Alumni Office of The Jefferson Medical College
1025 Walnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Issued by the Executive Committee of the Alumni Association.
MR. PERCIVAL E. FOERDERER

Chairman, The College Committee.
On January 18, 1943 the Jefferson Medical College received title to the Medical Research Laboratories at Frankford as a gift from Mr. and Mrs. Percival E. Foerderer, the former a member of our Board of Trustees and Chairman of the College Committee.

Through this gift the laboratories of the Jefferson Medical College have been augmented by additional facilities, the real value of which will show only as the future records the scope of activities that are even now being planned for it.

For its value to the College and the members of its staff who have enjoyed the quiet, secluded facilities of this laboratory in the past, Dr. Martin E. Rehfuss, Professor of Clinical Medicine and Lecturer in Therapeutics, presents the following descriptive account:

To Our Alumni:

The story of the Medical Research Laboratories at Frankford dates back some fifteen years or more. At that time we were in need of an experimental outstation where work could be carried on with a relatively large series of animals. There was then no adequate provision for such work at the Jefferson Medical College. Mr. Percival Foerderer, who was interested in one of our projects, placed the valuable property at our disposal and assumed the financial responsibility for its continued operation. One of the early studies had to do with tissue growth, another with the preparation of liver extract. At that time the medical world was duly impressed with the efficacy of liver in the treatment of pernicious anemia. Murphy and Cohn, working with Minot, had succeeded in producing a potent fraction, the nature of which they were not yet able to disclose. One of our men, Dr. Knapp, went to Boston and obtained some of their fraction, but was unable to obtain information as to the method of preparation. Mr. Charles Zahn, our chemist, and some Jefferson students began to prepare various fractions of liver under the direction of Dr. Knapp and myself. This necessitated the use of large amounts of raw liver that were obtained in the abattoirs near Frankford. We succeeded in preparing several potent fractions, one of which was taken over by the Mulford Company and marketed as the A-1 fraction.

From the beginning, I was much interested in the question of common carrier microorganisms in producing disease. My own purpose was to demonstrate, if possible, the etiological relationship of bacteria to human peptic ulcer. We began our early studies with bacterial strains obtained from the wards of the Jefferson Hospital, which were isolated and prepared for us by Dr. Bucher and the late Dr. Crawford of the Pathology Department. We obtained strains from nearly every source including resected ulcers at the operating table. In all these years we never were able to obtain a specific strain which would produce peptic ulcer with any degree of regularity. On the other hand, from the first, certain strains seemed to show an affinity for the biliary tract. In this way our attention gradually shifted to a consideration of biliary tract disease and the study of experimental cholecystitis. Within recent years, Dr. Guy M. Nelson has supervised this work. We have used nearly seven hundred animals with a single streptococcic strain, observing its effects over considerable periods of time and using certain measures such as vaccine and filtrate therapy. We have studied the effects of some of the newer antiseptics, the skin reactions to various bacterial strains, and for a few years we studied complement fixation with these strains. In all these studies we employed about one hundred and two different bacterial strains. The results of some of these studies have been published in various medical journals.

One of the interesting sidelights in our work was the large incidence of joint disease. We have kept careful records over a number of years and have accumulated data regarding the incidence, exacerbation and remission of these joint manifestations. Some of this work has been published, but up to present writing the greater part of the material has not been coordinated or assembled. The work of the Foundation was spread out over a number of projects which were within our limited capacity to study. For some years, through the aid of Dr. J. Earl Thomas, we studied the phenomena of the isolated muscle strip preparations, using muscle extracts and various muscle strip from the digestive tract. These results were published in the Journal of the American Medical Association and were reported on several occasions before the American Gastroenterological Association. Studies on the reaction of various foods to the gastric secretion were carried on for several years. By means of an improvised motion picture stage, we were able to obtain motion pictures of peristalsis in vivo, and to present graphically the behavior of isolated muscle strip preparations, notably those of the gall bladders of dogs and steer. The specimens for this study were secured through the courtesy of Professor Moon. Experiments on tumor transplantation were also carried on by another group.

Animal experimentation requires facilities and organization which can only be obtained with experience. At Frankford, we had to learn the hard way by trial and error. We found that many precautions had to be taken. We finally worked out a system of movable cages, using a design and construction of our own especially suitable to our purpose. In this way we were able to move our animals out into the sunlight and fresh air on favorable days. Daily feeding and cleaning, and the charting of weights and temperatures and other observations require a degree of organization which was gradually attained through the efforts of Mr. Zahn and our animal man, Mr. James Norman, under Dr. Nelson's supervision.

For a number of years a group of Jefferson students on summer vacation were assigned to problems through the benevolence of certain donors; they received a small recompense for their work. Through the unselfish generosity of a number of kind friends, notably the late Mrs. John D. McIlhenny, Mrs. Cyrus Curtis, Mrs. Charles Dana, Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury, Mrs. Buckner, Mrs. Jesse Herold and others, financial aid was provided for a number of projects. In the lean years, however, and from its inception, only the unceasing financial aid and devotion of Mr. Foerderer has enabled us to carry on. No words of mine can adequately express our appreciation of his ready help and encouragement on every occasion, especially during the long years of the depression. For some years we had an annual exhibition of the work, to which the members of the faculty and friends were invited; this was generally well attended.

