The year 1974 marked the Sesqui-Centennial of the founding of Jefferson Medical College. The event was observed in all University activities and the Alumni Bulletin carried articles summarizing Jefferson's history. On March 1 the Alumni Association celebrated with a Sesquicentennial Dinner at the Union League (Fig. 421).

The Sesquicentennial focused on Jefferson's present and future including articles in the student yearbook, The Clinic, discussing plans for a new hospital building and teaching center as well as a description of the new Health Sciences Center just opened this year. The Center occupied the twenty-two story building at Ninth and Sansom Streets recently acquired from the Philadelphia Electric Company. Intended mainly as an ambulatory care center and medical office building, it was quickly fully functional. Its uses gradually changed as other office space was developed for the rapidly increasing number of staff physicians. The facility was later largely given over to the College of Allied Health Sciences and became popularly known as the Edison Building (Fig. 422).

As a Sesquicentennial Gift to Jefferson, the Alumni Association commissioned a procesional composed by Burle Marx to be played on all ceremonial occasions.

At the Commencement held June 8 at the Academy of Music, 192 graduates were awarded M.D. degrees by President Peter A. Herbut. Highest honors were won by Steven R. Peikin who served his internship and residency in medicine at the University of California, San Francisco. From 1976 to 1978 he was a Clinical Associate in Digestive Diseases at the National Institutes of Health, Bethesda, Maryland. He returned to Jefferson as Assistant Professor of Medicine in 1979, became Associate Professor in 1982, and carried on important research and teaching in gastroenterology. Dr. Peikin also served a term on the Board of Trustees of Thomas Jefferson University from 1977 to 1979 (Fig. 423).

Barbara F. Atkinson, trained in Pathology at the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania, became Professor and Chairman of the Department of Pathology at Medical College of Pennsylvania. In 1989 she was elected to its Board of Directors (Fig. 424).

Kathleen F. Cheyney received the prize in anesthesiology but went on to surgical training. She was in the fortuitous position of first assistant surgeon at George Washington University Hospital for the emergency surgery on President [Fig. 422. Edison Building (1974).]
Ronald Reagan on March 30, 1981. The operating surgeon was Joseph M. Giordano (JMC, '67, Fig. 404).

Bartley P. Griffith prepared for a career in transplantation surgery with six years of residency and an American Heart Association Research Fellowship. He joined the surgical staff of the University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine, becoming Associate Professor and proceeding to develop new techniques for the handling of organs for transplantation which contributed significantly to the success of one of the most active programs in the United States (Fig. 425).

The increasing diversity of medical progress was evidenced by the numerous 1974 graduates who went on to academic associations. James A. Kenning, who won the Potter Prize, was trained in neurosurgery and became Clinical Assistant Professor at Temple University School of Medicine. John H. Brown became Assistant Professor of Surgery, Uniformed Services University of Health Sciences and Chief of the Maxillofacial Stabilization Team; he later engaged in private practice. Michael A. Kutcher in 1988 was appointed Associate Professor of Medicine (Cardiology) in the Bowman-Gray School of Medicine, Winston-Salem, North Carolina. Also in 1988, John P. Lubicky was appointed Chief of Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children, Chicago, and Associate Professor of Orthopaedic Surgery at Rush Medical College. Stephen B. Lichtenstein, who won the Prize in Ophthalmology, became Assistant Professor of Ophthalmology at Jefferson and Co-Director of Emergency Services at Wills Eye Hospital. Marilyn Manco McDonald (Manco-Johnson), a participant in the Pennsylvania State University—Jefferson accelerated program and winner of the...
Pediatrics Prize, became Associate Professor of Pediatrics at the University of Colorado School of Medicine. John J. Brooks developed skills in immunohistochemistry and advanced to Associate Professor of Pathology at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine. Bruce C. Berger, trained in cardiology, became Assistant Professor of Medicine at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine. Lee D. Griffith was Assistant Professor of Surgery at the University of California Medical Center, San Diego. Thomas L. Matulewski was appointed Chief of Surgery at Haverford Hospital and Assistant Professor at Hahnemann University. Jay D. Amsterdam was Adjunct Associate Professor of Psychiatry and Human Behavior at Jefferson, and Thomas J. Phelan became Clinical Assistant Professor of Surgery also at Jefferson. Barry S. Stein was appointed Director of Oncology in the Department of Urology at Brown University School of Medicine, Providence. Jay G. Weisberg was Clinical Assistant Professor of Psychiatry and Human Behavior and Louis T. Broad, Clinical Assistant Professor of Medicine, both at Jefferson. John Hermanovich, Jr. became Assistant Professor of Medicine at Hershey Medical Center. Bruce P. Meinhard was Associate Professor of Orthopaedics, State University of New York at Stonybrook. David A. Brent received a Career Development Award from the National Institutes of Health and was Assistant Professor of Psychiatry at the University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine. Arnold J. Wills became Associate Professor of Urology at George Washington Medical Center. R. Brooke Jeffrey, Jr. was serving as Associate Professor of Radiology at the University of California School of Medicine, San Francisco. Robert J. Wasnick was Director of Pediatric Urology, Hospital of the State University of New York, Stonybrook and Assistant Professor at New York University. James D. Plumb, trained in Family Medicine at Jefferson, joined the staff and advanced to Assistant Professor. Stephen H. Whitenack also trained at Jefferson and went on to serve as Attending Surgeon in charge of Thoracic Surgery at Chestnut Hill Hospital and Assistant Professor at Jefferson. Joseph R. Berger became Associate Professor of Neurology and Internal Medicine at the University of Miami (Florida) School of Medicine; in 1985 he received the Puff Award for Teaching Excellence. Howard G. Hughes was made President of the Geisinger Health Plan, Geisinger Medical Center in Danville, Pennsylvania, in 1987; he was a Past President of the Pennsylvania Chapter of the American College of Emergency Medicine. Jay S. Schinfeld, winner of the Obstetrics/Gynecology Prize, was Chief of Endocrinology/Infertility at Abington Memorial Hospital and Associate Professor at Temple University School of Medicine. Thomas J.A. Lehman was Chief of the Division of Pediatric Rheumatology at the Hospital for Special Surgery, New York, and Associate Professor of Medicine at Cornell University School of Medicine. Robert L. Breckenridge, Jr., having completed training in Pathology at Mayo Clinic, became a member of a group of pathologists in Kansas City, serving ten hospitals in Northwestern Missouri.

