into Trusteeship. On a reference date of July 1, 1969, the four divisions of Thomas Jefferson University were established as (1) Jefferson Medical College, (2) College of Graduate Studies, (3) College of Allied Health Sciences, and (4) Thomas Jefferson University Hospital. It was created as a totally health related, medically oriented University. Dr. Herbut thus became the first President of the University.

The M.D. degree was conferred by President Herbut upon 166 graduates. The Address was delivered by Frederic K. Miller, Ph.D., Commissioner for Higher Education of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Among the members of the class who obtained academic appointments at Jefferson were: Robert Abel, Jr., Clinical Associate Professor of Ophthalmology; Salvatore P. Girardo, Clinical Assistant Professor of Medicine and Chairman of the...

Sweeney, Jr., M.D. (Hospital Director); James M. Large (Board Chairman); Judge Vincent Carroll; Peter A. Herbut, M.D. (President); N. Ramsay Pennypacker (Vice President for Development); George M. Norwood (Vice-President for Planning); and William F. Kellow, M.D. (Dean).
Department of Medicine at Methodist Hospital, a teaching affiliate; William G. Chodoff, Clinical Assistant Professor of Pediatrics; Linda L. Weinberg, Clinical Assistant Professor of Pediatrics; Donald L. Tomasello, Clinical Assistant Professor of Surgery; Anthony J. Del Rossi (Fig. 408), Clinical Assistant Professor of Surgery; and Richard L. Allman, Clinical Assistant Professor of Medicine.

A large number in the class obtained academic teaching appointments in institutions other than Jefferson. Among these were: Lawrence S. Berman, Associate Professor in the Departments of Anesthesiology and Pediatrics at the University of Florida; James D. Heckman, Professor and Deputy Chairman in the Department of Orthopaedics at the University of Texas Health Science Center at San Antonio; Jay S. Skyler, Professor of Medicine and Associate Professor of Pediatrics at Miami University School of Medicine and the recipient of the 1985 Distinguished Achievement Award of the American Society of Contemporary Medicine and Surgery; Barry S. Smith, Assistant Professor in the Department of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation at Baylor College of Medicine, Houston, Texas; Kenneth L. Wible, Associate Professor of Pediatrics at the West Virginia University School of Medicine and Vice-Chairman of the West Virginia Chapter of the American Academy of Pediatrics; Benjamin P. Seltzer, Professor of Neurology and Psychiatry, Tulane University School of Medicine; Harold R. Hansen, Associate Professor in the Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Science of the University of Louisville School of Medicine, given the "Golden Apple Award" for outstanding teaching by the class of 1980; Robert A. Lustig, Assistant Professor of Radiation Therapy and Nuclear Medicine at Cooper Medical Center, Camden; Richard A. Insel, Assistant Professor of Pediatrics at the University of Rochester Medical Center where he carried out research for developing a vaccine for prevention of infections by Hemophilus influenza, Type B; Sander J. Levinson, Assistant Professor of Medicine at Temple University with special orientation in pulmonary diseases; and John F. Frantz, Instructor in Ophthalmology at Eastern Virginia Medical School, Norfolk.

Other members of the class with academic appointments were: Jesse H. Wright, III, Professor of Psychiatry, University of Louisville, Kentucky; James Winter, Associate Professor of Radiology at U.C.L.A. Medical Center, Los Angeles; William J. Snape, Professor of Medicine, U.C.L.A. Medical Center, Los Angeles; Robert M. MacMillan, Jr., Associate Professor of Medicine, Gerald A. Mandell, Associate Professor of Radiology, and Peter M. Anson, Associate Professor Surgery, all at Hahnemann University; John H. Bauer, Associate Professor of Medicine, University of Missouri, Columbia; Garret E. Bergman, Professor of Pediatrics, Medical College of Pennsylvania; Donna L. Cooper, Associate Professor of Obstetrics/Gynecology, U.S.C. Medical Center, Los Angeles; Judith M. Cooper, Associate Professor of Internal Medicine, Wayne State University, Detroit; Peter M. Farmer, Assistant Pro-
Professor of Pathology, S.U.N.Y. Downstate Medical Center, New York; Kay Ellen Frank, Assistant Professor of Surgery, Case Western Reserve University, Cleveland; James E. Goodrick, Associate Professor of Anesthesiology, University of California, Irvine; Truvar V. Kuzmowych, Assistant Professor of Medicine, George Washington University, Washington, D.C.; Thomas A. This year marked the Centennial of the founding of the Alumni Association. The event was celebrated by a performance of the London Philharmonic Orchestra at the Academy of Music which over 2,000 alumni, faculty and guests attended. A preceding dinner was held with the Governor as guest, and a reception followed at Jefferson Alumni Hall (Fig. 409). The statue of Samuel D. Gross, the founder, was moved from Smithsonian Park in Washington, D.C. to Jefferson’s Scott Plaza and rededicated for the Centennial (Fig. 410).