The four and one-half acres at Frankford and the simple buildings constituted an admirable beginning for work that was often exacting. The Frankford laboratories are within easy reach of the College by means of the Subway. The grounds themselves are completely enclosed so as to afford the seclusion which the work demands. Our late Dean Patterson was much interested in the progress at Frankford and visited the laboratories on several occasions. On a number of visits he expressed the hope that it would be made part of Jefferson. That wish, which both of us fostered and hoped for, has come to pass.

The Jefferson Medical College is to be congratulated in its acquisition of this property within striking distance of our own Institution. It provides an admirable outstation with ample ground for future development. If our beloved College is to keep pace with modern scientific endeavor, the need for such an experimental station must be apparent.

MARTIN E. REHFUSS, M.D.

BEQUESTS AND GIFTS TO THE COLLEGE

The College Committee reports that it has received notice that the J. Ewing Mears Research and Teaching Fellowship Fund has been awarded permanently to the Jefferson Medical College.

The Jefferson Medical College and its Hospital has been named as a residuary beneficiary in the Estate of Dr. Frederick A. Meisle (Jefferson, 1904).

A check of one thousand dollars from the Estate of Jane Audenried Fitler is to be used to establish a fund to be known as the Eli R. Saleeby Student Aid Fund.

The Board of Trustees has accepted a gift of five thousand dollars to be used for the establishment of a Research Fund to be known as the Jacob M. and Esther Pincus Research Fund.
GREETINGS FROM THE COLLEGE

TO OUR ALUMNI:

A Wartime Report on the State of the College: It is thriving, solvent and as proud as ever. In spite of the drain on our teaching personnel we have not curtailed our program in any way. Our basic preclinical science courses are just as tough as you knew them; our clinical work as instructive and exacting as ever.

Research is growing at a rapid pace. Our Board of Trustees supports us in the belief that research need not be a war casualty; that so long as we have a staff we will have research, for it is our belief that the urge to investigate cannot be downed by the pressure of work. What it takes to carry out the urge — money — will always be forthcoming.

As to money, our Board has handled our funds with a skill and judgment that comes close to wizardry. Our dollar can more than match anyone else's dollar.

All in all, your College is in as pretty shape as it has ever been. We have enjoyed your continued moral support and have been helped most generously by your purses. We ask at this time only that we can maintain your confidence in the firm belief that we shall not only come out of this struggle healthy and strong but bigger and better than ever.

February 18, 1943.

WM. HARVEY PERKINS, M.D.,
Dean.

ALUMNI OF JEFFERSON

It gives me great pleasure to have the honor to bring you greetings from your Board of Trustees who watch your achievements with pride and satisfaction.

I can assure you that the Trustees are bending every effort to serve well our great institution. But in your hands and in those of the Faculty rests the fame of Jefferson.

These hands are strong as every day Jefferson graduates are distinguishing themselves in their great field of service.

Despite times that try men's souls, I know that Jefferson can look forward to the future with extreme confidence.

February 23, 1943.

WILLIAM POTTER WEAR,
Member of the Board of Trustees.
FACULTY CHANGES

The following appointments and promotions have been made in the Faculty of the Jefferson Medical College and its Hospital since the publication of the last issue of the Bulletin:

*H. E. Radasch, M.Sc., M.D., was accorded the title of Emeritus Professor of Histology and Embryology.

B. B. Vincent Lyon, M.D., promoted from Associate Professor to Clinical Professor of Medicine.

J. Bernard Bernstine, M.D., promoted from Assistant Professor to Associate Professor of Obstetrics.

George Allen Bennett, A.B., M.D., promoted from Assistant Professor to Associate Professor of Anatomy.

Francis M. Forster, M.D., appointed Assistant Professor of Neurology.

Joseph Stasney, M.D., appointed Assistant Professor of Pathology.

Kenneth E. Fry, M.D., promoted from Associate to Assistant Professor of Surgery.

Marshall M. Lieber, M.D., promoted from Associate to Assistant Professor of Pathology.

Carroll R. Mullen, M.D., promoted from Associate to Assistant Professor of Ophthalmology.

J. Scott Fritch, M.D., promoted from Associate to Assistant Professor of Ophthalmology.

Roy W. Mohler, M.D., promoted from Associate to Assistant Professor of Gynecology.

E. Ross Hart, M.D., promoted from Associate to Assistant Professor of Pharmacology.

John Coppolino, M.D., promoted from Associate to Assistant Professor of Pediatrics.

Guy Maurice Nelson, M.D., promoted from Associate to Assistant Professor of Medicine.

George J. Willauer, M.D., promoted from Demonstrator to Associate in Surgery.

James M. Surver, M.D., promoted from Demonstrator to Associate in Surgery.

Arthur G. Pratt, M.D., promoted from Demonstrator to Associate in Dermatology.

William Milton Hart, M.S., Ph.D., appointed Associate in Physiology.

Fred W. Ellis, M.S., Ph.D., appointed Associate in Pharmacology.