Other graduates with academic connections included: Stanley J. Geyer, Associate Professor of Pathology, University of Washington Hospitals, Seattle; Ann P. Guillot, Assistant Professor of Pediatrics, Medical Center Hospital of Vermont, Burlington; Kenneth E. Jaffe, Assistant Professor of Psychiatry, Tufts University School of Medicine; David Karasick and his brother Stephen, both Associate Professors of Radiology at Jefferson; Thomas A. Klotz, Associate Professor of Medicine, Los Angeles County USC Medical Center; William D. Lawrence, Assistant Professor of Medicine, S.U.N.Y. at Buffalo; Mark A. Pearlman, Assistant Professor of Pediatrics, University of Medicine and Dentistry, Newark; Anna T. Sasaki, Assistant Professor of Medicine, University of Oregon Medical School, Portland; Linda M. Sundt, Assistant Professor of Anesthesiology at Jefferson; and Michael L. Podolsky, Professor of Obstetrics/Gynecology at Jefferson.

In the Senate of the United States

November 18, 1974

Whereas Thomas Jefferson University of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, celebrates its one hundred and fiftieth anniversary in 1974 and is a totally health-related, medically-oriented university, comprising three colleges and a teaching hospital; and

Whereas the University's Jefferson Medical College, founded in 1824, is the largest private medical college in the Nation; and

Whereas Jefferson encouraged graduate studies in the basic medical sciences as early as 1941 and consolidated these into a College of Graduate Studies in 1969; and

Whereas in 1967 Jefferson chartered a College of Allied Health Sciences to provide both academic and clinical education in the health professions and occupations; and

Whereas Thomas Jefferson University has committed its resources and the talents of its faculty to care of the sick and injured through an infirmary that opened in May 1825 and subsequently through Thomas Jefferson University Hospital that first opened its doors in 1877: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate congratulates Thomas Jefferson University on its one hundred and fiftieth anniversary, commends the faculty, staff, employees, and graduates of its colleges and hospital on their dedication, vision, and exemplary professionalism, and extends to them every good wish for continued growth and impact on the health care needs of this Nation.

Sec. 2. That a certified and enrolled copy of this resolution introduced by Mr. Hugh Scott be transmitted to Dr. Peter A. Herbut, President of Thomas Jefferson University, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Attest:

Secretary.
This year saw completion of a 400-car University parking facility on the north side of Locust Street between Tenth and Eleventh. The architecture was artfully designed to be unobtrusive, with two low-level buildings divided by a wide elevated walkway. It preserved an open area (Scott Plaza) for trees and the Gross Statue (Fig. 426). Together with the Martin Nurses’ Residence, Scott Library and Orlowitz Hall it completed Jefferson’s buildings on the city block between Walnut and Locust and Tenth and Eleventh Streets.

On June 6, the M.D. degree was conferred in the Academy of Music upon 218 graduates by President Peter A. Herbut. Dr. Herbut also delivered the Address that year, which ironically was his last to attend because of his sudden death the following March.

Geno J. Merli, Clinical Associate Professor of Medicine, became Director of the Division of Internal Medicine at Jefferson in 1987. He conducted significant studies on the prevention and treatment of venous thrombosis. Also, as Associate Professor of Rehabilitation Medicine, he developed workshops on spinal cord injury (Fig. 427).

Robert T. Sataloff became a Professor of Otolaryngology. Holding a Doctor of Musical Arts degree, he specialized in vocal therapy with innovative care for professional singers. He also became outstanding in his concerts at Jefferson featuring orchestral and choral groups (Fig. 428).
Donald L. Myers took his neurological surgery residency at Jefferson, with additional training in the use of the laser, surgery of the ear and skull base, and advanced trauma life support. He became an Assistant Professor in the Department of Neurological Surgery and Director of the Neurosensory Intensive Care Unit from 1980 to 1985 (Fig. 429).