The Scott Library/Administration Building was dedicated in 1970. In September of this year the library collection was moved from the 1025 Walnut Street Medical College. A spacious 53,000 square-foot area contrasted to the former 9,000. At the time of moving the collection comprised over 68,000 volumes with subscriptions to over 1,200 journals. The new building was an architectural gem and the library itself one of the best of its kind in the country (Fig. 411).

Exercises were held at the Academy of Music on June 5 at which time the M.D. degree was conferred by President Peter A. Herbut upon 166 graduates. The Address was delivered by the Honorable Hugh Scott, A.B., LL.B., U.S. Senator, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The Alumni Prize for highest cumulative average was won for the first time by a woman, Marie Vincenza Olivieri Russell, who went on to become Associate Professor of Pediatrics and Director of the Division of Pediatric Hematology at Hahnemann University (Fig. 412).

Among other members of the class who achieved academic affiliation in teaching institutions other than Jefferson were: William C. Lambert, Assistant Professor of Pathology at the College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey, and member of the editorial staff of the Journal of the American Academy of Dermatology; Harvey B. Lefton, Clinical Professor of Medicine at the Medical College of Pennsylvania, who contributed a book chapter on Inflammatory Bowel Disease; Ronald A. Some members who obtained teaching appointments at Jefferson were: Peter D. Pizzutillo, Clinical Associate Professor of Orthopaedics and Director of Pediatric Orthopaedics; Jacquelyn Zavodnick, Clinical Associate Professor of Psychiatry and Human Behavior; Charles R. Schleifer, Clinical Assistant Professor of Medicine; William J. Bainbridge, Instructor in Family Medicine at Jefferson’s affiliate, Bryn Mawr; Seth A. Malin, Clinical Assistant Professor of Surgery; and John W. Breckenridge, Clinical Assistant Professor of Radiology and President of the Greater Delaware Valley Ultrasound Society.

Neil O. Thompson served for some years at Manorom Christian Hospital, Thailand, experiencing all the stresses of frontier medicine during the turbulent years of Southeast Asian wars.

William E. Whiteman of this class was killed in the Vietnam War on October 19, 1971. A plaque in his memory and also honoring other alumni who served in the conflict was erected at Jefferson (Fig. 413).

President Peter A. Herbut conferred the M.D. degree upon 186 graduates at the Academy of Music Commencement on June 11. Governor of Pennsylvania Milton J. Shapp gave the Address.

Joseph Louis Seltzer served a residency in surgery at Geisinger Medical Center following which he changed his career to anesthesiology with a residency at Jefferson (1973-75). After appointments at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton, Ohio, and State University Hospital, Syracuse, New York, he returned to Jefferson as a Staff Anesthesiologist. Upon the retirement of Dr. Jay Jacoby in 1984, he succeeded him as Professor and Chairman of the Department. Dr. Seltzer has published widely in the fields of physiologic and pharmacologic research in anesthesiology while continuing to build upon the clinical excellence of his department (Fig. 414).

Virginia Brodhead Clemmer, winner of the Phillips Prize in Surgery, served her residency in surgery at Jefferson and went on to appointment in the Department of Surgery at Wilmington Veterans Administration Hospital.

Cora L. Christian became established in the United States Virgin Islands. In 1975 she received an M.P.H. degree from Johns Hopkins University School of Public Health and went on to become Executive Director of the Virgin Islands Medical Institute and Assistant Commissioner of Health for the Islands. In 1985 she was elected President of the Virgin Islands Medical Society.