M. Noble Bates, A.B., M.A., Ph.D., appointed Associate in Histology and Embryology.

Sherman A. Eger, M.D., promoted from Demonstrator to Associate in Surgery.

Oscar T. Wood, M.D., appointed Associate in Medicine.

William Harding Kneedler, M.D., appointed Associate in Medicine.

Moses Behrend, M.D., appointed Associate in Surgery.

Robert S. Bookhammer, M.D., promoted from Demonstrator to Associate in Psychiatry.

*Died November 29, 1942.
Donald McGrew, M.D., promoted from Instructor to Demonstrator of Pathology.
Harry M. Bogaev, M.D., promoted from Instructor to Demonstrator of Urology.
Robert Charr, M.D., promoted from Instructor to Demonstrator of Medicine.
Thomas Lawrence Williams, promoted from Instructor to Demonstrator of Physiological Chemistry.
Peter A. Herbut, M.D., promoted from Assistant Demonstrator to Instructor in Pathology.
Louis G. Feo, M.D., promoted from Assistant Demonstrator to Instructor in Obstetrics.
Leon L. Berns, M.D., promoted from Assistant Demonstrator to Instructor in Anatomy.
David Naidoff, M.D., promoted from Assistant Demonstrator to Instructor in Ophthalmology.
J. Woodrow Savacool, M.D., promoted from Assistant Demonstrator to Instructor in Medicine.
Clare C. Hodge, M.D., promoted from Assistant Demonstrator to Instructor in Surgery.
George Kennedy, M.D., appointed Instructor in Roentgenology.
Eugene L. Sielke, M.D., promoted from Assistant Demonstrator to Instructor in Psychiatry.
Joseph Louis Nocentini, M.D., appointed Assistant Demonstrator of Ophthalmology.
Paul M. Pegau, M.D., appointed Assistant Demonstrator of Medicine.
Arthur G. Baker, M.D., appointed Assistant Demonstrator of Medicine.
Joseph Ricchuiti, M.D., appointed Assistant Demonstrator of Medicine.
Alexander S. Sochacki, M.D., appointed Assistant Demonstrator of Medicine.
Arthur Bolden, M.D., appointed Assistant Demonstrator of Medicine.
Joseph Thomas Cadden, M.D., appointed Assistant Demonstrator of Medicine.
Samuel E. Rynes, M.D., appointed Assistant Demonstrator of Medicine.
J. Stanley Cohen, M.D., appointed Assistant Demonstrator of Gynecology.
Edward H. Bishop, M.D., appointed Assistant Demonstrator of Gynecology.
I. Daniel Wilner, M.D., appointed Assistant Demonstrator of Gynecology.
Daniel J. Langton, M.D., appointed Assistant Demonstrator of Laryngology.
C. Balcom Moore, M.D., appointed Assistant Demonstrator of Urology.
Charles W. Semisch, M.D., appointed Assistant Demonstrator of Pediatrics.
Edward I. Lipsius, M.D., appointed Assistant Demonstrator of Ophthalmology.
Sidney Gordon Radbill, M.D., appointed Assistant Demonstrator of Ophthalmology.
Ned Tyson Raker, M.D., appointed Assistant Demonstrator of Surgery.
Jacob M. Cahan, M.D., appointed Assistant Demonstrator of Medicine.
Harry L. Rogers, M.D., appointed Assistant Demonstrator of Medicine.
Clarence Conway Briscoe, M.D., appointed Assistant Demonstrator of Obstetrics.
Frederick H. Kramer, M.D., appointed Assistant Demonstrator of Psychiatry.
George Teplick, M.D., appointed Roentgenologist to the Department of Anatomy.
Benjamin Haskell, M.D., promoted from Instructor to Demonstrator of Proctology.
Max Rosenzweig, M.D., appointed Assistant Demonstrator of Urology.
The following facts regarding the members of the Senior Class who are related to those of the medical profession are very enlightening.

The newly-elected President of the Alumni Association is a practicing surgeon in Atlantic City, New Jersey, although he was born in Philadelphia on July 11, 1891.

He is a member of the Graduating Class of 1914 and since that time, with the exception of the period during World War I, he has been in active practice.

During the first World War, Dr. Allman served in the United States Navy and was stationed most of the time at Grays Ferry Road Hospital in Philadelphia. There he had the privilege and pleasure of working under and with Dr. J. Chalmers DaCosta and Dr. Hobart A. Hare, both of whom were Lieutenant-Commanders.

In 1921, Dr. Allman became Surgical Chief of the Atlantic City Hospital, which position he has retained to this date.

In addition to being Senior Surgical Chief at the above institution, Dr. Allman is also Chief Surgeon at several other institutions in and around Atlantic City.

He is a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons, a Fellow of the International College of Surgeons, a Diplomate of the American Board of Surgery, a member of the Society of Surgeons of New Jersey and of many other societies allied with his specialty.

Dr. Allman is Past-President of the Association of Military Surgeons, and at the present time is Deputy Chief of the Emergency Medical Services of the Coastal Zone of New Jersey, as well as Chief for those of Atlantic City.
GREETINGS FROM OUR PRESIDENT

To my fellow Alumni at home and abroad, I extend the Greetings of your Alumni Association.