Among the graduates the trend into academic appointments increased. Some of the positions occupied in institutions other than Jefferson were as follows: Winslow J. Borkowski, Jr. (son of W.J. Borkowski, Honorary Associate Professor of Neurology at Jefferson, JMC, '43, Fig. 297) who followed in his father's footsteps to become a neurologist at the Alfred I. DuPont Institute in Wilmington and subsequently Assistant Professor of Pediatric Neurology at the University of Nebraska; Robert E. Wall, Chairman of the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology at an affiliate of the University of Colorado Health Science Center; Jonathan Kay, Assistant Professor of Surgery in the Department of Anesthesiology at the Medical College of Wisconsin; Marilyn Kay, Assistant Professor in the Department of Ophthalmology at the Medical College of Wisconsin; Bradley D. Wong, Assistant Professor of Surgery at the University of Hawaii School of Medicine; David P. Mayer, Clinical Assistant Professor of Radiology at Temple University School of Medicine; Richard S. Jackson, Assistant Professor of Surgery in the University of Vermont Medical School; Gary S. Clark, Associate Professor of Clinical Rehabilitation Medicine at the University of Rochester; Donald E. Schepps, Assistant Clinical Professor of Surgery at the University of California, Davis; Edward S. Schulman, Assistant Professor of Medicine at Hahnemann University; Ellis R. Levin, Assistant Professor of Medicine at the University of California, Irvine; John R. Hain, Clinical Instructor in Pathology, University of Pittsburgh; Laurence R. Plumb, faculty member in Family Practice Department of the University of Buffalo Medical School; John H. Kavanagh, Jr., Assistant Professor in the Department of Developmental Therapeutics and Gynecology at the University of Nebraska Medical School; Richard H. Bennett, Associate Professor of Neurology at Temple University; Robert H. Gordon, Staff of the Medical College of Pennsylvania, with specialty in rheumatology; Paul J. Ruschak, Clinical Assistant Professor of Dermatology at the University of Pittsburgh; Anne P. Hench, Clinical Activities Coordinator for the National Health Service Corps in Health Region II, encompassing New York, New Jersey, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands; Craig F. LaForce, Director of Pediatric Allergy in the Department of Pediatrics, University of North Carolina; Victor L. Woo, Clinical Assistant Professor of Radiology at the University of California, San Diego; Jerry M. Belsh, Assistant Professor of Neurology at the College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey; Robert R. Houston, Assistant Professor of Pathology at the University of Cincinnati; and William A. Spahn, Assistant Professor of Medicine at Wright State University in Dayton.

Some members who obtained academic appointments at Jefferson were: William A. Bierman, Clinical Assistant Professor of Medicine; Howard E. Goody, Instructor in Dermatology; Eugene P. Hughes, Jr., Clinical Assistant Professor of Surgery; John E. Hocutt, Jr., Clinical Assistant Professor in Family Medicine at Jefferson affiliate, Wilmington Medical Center; William A. Auritt, Instructor in Pediatrics (Our Lady of Lourdes affiliate); Theodore A. Feinstein, Instructor in Obstetrics and Gynecology; Craig L. Muettterties, Instructor in Anesthesiology; Alexander G. Paterson, Instructor in Family Medicine; John T. Santarlas, Instructor in Family Medicine (Latrobe Hospital affiliate); John F. Nansted, Jr., Clinical Assistant Professor of Medicine at Jefferson’s affiliate, Lankenau; Irena O. Stolar, Instructor in Medicine; and Randall F. Maguire, Adjunct Clinical Assistant Professor of Pathology and Cell Biology.

Additional members in academic medicine were: Paul D. Berguson, Assistant Professor of Anesthesiology, New York University Medical Center; Gerard T. Berry, Assistant Professor of Pediatrics and Robert Y. Gummit, Assistant Professor of Anesthesiology, both at the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania; Lawrence J. Gibel, Assistant Professor of Surgery, University of New Mexico Affiliated Hospitals, Albuquerque; Alan Goldberg, Assistant Professor of Internal Medicine, Leonard Grossman, Assistant Professor of Obstetrics/Gynecology, and Mark J. Pello, Assistant Professor of Surgery, all at Robert Wood Johnson Medical School, Piscataway; Gail Goldstein, Assistant Professor of Anesthesiology, U.C.L.A. Hospital Medical Center, Los An-

Jefferson's increasing size for education and health care required additional convenient and comfortable living accommodations at reasonable rents for the University's students and personnel. This was met by opening of the Barringer Residence Hall in this year at the southeast corner of Tenth and Walnut Streets (Fig. 430). It contained 138 apartments for approximately 420 occupants with layouts based upon those in the Orlowitz Residence. This project honored two generations of Jefferson Trustees. The first was the late Daniel Moreau Barringer who had served on the Board from 1902 to 1936. The second was his son, Brandon Barringer, who had been a Life Trustee succeeding his father in 1936. The latter as Chairman of the Finance Committee had kept Jefferson on a sound financial basis for several decades.

In 1976 the Winged Ox Column was erected on the south side of Walnut Street between Orlowitz Hall and the Scott Library (Fig. 431). The winged ox, the ancient symbol for both physicians and sculptors, was erected as a 1,400-pound bronze statue on a platform subtended by a Trajan Column on which a spiral contained names of 50 personages who had made outstanding contributions to medicine. Five of these were Jefferson Alumni (J. Marion Sims, Samuel D. Gross, Carlos Finlay, Chevalier Jackson and John H. Gibbon, Jr.).

At the Commencement on June 11 in the Academy of Music the M.D. degree was conferred upon 217 graduates by the interim President, Mr. George M. Norwood (Fig. 442).