Arthur E. Brown became prominent in the field of oncology. Following training in medicine with special interest in infections, he advanced to Associate Professor of Medicine and Pediatrics, Cornell University School of Medicine on the infectious disease service at Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center. His publications were numerous and he served as Editorial Consultant for the American Journal of Medicine.

William C. Hamilton was trained in Jefferson’s Department of Orthopaedic Surgery and was selected by the American Orthopaedic Association as a North American Traveling Fellow. He returned as Assistant Professor, later becoming associated with Lankenau Hospital. Richard I. Clemmer also became Clinical Assistant Professor of Orthopaedic Surgery at Jefferson.

Among numerous other class members who achieved prominence in their various specialties may be mentioned Jeffrey C. Weiss, Professor of Pediatrics and Director of the Division of General Pediatrics at Jefferson. John L. Nosher in 1985 served as Acting Chairman, Department of Radiology at Rutgers Medical School with the rank of Clinical Assistant Professor of Radiology and Obstetrics/Gynecology. Lowell E. Kobrin was in private practice of Obstetrics/Gynecology with an appointment as Clinical Professor at Oregon Health Services University, Portland. Terrence S. Carden, Editor of both 1970 and 1971 Clinic Yearbooks, served for a time as Editorial Assistant for the Journal of the American Medical Association. Edwin P. Ewing, Jr. was Staff Pathologist, Center for Disease Control, Atlanta, Georgia, with special responsibilities relative to studies of the Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome. Allen E. Summers was Clinical Assistant Professor of Psychiatry and Human Behavior at Jefferson. George W. Dennish, III, was Assistant Clinical Professor of Medicine at the University of California School of Medicine, San Diego, while also Director of Special Care Units at Scripps Memorial Hospital, La Jolla. Francisco J. Garcia-Torres was Clinical Assistant Professor of Medicine at Baylor University College of Medicine, Houston, Texas. Richard W. Bagge was Assistant Professor of Psychiatry, Medical College of Georgia. Arthur S. Tischler in 1986 was advanced to Associate Professor of Pathology, Tufts University School of Medicine. Gregory P. Borkowski was named Chairman of Diagnostic Radiology, Cleveland Clinic Foundation. Ronald H. Hirokawa was Vice-Chairman of Otolaryngology at Naval Medical Center and Assistant Professor of Surgery at Uniformed Services University of Health Sciences. Edward B. Ruby was Assistant Professor of Medicine at Jefferson in the Division of Endocrinology. Paul M. Fernhoff was Assistant Professor of Pediatrics, Emory University.

Other academically associated members of the Class of 1971 included: John A. Belis, Professor of Surgery, Milton S. Hershey Medical Center, Hershey; John W. Bloom, Assistant Professor of Medicine, University of Arizona, Tucson; Thomas A. Brasitus, Professor of Medicine, University of Chicago Hospital; Judith R. Derasse, Assistant Professor of Medicine, Hahnemann University; Henry M. Feder, Jr., Professor of Family Practice, University of Connecticut Hospitals, Farmington; Erwin S. Fleishman, Assistant Professor of Medicine at Jefferson; Robert L. Hellman, Assistant Professor of Pathology at University of Miami Affiliated Hospitals; James J. Nocon, Assistant Professor of Obstetrics/Gynecology, Indiana University Hospitals, Indianapolis; Jay Nogi, Associate Professor of Surgery, Medical College of Virginia, Richmond; Frank R. Student examinations in McClellan Hall.
On January 18, at the Second Session of the Ninety-second Congress of the United States, a resolution was passed by the Senate and House of Representatives recognizing the Thomas Jefferson University of Philadelphia as the first university in the United States to bear the full name of the third President (Fig. 415).

Commencement Exercises were held at the Academy of Music on June 9, and 194 M.D. degrees were conferred by President Peter A. Herbut. The address was delivered by George Alexander Heard, Chancellor of Vanderbilt University.

First honors were won by Fred David Lublin. These included the Alumni Prize, the Potter Prize and the Phillips Prize for academic excellence. Dr. Lublin proceeded to special training in neurology and biochemistry in New York and returned to Jefferson with appointments in both departments. He was promoted in 1986 to full Professor of Neurology. As Vice-Chairman of the Department and Director of the Division of Neuroimmunology he continued as Associate Professor of Biochemistry and Molecular Biology. His special interest was the clinical investigation of multiple sclerosis (Co-Director) with emphasis on its immunological aspects (Fig. 416).