To those of you in the Armed Services, let me assure you that you have our constant thoughts and our every good wish. We are proud of the record you are making. May God speed the day of your safe return.

Those of us at home are endeavoring to carry on as you would have us do, and to maintain the high standing of our profession and the good name of our Alma Mater.

When you return, we shall again join in a closer union than ever before, so that the good name of "Jefferson," and the excellent reputation you have helped it attain, may forever be emblazoned on the pages of history.

To those of you serving on the "home fronts," may you have strength for the extra burdens thrown upon you, so that your successful fulfillment of your obligations, and your loyalty to the traditions of Jefferson may make us all better men.

And, "when the lights go on again," because of your devotion to duty, your loyalty to your Country, and your willingness at all times, and under all circumstances, to serve well your fellow men, Jefferson will stand out boldly as before — firm, secure and unchallenged.

DAVID B. ALLMAN, M.D., F.A.C.S.

LIBRARY NEWS

Since publication of the last issue of the Bulletin, the Library has obtained through purchase and gifts: 561 books, 1,168 journals, and 514 pamphlets.

Dr. Fielding O. Lewis presented twenty books and his cabinet collection of lantern slides, related mostly to Otology and Laryngology.

From the Estate of the late Dr. J. Torrance Rugh, the Library received one hundred and thirteen books.

Dr. Brooke M. Anspach, Emeritus Professor of Gynecology, donated four hundred and sixty-five journals, one hundred and fifty-one books, and sixty-eight reprints.

Among the other gifts received are:

- From Dr. Paul B. Blake, '29: 57 books,
- From Dr. Willard H. Kinney, '06: 39 books,
- From Dr. Henry B. Orton, '08: 141 reprints,
- From Dr. E. Quin Thornton, '00: 25 books,
- From Dr. George J. Willauer, '23: 141 Surgical journals.

Sixty-four new books approved by the Library Committee have been purchased and placed upon the shelves. There are now over 41,000 volumes in our Library.

The new additions include several books written by members of the Faculty. Dr. J. Parsons Schaeffer's new edition of Morris Anatomy (Tenth edition) and Dr. Martin E. Rehfuss' new book on Indigestion have both been issued. Lt. Col. Burgess L. Gordon presented a copy of his new edition of Hughes' Practice of Medicine.

A subject directory listing over three hundred subjects has been installed in the Library reading room. It is centrally located and refers readers to the numbered case where material on a given subject can be found. Students and Alumni are finding it of considerable value in immediately locating the books they need.

The Assistant Librarian, Robert T. Lentz, has been inducted into the Army.
After Pearl Harbor it did not take long for Jefferson Alumni all over the country to demand active service wherever they might be most needed. Their Alma Mater too was on the alert. Under the leadership of Professor Baldwin L. Keyes, who had won great reputation as a psychiatrist between the two Wars, the membership of a complete Army Hospital Unit had been held in readiness for some time. On June 14, 1942, that group of Jefferson doctors and nurses, some one hundred and sixty strong, left for intensive training at Camp Bowie, in the flat, dust-swept plains of Texas. They had at last officially become the Thirty-eighth General Hospital, Army of the United States.

Through the long, dry summer months, while the British were fighting desperately to hold the Egyptian desert, and American eyes turned to the treacherous jungle fighting in one Far Eastern island after another, "the 38th" eagerly awaited the call to active duty. Jefferson men who were every day swelling the ranks of the Medical Corps of the Army and the Navy and those who worked at home in induction stations, camp infirmaries, medical training centers, and Naval hospitals, knew then that, even aside from their endeavors, Jefferson as a working unit was in the War. Hers would be the honored task of the medical profession in times of war: the tending of wounded men on the field of battle.
On to Victory

In late fall 1942, came the news that the Thirty-eighth General Hospital personnel, considerably grown in number, had reached their destination and were carrying on their assigned duties. Located somewhere between the Atlantic Ocean and the Red Sea, our "Jefferson Hospital Overseas" is in the very shadow of the great American Invasion Army now campaigning in North Africa. Low, thinly scattered buildings are equipped to provide shelter and care for a thousand patients at a time, though water has to be carried in gallon tin cans and heated over an oil stove. While essential supplies continue to arrive, some of the equipment has to be improvised as the work of the Unit proceeds. Beyond this we know little except that the heroic vigilance of our doctors and nurses will save many lives, and that the Unit which ministered to the battlefields of stricken France and Belgium in the First World War, is now an oasis of refuge from the smouldering front of battle on the Mediterranean coast of Africa.

And that, in itself, is a prelude to victory, when liberation will come to Europe and to our civilized world.

Thus begins the Great Adventure.
Modern efficiency with ancient methods.

Dr. Gordon thinks it's safer nearer the ground.

No ration books required.
The First Patient to be admitted to the New Hospital.

Colonel Ostrander and Colonel Keyes talk it over.

Jefferson prepared to serve—as always.
SUBJECT: Commendation.
TO: Lieut. Colonel Burgess L. Gordon, S.M.O.