Among the many graduates who subsequently obtained academic appointments on the Jefferson Faculty were: John R. Cohn, Clinical Assistant Professor of Medicine and Clinical Assistant Professor of Pediatrics (pulmonary medicine, allergy and immunology); Gary A. Emmett, Clinical Assistant Professor of Pediatrics; Linda D. Green, Clinical Assistant Professor of Pediatrics (at Jefferson affiliate, Mercy Catholic Medical Center); John D. Blannett, Clinical Assistant Professor of Medicine (also at Mercy Catholic); Robert S. Zibelman, Clinical Assistant Professor of Psychiatry and Human Behavior; Christopher M. Frauenhoffer, Adjunct Clinical Assistant Professor of Pathology and Cell Biology; Amy N. Sukati, Instructor in Obstetrics and Gynecology; Dean L. Winslow, Clinical Associate Professor of Medicine; Michael E. Stillabower, Instructor in Medicine; David E. Nutter, Clinical Assistant Professor of Psychiatry and Human Behavior; Valerie A. West (Urian), Instructor in Medicine; Joanna Miller, Instructor in Obstetrics and Gynecology; Philip Nimoityn (Fig. 432), Instructor.

in Medicine (Cardiology); Steven J. Glass, Adjunct Clinical Assistant Professor of Psychiatry and Human Behavior; Richard A. Jacoby, Clinical Associate Professor of Dermatology as well as Pathology and Cell Biology; Andrew J. Levin, Instructor in Ophthalmology; Paul J. Hoyer, Instructor in Pathology and Cell Biology; Frédéric B. Kremer, Clinical Assistant Professor of Ophthalmology; Robert G. McCairns Jr. (Fig. 433), Instructor in Surgery (Cardiothoracic); David A. Allan, Instructor in Medicine; Ted M. Parris, Clinical Assistant Professor of Medicine; and Gordon J. Ostrum, Jr., Instructor in Obstetrics and Gynecology.

Some of the graduates who obtained academic appointments other than at Jefferson were: Monica Morrow, Chief of Surgical Oncology at SUNY, Downstate Medical Center and Kings County Hospital; Marjorie A. Williamson (Bowman), Associate Dean for Continuing Medical Education and Assistant Professor of Community and Family Medicine at Georgetown University School of Medicine; George J. Heymach, III, Clinical Assistant Professor of Medicine at the University of Pittsburgh (Pulmonary Medicine); Eugene E. Wolfel, Assistant Professor of Medicine at the University of Colorado Health Services Center (Cardiology); John S. Liggett, Jr., Assistant Professor of Clinical Pulmonary Pediatrics in the University of Texas Health Center at Tyler; James H. Garvin, Jr., Assistant Professor of Pediatrics at Columbia University; Thomas S. Kilcheski, Clinical Professor of Radiology at the University of California, San Diego; Robert R. Sommerville, Associate Professor of Neurology at Hershey Medical Center; Johannes D. Weltin, Clinical Instructor in Family Medicine at New York Medical College; Gary F. Purdue, after Fellowship in brain surgery joined the faculty of the University of Texas at Dallas; Manuel R. Morman, Instructor in Dermatology at Mount Sinai Medical Center in New York City; and Francis A. Chervenak, Associate Professor of Obstetrics/Gynecology at New York Hospital—Cornell Medical Center.

Additional graduates with academic appointments were: Richard C. Cherkis, Assistant Professor of Obstetrics/Gynecology, New York Hospital; Joanna Connolly, Instructor in Obstetrics/Gynecology, Hospital of Medical College of Pennsylvania; Paul T. Cullen, Instructor in Medicine, Hahnemann University; Brad M. Dworkin, Associate Professor of Medicine, Westchester County Medical Center, New York; Charles S. Finch, Assistant Professor of Preventive Medicine, Grady Memorial Hospital, Atlanta; Sandra Horowitz, Associate Professor of Radiology, Loyola University Medical Center, Illinois; Michael C. Kallay, Associate Professor of Medicine, Strong Memorial Hospital of University of Rochester; Donald E. Martin, Associate Professor of Anesthesiology, Milton S. Interim President George M. Norwood, Jr. (Fig. 443) presided over the Commencement ceremonies and conferred M.D. degrees upon 212 graduates at the Academy of Music on June 10. This was his last official act prior to the arrival of the new President, Lewis W. Bluemle, Jr., M.D.

Dr. Bluemle, the second President of the University, was inaugurated on September 7 at the Walnut Street Theater (Fig. 435). For this occasion a Presidential Badge was created, consisting of four official corporate seals of the institution (Fig. 436). President Bluemle's 13-year tenure until 1990 would mark a golden era in Jefferson's history.

Achieving notoriety early in his career was James P. Bagian. Holding a prior degree in Electrical Engineering from Drexel University, he embarked on a course leading to participation in the National Aeronautics and Space Administration program in 1978. Although having planned for orthopaedic surgery, his acceptance into the space program was followed by training as a flight surgeon and continued with a residency in anesthesiology in 1979. Dr. Bagian’s long preparation culminated in his flight aboard the Space shuttle Discovery in March, 1989 (Fig. 437 & 438). Dr. Bagian carried into space a bronze Jefferson medallion to be presented to President Bluemle for permanent display.