Stanley R. Jacobs served his residency in Jefferson's Department of Rehabilitation Medicine and remained on its staff. He was the Department's representative on the staff of the Arthritis Center, advancing to Clinical Associate Professor (Fig. 417).

Ronald J. Wapner, following his training in obstetrics and gynecology, went on to the position of Director of the Division of Maternal-Fetal Medicine in Jefferson's Department, advancing to Associate Professor of both Obstetrics/Gynecology and Radiology. His studies in genetics and fetal diagnosis using ultrasonography and chorionic villus sampling gained widespread recognition (Fig. 418).

Academically oriented graduates in the 1972 class included Michael L. Eisenmann who became Associate Clinical Professor of Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery at Baylor University College of Medicine, Houston, Texas. Larry H. Klein was Associate Professor of Pathology and Director of Pathology residency at Northeastern Ohio Universities College of Medicine. Arlen D. Meyers became Associate Professor of Otolaryngology at the University of Colorado Health Science Center. Joseph P. Horstmann was Adjunct Clinical Assistant Professor of Pathology and Cell Biology at Jefferson. Bruce L. Gewertz was Associate Professor of Cardiovascular Surgery at the University of Chicago. Stephen P. Flynn served as Clinical Assistant Professor of Family Medicine at Case Western Reserve University. Stephen W. Wong was Assistant Professor of Ophthalmology and Vice-Chairman of the Department at Temple University School of Medicine. William C. Boswell, Jr. was Vice-Chairman of the Department of Radiology at the University of Southern California. Richard E. Brennan served as a Professor of Radiology at Jefferson. Lawrence R. Schiller was Assistant Professor of Medicine (Gastroenterology) at the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School, Dallas. Thomas E. Zukowski was Clinical Associate Professor of Medicine at Temple University School of Medicine. Irwin J. Hollander was Adjunct Clinical Assistant Professor of Pathology and Cell Biology at Jefferson while serving as Director of Pathology for Grand View Hospital, Sellersville. Paul A. Dainer became Assistant Professor of Medicine, University of Florida and hematologist-oncologist at its University Hospital, Jacksonville. Anthony A. Rooklin served as Director of Allergy and Immunology at Crozer-Chester Hospital and Assistant Professor of Pediatrics at Jefferson. James R. Roberts in 1981 was appointed Director of the University of New Mexico Emergency Medical Services and Assistant Professor of Emergency Medicine at the University’s School of Medicine, Albuquerque. Philip C. Hoffman was Assistant Professor of Medicine.
Joint Resolution

To recognize Thomas Jefferson University, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, as the first university in the United States to bear the full name of the third President of the United States.

Whereas the Jefferson Medical College of Philadelphia was founded in 1824 during the lifetime of its namesake, Thomas Jefferson; Whereas the Jefferson Medical College of Philadelphia was given a university charter in 1838 by the State of Pennsylvania; Whereas the Jefferson Medical College of Philadelphia has long represented and promoted the principles for which Thomas Jefferson stood; Whereas the Jefferson Medical College of Philadelphia officially changed its name to the Thomas Jefferson University on July 1, 1969: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Thomas Jefferson University, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, be and is hereby recognized as the first university in the United States to bear the full name of the third President of the United States.

Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Vice President of the United States and President of the Senate.

President Herbut conferred the M.D. degree on 182 graduates on June 8 at the Academy of Music. David E. Rogers, President of the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, delivered the Address. Milton Packer, of the Pennsylvania State University Joint Program, received highest academic honors.

Bruce Evans Jarrell served his residency and fellowship at the Medical College of Virginia where he gained experience in dialysis procedures and transplantation surgery. He returned to Jefferson in 1980 as Director of the Transplant Program in the Department of Surgery. Within a few years, Jefferson's transplantation program was one of the largest in the United States. Dr. Jarrell advanced to Professor of Surgery and in 1988 was elected to the Society of University Surgeons (Fig. 419).