1. As we approach our destination, a reviewing glance from embarkation by the advance party to the present brings out in bold relief the contribution of the S.M.O. and his staff to the success of our voyage to date.

2. By your diligent administration and the able work of your assistants adequate preparation for embarkation was effected. During the voyage the operatives have responded to splendid care providing an enviable record. Perhaps most to be appreciated is your analytic approach in determining the source of illness and immediately taking the necessary steps to curb the spread of infection. Outstanding is your record in halting respiratory infections and other communicable ailments.

3. As Commanding Officer of Troops, I thank and commend you and your staff for your splendid contribution to this unique movement of troops ordered by yours and my government.

JOHN E. BAIRD, Lieut. Colonel
Commanding
REPORTED MISSING

Arthur LaRoe, Captain, M. C., A. U. S.
Class of 1916

Captain Arthur LaRoe of the Medical Corps of the Army Air Force has been reported missing on a flight to "a distant foreign front" since July 23, 1942.

In the last twelve hours before he undertook what he described as a dangerous hop to a distant island, Captain LaRoe wrote to his youngest son, Bob, aged 17: "This is the zero hour so far in my almost 51 years..." Adding words of courage and fortitude, he addressed messages also to his wife and eldest son. The family resides in Westfield, New Jersey.

A reserve officer in the air force, Captain LaRoe reported for active duty as early as April, 1941. At that time he was assigned as chief flight surgeon at Lowry Field, Denver, Colorado.

WOUNDED IN ACTION AT GUADALCANAL

Lawrence E. Schuster, Lieutenant, M. C., U. S. N. R.
Class of 1931

Assigned to the task of surgeon for a Marine raiding battalion at Guadalcanal during one of the toughest offensives for the capture of the island, Lieutenant Lawrence E. Schuster, of the Medical Corps of the U. S. Naval reserve, was wounded in a raid on a Japanese-held native village and had his own wounds to dress before joining his companions on a temporary withdrawal and waiting to be picked up by a landing boat offshore along with the rest of the injured. Last month, Lieutenant Schuster was back home to relate the story and took advantage of the opportunity to make some typical Marine remarks.

Only these came from the mouth of a Marine doctor. Blood plasma, Lieutenant Schuster reported, proved priceless for wounded men who go into shock, since the medical service did not use it as a routine procedure for all wounds. However, concluded this officer, "most Marines are so tough that few went into shock."
TWO NEW HOSPITALS ARE NAMED AFTER MILITARY HEROES OF THE CLASS OF 1893

COLONEL THOMAS LEIDY RHoads (1870-1940)

A new hospital under construction in Utica, N. Y. is named in honor of the late Col. Thomas L. Rhoads, '93, who was medical officer at the White House during the administration of President Taft and had a distinguished military record.

He was born April 10, 1870 and died August 20, 1940 in Boyertown, Pennsylvania. His long career as a U. S. Army surgeon began during the Spanish-American War and culminated with the reception of the Distinguished Service Award for his work during the First World War as division surgeon for the 80th Division in France and chief surgeon of the First Corps of the First Army.

Col. Rhoads was early named medical officer at the White House, and in 1913 President Woodrow Wilson sent him to Dayton, Ohio, to combat a threatened epidemic following a flood in that section. After the War he served as surgeon at Camp Dix, N. J., as surgeon of the Sixth Corps Area, and as instructor of the New York National Guard. He became a Colonel October 4, 1926 and retired from active service in 1931.

COLONEL PERCY MOREAU ASHBURN (1872-1940)

In McKinney, Texas, a new hospital was recently dedicated to Col. Percy M. Ashburn, '93. Col. Ashburn's death on August 20, 1940 ended a brilliant career as a military surgeon, which saw him through two wars and long years of peacetime service.

A native of Batavia, Ohio, Col. Ashburn acquired great reputation in the field of tropical medicine from the time he served in the Spanish-American War until he became general inspector of the Health Department of Panama in 1913. During the First World War he was detailed as chief medical officer of the training camp at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana, and went to France with the American Expeditionary Forces in 1918 to serve with the chief surgeon's office in Tours. He did not return to the States till the very end of 1919, having been named a member of the Commission to examine and report upon the treatment of German war prisoners in Bern, Switzerland. In recognition of his distinguished service he was made an officer of the French Legion of Honor. After the war, he established and taught in the Medical Service School in Carlisle, Pennsylvania and was Professor of Military Hygiene at West Point for several years. At the time of his retirement in 1931 he was librarian of the Army Medical Library. He wrote two very valuable books, first the well-known Military Hygiene and finally the important History of the Medical Department of the United States Army.
U. S. NAVY PROMOTIONS AND CITATIONS

WILLIAM CHAMBERS, Rear Admiral, M. C., U. S. N.
Class of 1907

Captain William Chambers, of the Navy Bureau of Medicine, has been nominated by President Roosevelt "for promotion to the rank of Rear Admiral."

In the last War, Rear Admiral Chambers served as a lieutenant under General Smedley D. Butler. More recently he was in command of the U. S. Naval Hospital at San Diego, California.