R. Anthony Carabasi, III, won the Surgery Prize at graduation and went on to training in surgery with special emphasis on vascular surgery and organ transplantation. He advanced to Associate Professor in the Departments of Surgery and Radiology in 1987 (Fig. 439). In 1986 he was co-author with Dr. Bruce Jarrell (JMC, '73, Fig. 419) of Surgery, published by Wiley, New York.

Herbert Patrick was trained in pulmonary and critical care medicine at Jefferson and in 1984 joined the fulltime staff of the Department of Medicine as Assistant Professor. He also received a five-year Clinical Investigator Award from the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute for advanced studies in pulmonary diseases (Fig. 440).

A number of graduates received academic appointments. John W. Peters was Clinical Assistant Professor of Medicine at Temple University School of Medicine. Margaret M. Dunn was Assistant Professor of Surgery at Wright State University School of Medicine, Dayton, Ohio. Virginia Chalfant Wood became Assistant Clinical Professor of Medicine, also at Wright State; in 1988 she received the Teaching Excellence Award. James F. Burke was Clinical Assistant Professor of Medicine at Jefferson and Thomas C. Benfield, Clinical Assistant Professor of Psychiatry and Human Behavior, also at Jefferson. David M. Rodgers served as Assistant Professor of Medicine at Medical College of Pennsylvania. Alan M. Sugar was Assistant Professor of Medicine at Boston University School of Medicine, Section on Infectious Diseases. Mary E. O'Connor was Clinical Assistant Professor of Pediatrics at the University of California School of Medicine, San Francisco. Cynthia B. Altman, trained in Clinical Pharmacology, was for a time Director of World Wide Clinical Research Management for Smith, Kline, French Laboratories; she was later Executive Director of Strategic Planning for Grand View Hospital, Sellersville, Pennsylvania. Joseph J. Evans became Director of the Clinical Electrophysiology Laboratory and Pacemaker Service, Marshfield, Wisconsin, and Clinical Assistant Professor of Medicine at the University of Wisconsin School of Medicine, Madison.

Other appointments included James C. Folk, Professor of Ophthalmology and Director of Vitreoretinal Service, University of Iowa Hospitals, Iowa City; Randy V. Campo, winner of the Potter Prize, Instructor in Ophthalmology at Mayo Graduate School of Medicine, Rochester; Blair Ardman, Assistant Professor of Medicine, Tufts University School of Medicine, Boston; Michael T. Brady, Assistant Professor of Pediatrics, Ohio State University School of Medicine, Columbus; Jeffrey B. Gross, winner of the Alumni Prize,
Assistant Professor of Anesthesiology, Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania; Murali J. Jasty, Instructor in Orthopaedics at Massachusetts General Hospital; Samuel M. Lasko, Assistant Professor of Public Health, Boston University Affiliated Hospitals; Kenneth Levin, Assistant Professor of Radiology, Hahnemann University; Bruce D. Lindsay, Instructor in Medicine at Barnes Hospital, St. Louis; David C.S. Nikeson, Assistant Professor of Internal Medicine, Baylor College of Medicine, Houston; Sandra M. Wolf, Assistant Professor of Obstetrics/Gynecology at Hahnemann University; Warren B. Matthews, Instructor in Family Medicine and William B. McNamee, Jr., Instructor in Medicine, both at Jefferson Medical College.

Commencement exercises were held June 9 and the M.D. degree was conferred upon 230 graduates by the new President, Lewis W. Bluemle, Jr. (Fig. 435 and 441). The sharp increase in the number of medical graduates was in part a reflection of the alarm sounded during the past decade that a physician shortage was imminent.

The afternoon of Commencement Day was marked by the dedication of the New Thomas Jefferson University Hospital, a century after the construction of the first Jefferson Medical College.
Hospital (1877). Appropriate ceremonies were held in the West Atrium with Jefferson officials and civic leaders in the forefront. Innovations in design along functional lines characterized the new structure, incorporating offices for staff physicians, outpatient services and improved access for inpatients to hospital facilities (Fig. 442). It was named the Gibbon Building in 1990 in honor of John H. Gibbon, Jr. (JMC, ’27, Fig. 243), inventor of the heart-lung machine.

An Alumni Achievement Award was presented at the Winter dinner meeting of the Alumni Association to Mr. George M. Norwood, Jr. (Fig. 443), recognizing his services as interim President of the University during the critical period following the unexpected death of President Herbut.

For almost three decades, J. Wallace Davis (JMC, ’42, Fig. 291) served as Chairman of Alumni Annual Giving. In appreciation, the President’s Club honored him with the prestigious 1978 Cornerstone Award (Fig. 444).

Numerous 1978 graduates joined the Jefferson teaching staff. Among them, George C. Francos was trained in the Department of Medicine’s Nephrology Section and was appointed Assistant Professor and Director of the Chronic Dialysis Program. Norman G. Rosenblum was Assistant Professor of Obstetrics/Gynecology. Howard H. Weitz, following his residency, was a Chief Resident in the Department of Medicine and later was appointed Clinical Associate Professor of Medicine. Kenneth C. Rosenberg became an Instructor in Medicine (Cardiology). Christine A. Byrnes was appointed Clinical Assistant Professor of Medicine. Eric J. Michael, Clinical Assistant Professor of Pediatrics, was on the fulltime staff in Neonatology. David G. Schutzman was also Clinical Professor of Pediatrics. Instructors included Daniel B. DiCola (Family Medicine), Gerald L. Gary (Pediatrics), George R. Kenner, Jr. (Ophthalmology), and Charles L. Reese (Surgery).