Eric John Bergquist, Ph.D. (University of Maryland) was appointed to the staff of the Department of Medicine following his residency with special research in infectious diseases. An effective and meticulous teacher, he quickly advanced to Clinical Associate Professor of Medicine and Assistant Professor of Microbiology. In 1987 he became Director of Infectious Diseases at Latrobe Hospital, Latrobe, Pennsylvania, a Jefferson affiliate (Fig. 420).

Anton Peter Kemps, winner of the Phillips Prize, embarked on a career in internal medicine and was Clinical Assistant Professor of Medicine at Rutgers University School of Medicine.

The increasing diversity of careers relative to the technological age of medicine was distinctly evident in this class. Benjamin Gerson, trained in pathology, advanced to Associate Professor at Harvard University and conducted sophisticated studies on Alzheimer's Disease; he later became Professor of Pathology at Boston University School of Medicine. Richard M. Sostowski was Associate Professor of Psychiatry, University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey, Newark. Paul A. Bialas was Clinical Assistant Professor of Medicine, University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine, while also Chief of Medicine at Warren General Hospital, Warren, Pennsylvania. Robert P. Good became Assistant Professor of Orthopaedic Surgery at Jefferson. Gary R. Fleisher was Director of the Emergency Laboratory at Children's Hospital of Philadelphia and Associate Professor of Pediatrics at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine. Frederick L. Kramer served for a time as Clinical Assistant Professor in the Departments of Radiology and Urology at Jefferson. David Shore became Chief of Biological and Chemical Factors Research Program in the Schizophrenic Research Branch of the National Institute of Mental Health. Jerry D. Glenn, after a fellowship in surgery at National Cancer Institute, Bethesda, Maryland, became Professor in the Departments of Surgery and Microbiology at Milton S. Hershey Medical Center; he also edited the Accident and Poison Prevention Newsletter for the American Academy of Pediatrics. Kathleen W. McNicholas, winner of the Glasgow Award for Clinical Proficiency, was later appointed Assistant Professor of Cardiothoracic Surgery at the College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey. Eric W. Blomain was appointed Assistant Professor of Surgery at Hershey Medical Center and Clinical Professor of Plastic and Maxillofacial Surgery at the University of Virginia Medical Center. Arthur W. Colbourn served as Clinical Assistant Professor of Medicine at Jefferson. Jeffrey J. Dekret became Clinical Associate Professor of Psychiatry and Human Behavior and Director of Inpatient Units at Jefferson. Joseph W. Sassani was Assistant Professor of Ophthalmology and Pathology at Hershey Medical Center. Norman H. Braslow was Clinical Assistant Professor of Medicine at Jefferson. Rodney A. Appell served as Assistant Professor of Urology and Director of the Urodynamics Unit at Louisiana State University School of Medicine, New Orleans. Peter C. Amadio became Assistant Professor of Orthopaedic Surgery at Mayo Graduate School of Medicine, Rochester; in 1988 he was elected to the Board of Directors of the American Association for Hand Surgery. Frank M. Taylor, III, became Clinical Assistant Professor of Pathology, University of South Florida, Tampa.

Other graduates with academic appointments included Robert G. Lahita, Associate Professor at Rockefeller University in Rheumatic and Immunologic Diseases; Philip M. Bernini, Associate Professor of Surgery, Dartmouth-Hitchcock Medical Center, Hanover; Susan Uhrmann Campbell, Assistant Professor of Pediatrics, University of Mississippi; Christopher M. Clark, Assistant Professor of Medicine, Duke University Medical Center, Durham; Frank Fromowitz, Assistant Professor of Pathology, S.U.N.Y. at Stony Brook; Marc R. Goldenberg, Instructor in Surgery at Jefferson; Roberta C. Kahn, Assistant Professor of Anesthesiology, New York University Medical Center; Harry R. Katz, Assistant Professor of Radiology, Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania; Paul D. Manganiello, Assistant Professor of Obstetrics/Gynecology, Dartmouth-Hitchcock Medical Center, Hanover; Milton Packer, Associate Professor of Internal Medicine, Mount Sinai Hospital, New York; Robert D. Raffal, Assistant Professor of Medicine, Brown University Affiliated Hospitals, Providence; Mary A. Resnik, Assistant Professor of Anesthesiology at Jefferson; and Fred A. Rosenblum, Instructor in Anesthesiology, also at Jefferson.