JOHN HOWARD CHAMBERS, Captain, M. C., U. S. N.
Class of 1916

Captain J. H. Chambers, as commanding officer of a naval hospital unit active in the Pearl Harbor disaster, received commendation for the work of his unit from Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, Commander of the Pacific Fleet. Although the commended unit was uncompleted at the time of the Japanese attack, its personnel "nevertheless saved many lives."

Captain Chambers, now 49, has been a member of the Marines' medical corps since August, 1917.

JEROME HARTMAN, Lieutenant Commander, M. C., U. S. N.
Class of 1923

In the words of Sir Andrew Cunningham of the Allied High Command at a special press conference in Washington, Lt. Commander Hartman was highly praised "for his heroism in tending wounded men" on the bombed aircraft carrier Illustrious.

In recognition of his courage, Commander Hartman has been decorated by the British.

WE WERE HONORED WITH THE PRESENCE OF DR. ALAN GREGG, DIRECTOR OF THE DIVISION OF MEDICAL SCIENCES AT THE ROCKEFELLER FOUNDATION IN NEW YORK CITY, WHO WAS TO MAKE THE COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS THE FOLLOWING DAY. IT IS A PRIVILEGE TO HAVE THESE DISTINGUISHED MEN, WHO HAVE DONE AND ARE CONTINUING TO DO SUCH SPLENDID WORK, MEETING THE CHALLENGE OF LIFE ITSELF IN THIS CHAOTIC WORLD DOING THEIR DAILY TASKS WITH THE SERENITY OF ONE WHO HAS CONQUERED.

Portrait presented to the College by the class of 1943.
This year the curb in activities due to the intensified war effort cut down the size and frequency of Alumni gatherings and Branch meetings to a minimum. It has not been a very active year, but in spite of the enforced slack it has brought us proof that Jefferson Alumni are today more faithful and eager than ever and a renewed confidence that our present trials will find them more closely bound when peace is come.

Since publication of the last Bulletin, several meetings have been reported to the Executive Committee through the year.

On April 29, 1942, the Northern New Jersey Chapter of the Alumni Association held its meeting in Newark, N. J., at the Essex. The guest speakers were Lieut. Col. Baldwin L. Keyes, whose subject was "Malingering in the Army," and Lieut. Col. Frank Strome, who spoke on general Army topics. Thirty Alumni attended.

The Officers of the Northern New Jersey Branch are:

President: Dr. Edwin Steiner, '01
Vice President: Dr. Lee Hughes, '16
Secretary-Treasurer: Dr. Rocco M. Nittoli, '16

On May 13, 1942 the Jefferson Alumni of North Carolina held a luncheon meeting in Charlotte, North Carolina, at the Hotel Charlotte. Dr. Warren B. Davis, as President of the Association, attended and reported that seventy of our men were present. Dr. Karl B. Pace, '14, of Greenville, North Carolina, was the presiding officer at this meeting held in conjunction with the 89th Annual Session of the Medical Society of North Carolina, May 11, 12 and 13.

On November 11, 1942, an intimate gathering of Jefferson men was held in Richmond, Virginia. A group of twelve met for dinner on that day, while the Southern Medical Association was in session (November 10th to 12th).

On November 18, 1942, Dr. Perkins spoke at the Luzerne County Medical Association Meeting in Wilkes-Barre. This also was followed by a gathering of Jefferson Alumni.

The Officers of the Northeastern Pennsylvania Branch are:

President: Dr. Walter J. Larkin, '23

Vice-President: Dr. James H. Mason, '18
Secretary-Treasurer: Dr. Harry Subin, '24
ALUMNI ACTIVITIES REPORTED BY THE CONVENTION COMMITTEE

The Convention Committee's immediate function is to stimulate interest in various National and State medical conventions and to facilitate Jefferson Alumni gatherings at these meetings. In 1942 this Committee was of major assistance to Jefferson Alumni to whom these opportunities were opened.

In a year of rationing and restrictions in travel, informal gatherings and luncheons were in order. During the meeting of the American Congress on Obstetrics and Gynecology in St. Louis, April 6 to 10, Dr. Eugene J. O'Malley arranged a luncheon for Jefferson Alumni with Professor Lewis C. Scheffey as guest of honor. At an informal gathering of Alumni at St. Paul during the Session of the American College of Physicians, April 20 to 24, Dean Perkins was visiting guest. On April 21, in Atlantic City, a Jefferson luncheon was held at the Haddon Hall Hotel during the Annual Meeting of the New Jersey State Medical Society. Dr. Robert A. Matthews, Associate Chairman of the Convention Committee, and Dr. John T. Eads, Chairman of the Entertainment Committee, represented their colleagues at the affair.

During the Annual Meeting of the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania in Pittsburgh October 7, eighty-four Jefferson men met at the Duquesne Club where an Alumni Banquet was held. The outstanding example of a large gathering this year was the Jefferson get-together in Atlantic City during the Convention of the American Medical Association June 8 to 12. Three hundred and four Alumni were in attendance and met at a buffet supper at the Traymore Hotel. Among the distinguished Alumni who addressed the gathering were Surgeon-General James C. Magee, Rear Admiral Jerome H. Chambers, Colonel George F. Lull, and Dean Perkins. The untiring efforts of the Atlantic City Committee, under the Chairmanship of Dr. David B. Allman, together with the cooperation of our Convention Committee, did much to insure the success of this meeting.