Other alumni were appointed to various acaademic positions. David S. Ginsburg, winner of the Obstetrics/Gynecology Prize, became Assistant Professor of Obstetrics/Gynecology at Hahnemann University. Marilee H. Frazer was appointed Assistant Medical Examiner for Wayne County (Michigan), Detroit; in 1989 she received the degree of Doctor of Jurisprudence from Wayne State University Law School. William G. Ellien became Director of Ambulatory services (Psychiatry) at Pennsylvania Hospital, and Clinical Assistant Professor at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine after having previously held a similar position at Georgetown University. Stephen I. Kramer, winner of the Psychiatry Prize, was Assistant Professor of Psychiatry and Behavior, Bowman-Gray School of Medicine and Chief of Psychiatry at Forsyth Memorial Hospital, Winston-Salem, North Carolina. Gaylin Li-Ma served as Assistant Professor of Obstetrics/Gynecology, University of Hawaii School of Medicine and Medical Director of Obstetrics/Gynecology at the Outpatient Clinic, Kaprolane Medical Center. David F. Flynn, following fellowship training at Massachusetts General Hospital, was named Director of Radiation Oncology at the University of Texas Southwestern.

Medical School. Raymond B. Leidich was Assistant Chairman of the Urology Department at Naval Regional Medical Center, Oakland, California. Alexander C. Mamourian was Assistant Professor of Radiology at Milton S. Hershey Medical Center. Howard S. Klein became Chief of the Pulmonary Disease Section at Philadelphia Geriatric Center and Assistant Professor of Medicine at Medical College of Pennsylvania. Patricia Harper Petrozza was Assistant Professor of Anesthesiology at Bowman-Gray School of Medicine, Winston-Salem. Victor A. Zachian became Clinical Instructor in Obstetrics/Gynecology at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine. David M. Reed, trained in surgical oncology at Roswell Park Memorial Institute, Buffalo, New York, and was appointed Clinical Professor of Surgery at New York Medical College. Nancy H. Sherman was Assistant Professor of Radiology at the University of Pennsylvania and a staff radiologist at Children's Hospital of Philadelphia. Katherine C. Krause was Assistant Professor of Family medicine at Case Western Reserve School of Medicine, Cleveland, Ohio. Maria O. Uberti in 1983 was named Chief of Dermatology at Presbyterian-University of Pennsylvania Hospital. Neil H. Shusterman was Assistant Professor of Medicine in the Renal-Electrolyte Section of the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine.

Other appointments included Robert J. Mead, Jr., Associate Professor of Anesthesiology, Duke University Medical Center, Durham; Gerald L. Andriole, Assistant Professor of Surgery, Barnes Hospital of Washington University School of Medicine, St. Louis; Anthony R. Dal Nogare, Assistant Professor of Medicine, Parkland Hospital, Dallas; Patricia G. Fitzgerald, Assistant Professor of Medicine, Strong Memorial Hospital, University of Rochester, New York; Robert S. Finkelhor, Instructor in Medicine, Case Western Reserve School of Medicine, Cleveland; E. Paul Howanitz, Assistant Professor of Surgery, Ohio State University Hospital, Columbus; John B. President Bluemle conferred the M.D. degree upon 215 graduates at the annual Commencement held at the Academy of Music June 8. On this occasion the honorary degree of Doctor of Literature was awarded to one of the leading figures in American Medicine, Jonathan Edward Rhoads, M.D., longtime Professor and Chairman of the Department of Surgery at the School of Medicine, University of Pennsylvania. Dr. Rhoads' national and international achievements both in medicine and academic affairs were widely acclaimed. It was appropriate that one of his distinguished proteges, Francis Ernest Rosato, M.D., Jefferson's new Samuel D. Gross Professor and Chairman of Surgery presented the citation.

The Alumni Prize and the Potter Memorial Prize were both won by Kevin Robert Harris.

In September, Jefferson signally honored Mr. William W. Bodine, Jr. (Fig. 374), by dedication of the Bodine Fountain, which consisted of five frolicking otters on a stone playground (Fig. 445). The sculptor was Henry Mitchell who had also created Jefferson's Winged Ox Column. Mr. Bodine had served as President of Jefferson Medical College (1959-66) and as Chairman of the Board of Trustees (1970-77).

Some of the class members early in their careers received academic appointments at Jefferson Medical College. Anthony V. Coletta became Instructor in Surgery in connection with his appointment as Assistant Attending Surgeon at the affiliated Bryn Mawr Hospital (Fig. 446). Robert S. Marcello and Kenneth M. Certa were Instructors in Psychiatry and Human Behavior. John V. Cunningham, Jr. was made Instructor in Otolaryngology and Richard W. Ziegler Instructor in Orthopedic Surgery. Philip J. Dzwonczyk became Clinical Assistant Professor of Surgery. Richard A. Carapellotti was Instructor in Obstetrics/Gynecology. Joseph R. Spiegel was appointed Instructor in Otolaryngology following completion of his service as Chief Resident in the Department at the University of Michigan. Lawrence S. Miller was Clinical Assistant Professor of Orthopaedic Surgery through the Lankenau Hospital affiliation. At the Medical Center of Delaware affiliate, Michael J. Guarino and Stephen S. Grubbs were appointed Instructors in Medicine.