Altogether the work of the Convention Committee for 1942, in contacting local committees where Conventions were scheduled to be held, has proven worthwhile. To express the opinion of the Chairman, Dr. Theodore R. Fetter, in a recent report on the above activities, it is important to familiarize the Alumni with the accomplishments of the College, and among the various National Medical organizations "there are many fertile areas in which to sow the greatness of Jefferson."
THE CLASS ORGANIZATION COMMITTEE

Under the leadership of Dr. Adolph A. Walkling, the Class Organization Committee has acquired reputation as "the Reunion Committee." In June 1942 they organized five-year reunion classes with considerable success in spite of the world situation, the banner for attendance going to the Class of 1917, which had eighty members in a two-day reunion.

As Commencement no longer comes in June and will probably vary with the seasons until victory is ours, the Committee suggests that reunions be undertaken by the individual classes. Accordingly these are adopting their own policy and meeting when best they can. The Class of 1928, for one, issued the following statement: "The Class of 1928 has voted to postpone its 15th year reunion until after the war."

The continued support of Alumni is respectfully solicited in raising a fund of $10,000, which will provide special nursing care, medicine, etc., for worthy Alumni when such aid is essential. In the Alumni Bulletin of June, 1942, the amount contributed toward this fund was $525.86. Since that time, the following contributors have sent in donations, bringing the total amount to date to $1140.86:

May 23, 1942—Dr. Louis C. Jacobs, '31
May 23, 1942—Dr. Louis Levin, '19
May 23, 1942—Dr. Maurice J. Karpeles, '96

Your Committee hopes that contributions this year will be greater in number and larger in amounts. Do your part to keep the thermometer soaring! Your kindness will be appreciated.

WARREN B. DAVIS,
Chairman.

I enclose a contribution of $....................to the Endowed Room and Benevolence Fund to provide special nursing care, etc., for occupants of the endowed room for Jefferson graduates.

Contributions should be sent to the Alumni Office of the College. Make checks payable to Endowed Room and Benevolence Fund, Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, Pa.
A résumé of the present status of the Alumni Endowment Fund is interesting and informative. A large proportion of the money secured over many years has been permanently expended or invested for specific purposes, while an additional unit is in process of accumulation. The following summary, as of February 15, 1943, is explanatory:

Transferred to College and Hospital Campaign Fund, April 16, 1930 ..............  $100,000.00
Transferred to the Research Building Fund, August 2, 1940 .......................... 125,000.00
Transferred to the Permanent Alumni Endowment Fund, November 11, 1939 ...... 80,088.20
(This figure represents 25 per cent of accumulated funds set aside to provide an income for the payment of full-time laboratory teachers and research workers, preferentially Jefferson graduates)
Less loss on sale of investments and charged off book values .................... 5,786.69
Less commission paid Pennsylvania Co. and collection fee on check ............. 5.00
Balance, February 15, 1943 ........................................ 29,289.61

Total ........................................... $340,169.50

The balance of the present working fund of $29,289.61 is made up as follows:
Balance, January 31, 1942 ........................................  $24,039.53
Alumni contributions, January 31, 1942 to February 15, 1943 ...................... 4,528.08
Interest, January 31, 1942 to January 31, 1943 .................................. 722.00

$29,289.61

Annual sums continue to be contributed by the Alumni. Of exceptional worth is the plan adopted in 1931 whereby the majority of the members of each graduating class have signed notes starting with a dollar and increasing one dollar annually for twenty years, thus making total contributions of $210.00 each. One hundred and twelve graduates of the Class of 1943 have participated in the plan this year. The creation of so substantial a fund represents early and continued support of the College by a growing number of Alumni, who thereby share materially in the increased program of collegiate activity.

Naturally losses in contributions occur from year to year because of deaths among the Alumni, thus resulting in the cancellation of some notes and pledges. It is therefore incumbent upon us to continue, and to increase if possible, the yearly pledges of previous years, especially those which were in effect prior to the initiation of the present annual note-signing plan, that has been so helpful during the past twelve years.

Such gifts are, of course, deductible for income tax purposes, and the Alumni Office is eager to co-operate with Jefferson graduates, or their friends, in any way possible, so that the annual pledge system may continue to be as effective in the future as it has in the past.

Lewis C. Scheffey, Chairman
College Endowment Committee
It is with deep regret that Jefferson announces to her Alumni the death of Dr. James Torrance Rugh, of the Class of 1892, member of the Faculty since 1908 and Professor of Orthopedic Surgery since 1918. At the time of his death in Cynwyd near Philadelphia, October 12, 1942, Dr. Rugh was seventy-five years of age, having been appointed Emeritus Professor in 1938.

Professor Rugh's association with the College began after his graduation from Adrian College, Adrian, Michigan, in 1889. Upon his graduation from Jefferson in 1892, he received appointment as resident physician in Jefferson Hospital. Since, he had been teaching consistently in the Department of Orthopedic Surgery as well as holding the position of chief orthopedic surgeon at Jefferson Hospital for a number of years.