William H. Messerschmidt, following residency at Jefferson, became Assistant Professor and Director of Cardiothoracic Surgery at the College of Medicine of East Tennessee, Johnson City.

Sandra F. Schnall joined the Faculty of Yale University School of Medicine in Hematology-Onkology in 1987. Douglas R. Hough served as Chief of the Rheumatology and Clinical Immunology Service at William Beaumont Medical Center, El Paso, Texas. Richard S. Blumberg joined the Faculty of Harvard University Medical School in the Department of Medicine’s Gastroenterology Division at Brigham and Women’s Hospital.

Dennis R. Witmer and his wife Diana Dickson-Witmer (University of Florida School of Medicine), of Wilmington, Delaware, joined the Dooley Intermed Foundation and participated in medical missions in Africa and Latin America. Dr. Dennis Witmer was later Instructor in Surgery at Jefferson.

Other graduates with teaching associations were: Adam S. Asch, Assistant Professor of Medicine, New York Hospital; Scott D. Berkowitz, Assistant Professor of Medicine, S.U.N.Y. at Stony Brook; Lawrence H. Brent, Instructor and Gaetano J. Capone, Assistant Professor of Medicine at Hahnemann University; Peter L. Choyke, Assistant Professor of Radiology, and Joan S. DiPalma, Assistant Professor of Pediatrics, Georgetown University Hospital, Washington, D.C.; Warren E. Cohen, Assistant Professor of Pediatrics, Los Angeles County USC Medical Center; Kathleen C. Dougherty, Assistant Professor of Psychiatry, Case Western Reserve University Affiliated Hospitals, Cleveland; Catherine Z. Hayward, Instructor in Surgery, the Medical College of Pennsylvania; Natalie C. Klein, Assistant Professor of Internal Medicine, Westchester County Medical Center, New York; Michael E. Mahla, Assistant Professor of Anesthesiology, University of Florida Affiliated Hospitals, Gainesville; Patricia M. Maguire, Assistant Professor of Psychiatry, Presbyterian-University Hospital, Pittsburgh; Steven G. Merz, Assistant Professor of Radiology, University of Pennsylvania; Vikki Ann Stefans, Instructor in Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation, University of Michigan Affiliated Hospitals, Ann Arbor; and James W. Vick, Instructor in Family Practice, Robert Wood Johnson Medical School, Piscataway.

The Commencement spearheading the eventful decade of the 1980s was held on June 6 at the Academy of Music. The M.D. degree was conferred upon 221 graduates by President Bluemle. The highest honors for academic achievement were won by John Jacob Woog of the Penn State-Jefferson accelerated program.

A "Strategic Plan for the 1980s," deliberated by a Task Force led by Chairman of the Board, Frederic L. Ballard, Esq. (Fig. 447), for almost two years, gave direction for building upon the strengths of Jefferson as an academic health center but emphasized an improved balance between patient care, education and research. The results far exceeded in magnitude those anticipated in the report. It was realized that large-scale giving was more essential than ever. Funds were needed to attract the best possible new faculty leadership, to encourage research and to offset imminent declining external support by government and third party payers. Additional endowments for titled professorships and funds for student aid were envisioned. A goal of $65 million for the 1980s was deemed appropriate.
and attainable. Subsequent years would enfold annual contributions in excess of $10 million, so that by 1986 a $60 million mark was reached. The remaining years of the decade would see the same scale of giving, aided substantially by foundations and corporations.

The John Y. Templeton, III, Annual Lecture in Surgery was first given in May of this year by internationally known Denton A. Cooley, M.D. (Fig. 448). Dr. Templeton (JMC, '41, Fig. 287) was a pioneer in cardiac surgery and had served as the Samuel D. Gross Professor.

Warren W. Nichols (JMC '54) received the alumni Achievement Award (Fig. 449). As Professor of Human Genetics and Pediatrics at the University of Pennsylvania he had conducted research on viruses as a cause of cancer.

As in previous years, many of the graduates pursued academic careers. Jean L. Grem, following a fellowship in oncology at the University of Wisconsin, joined the National Cancer Institute in Bethesda where she advanced to Senior Investigator in the Clinical Oncology Program, Medicine Branch, Division of Cancer Treatment.

John A. Friedline, combining medicine and theology, received his Master of Arts in Theology and served with the United Methodist Church in Costa Rica for a time. He later settled in Jenkins, Kentucky, where in 1989 he was Chief of Staff at Jenkins Community Hospital.

Terrence J. Wilson was trained in physical medicine and served as Chief Resident in the Department of Rehabilitation Medicine at the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania. In 1986 he was appointed Assistant Professor of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation at Eastern Virginia Medical School, Norfolk.

Arthur H. Shedden was trained in ophthalmology including a fellowship in neuroophthalmology at Bascum-Palmer Eye Institute, Miami, Florida. In 1988 he was named Associate Director of Clinical Research at Merck, Sharp, & Dohme Laboratories in relation to ophthalmological projects. Leo J. Maguire, also an ophthalmologist, was appointed to the Staff of the Department at Mayo Clinic.

James D. Balshi, Chief Resident in Surgery at the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania, went on to a fellowship in vascular surgery at Boston University and later entered private practice. Paul E. Stander became Chairman of the Department of Medicine at Maricopa Medical Center, Phoenix, Arizona, and later moved to Milwaukee. Shahab S. Minassian, who completed a Jefferson Fellowship in Reproductive Endocrinology and Fertility, was appointed Assistant Professor of Obstetrics/Gynecology at Medical College of Pennsylvania in 1987. Matthew H. Carabasi was Instructor in Internal Medicine at Hahnemann University. David R. Gastfriend was Assistant Professor of Psychiatry at Massachusetts General Hospital. Thurman Gillespy, III, advanced to Assistant Professor of Radiology at the University of Florida Affiliated Hospital, Gainesville. Beverly L. Hershey was Assistant Professor of Radiology at Medical College of Pennsylvania. Hu Da-Shih became Assistant Professor of Psychiatry at Dartmouth-Hitchcock Medical Center, Hanover, New Hampshire. Paul A. Kearney was appointed Assistant Professor of Surgery at the University of Kentucky Medical Center, Lexington. Robert J. Snyder was Instructor in Obstetrics/Gynecology at Hahnemann University. Joseph G. Sodroski was Instructor in Pathology at Massachusetts General Hospital. Raymond Wargowich was Assistant Professor of Anesthesiology at Robert Wood Johnson Medical School, Piscataway, New Jersey. Carol Anne Wheeler was Assistant Professor of Obstetrics/Gynecology at Tulane University Medical Center.

Appointments of 1980 graduates to the teaching staff at Jefferson included Thomas S. Nowicki who was named Clinical Assistant Professor of Ophthalmology in the Department of Oculoplastics at Wills Eye Hospital. Gail S. Greenspan became Clinical Assistant Professor of Psychiatry and Human Behavior. Michael P. Savage became Clinical Assistant Professor of Medicine in 1987 and John F. Reinhardt Instructor in Medicine at the Medical Center of Delaware affiliate. Anne E. Connor was Instructor in Rehabilitation Medicine also at the Medical Center of Delaware. Barbara G. Frieman was Instructor in Orthopaedic Surgery and Joseph G. Grover Instructor in Obstetrics/Gynecology. Michael S. Kornhauser and Eric J. Margolis became Instructors in Pediatrics. Mark C. Norris was named Assistant Professor of Anesthesiology and Edward H. Jasper Instructor in Surgery (Emergency Surgery). Paul L. Gorsuch, Jr. was appointed Instructor in Neurosurgery in 1988 but resigned the next year to enter private practice in Montana. Haynes B. Cates, Jr. and Thomas P. Lehman were Instructors in Urology. Regina M. Cudemo was appointed Instructor and Karl Doghramji Assistant Professor of Psychiatry and Human Behavior. The latter (Fig. 450) was Director of the Sleep Disorders Center.

At ceremonies in McClellan Hall on September 17, Dr. Andrew J. Ramsay (Fig. 451) was named Daniel Baugh Professor of Anatomy. On this occasion Dr. Joe Henry Coley (JMC, '34, Fig. 267) presented to the Alumni Association a painting of the Daniel Baugh Institute of Anatomy executed by Hobart A. Reimann, M.D., former Chairman of Medicine at Jefferson.

Herbut Auditorium in College basement.
At the Commencement on June 5 in the Academy of Music the M.D. degree was conferred upon 222 graduates by President Bluemle. Thirty-two members of the class had fathers who were alumni. The Alumni Prize was won by John S. Radomski.

Dean William F. Kellow (Fig. 452) died on December 4th of this year and Frank W. Gray, Jr., M.D. (Fig. 453) was appointed Interim Dean. Dr. Kellow’s accomplishments for Jefferson were recognized by the Alumni Association’s Achievement Award and by the naming of the recently renovated College Building’s second floor as the Kellow Conference Center.

The portraits of Drs. Carla E. Goepp, John H. Hodges (JMC, ’39) and John J. Gartland (JMC, ’44) were presented to the University. John Y. Templeton, III (JMC, ’41 Fig. 287) received the Alumni Achievement Award.

The Gross Clinic was exhibited at the Birmingham Museum of Art from February 7 to March 29.

Members of the class who obtained academic appointments at Jefferson were: John D. Angstadt and Diane R. Gillum (Instructors in Surgery); John S. Radomski and Anne L. Rosenberg (Asstistant Professors of Surgery); Linda M. D’Andrea (Instructor in Medicine); Stephen J. Schuster (Assistant Professor of Medicine); Terry Ann Estner (Instructor in Emergency Medicine); Stephen P. Gadomski (Instructor in Otolaryngology); David A. High (Instructor in Dermatology); Andrea G. Jordan (Assistant Professor of Psychiatry); William D. Kocher (Instructor in Pathology and Cell Biology); and John F. Schilling (Instructor in Radiology).

Graduates who obtained academic appointments in other institutions were: Bruce Hart (Instructor in Medicine, Temple University, Fig. 454); Karen A. Johnson (Assistant Professor of Medicine, Georgetown University); Gregory A. Kujala (Instructor in Medicine, West Virginia University); Frederic J. Matlin (Instructor in Anesthesiology, Medical College of Pennsylvania); Hilary Anne Perr (Assistant Professor of Pediatrics, Medical College of Virginia); Barry D. Rinker (Instructor in Medicine, Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center); Diana A. Watts (Assistant Professor of Obstetrics/Gynecology, University of Washington); and Elizabeth T. Young (Assistant Professor of Anesthesiology, Tulane Medical Center).