Son of a Civil War surgeon (Jacob W. Rugh, '51), Professor Rugh was senior consulting orthopedic surgeon to all cantonments and base hospitals during World War I and was promoted to the rank of a commissioned colonel in 1918. He was chiefly responsible for the organization of prophylactic orthopedic treatment among soldiers.

Continuing work in his specialty, Professor Rugh became a pioneer in correctional work among crippled children throughout Pennsylvania as well as in various regional crippled children's clinics. His reputation was sustained by countless articles and publications in the field of orthopedic surgery.

In teaching, and he devoted nearly fifty years of his life to the instruction of medical students at Jefferson, Professor Rugh was known for the clarity and simplicity of his exposition and for his forceful delivery. He made many friends among his students and colleagues, who saw in him a great surgeon, endowed with a mechanically inclined mind, with an unlimited fund of patience, and the faith and optimism which demands results. It was his firm belief that contact with great minds, such as he himself experienced with "the grand old men of Jefferson" in the 1890's, is our richest inheritance and incentive to progress. As he wrote to his students in 1938:

"The realizations of today are the visions of yesterday . . ."
Born in Coatesville, Pa., on November 17, 1891, to Anna Alexander and James Alexander Clarke, Sr., J. Alexander Clarke, Jr., acquired his early education in the Philadelphia Manual Training School. Completing his pre-medical course at Haverford College, he entered Jefferson in 1912 and graduated with the Class of 1916. He was a member of the Phi Chi Medical Fraternity.

His career as a physician began in New York City. There he served a one and one-half year internship at the Roosevelt Hospital and, having been rejected from enlistment in the Medical Corps because of allergic difficulties, practiced general medicine at St. Johns Guild Hospital on Staten Island, in the Allergy Clinic of the Roosevelt Hospital, and eventually in the office of Dr. Robert A. Cooke. During this period he began teaching in the medical clinics of Columbia University.

When he came to Philadelphia in 1920, Dr. Clarke continued his teaching at Columbia and also taught students from the University of Pennsylvania Medical School. He was associated with the Medical Department of the Philadelphia General Hospital under Dr. David Riesman, and continued work in his specialty. Over a period of three years the Veterans Bureau in Philadelphia secured his services to solve Allergic problems following the First World War.

The very modest beginning of Dr. Clarke's Allergy Clinic at Jefferson in a small store on Eleventh Street and its growth into one of the largest clinics in the Out-Patient Department of the Hospital bear testimony to his organizing skill and his ability as a clinician. He was painstaking and thorough in his examinations and won completely the respect and loyalty of his patients.

In the medical world Dr. Clarke held several important offices, among them the presidency of the Society for the Study of Asthma and Allied Diseases and of the Philadelphia Allergy Society. He published many interesting scientific articles in collaboration with his associates. The greatest loss precipitated by his untimely death on January 31, 1943, is his unfinished book. Those of us who were privileged to a preview of it were impressed with its scope and originality. Let us hope that this work can be completed and published as a memorial.

HARRY L. ROGERS, M.D.
The death on November 29, 1942, of Dr. Henry Erdmann Radasch, of the Class of 1901, Professor of Histology and Embryology since 1921, came as a painful shock to his Jefferson friends of years past.

Dr. Radasch had already acquired a reputation for scientific instruction when he came to Jefferson in 1898 to continue his studies. Born in Keokuk, Iowa, in 1874, he obtained his early education there and progressed to the State University at Iowa where he obtained a B.S. degree and in 1897 an M.S. degree. He started work as an assistant in the Chemistry laboratory at that University and returned to Keokuk for the year 1897-8 to be Lecturer in the College of Physicians and Surgeons. In his home town began also his course in medicine.

Dr. Radasch's first five years at Jefferson established him as a member of her Faculty. From 1898 to 1901 he was Assistant in Histology under Dr. Rosenberger as well as student in medicine. Continuing in this Department, he was elected Demonstrator of Histology and Embryology as soon as he obtained his M.D. degree from Jefferson in 1901. He had progressed far when in 1903 he spent several months in study abroad, undertaking research in the Zoological Laboratory of the University of Leipzig. The following year saw him promoted to Associate in Histology and Embryology.

Through the years, until he retired as Professor Emeritus a year ago, Professor Radasch won the admiration and affection of entire classes of students who appreciated most in his careful instruction the fact that he remained ever one of their kind, a constant student. Professor Radasch worked tirelessly, bringing new light on such varied topics of his specialty as muscular anomalies, red blood cells, acid cells of the stomach, composition of compact bone, superfetation, and senility of bone. He is the author of three manuals of histology and anatomy and collaborated in several revisions of the Reference Handbook of Medical Sciences. Professor Radasch's long-remembered reputation as a teacher goes hand in hand with his recognized fame as an anatomist.
Dr. Wilmer Krusen began his career as a pharmacist in 1886, becoming interested in medicine and studied at the old Medico-Chirurgical College, 1889-1890, and at the University of Pennsylvania, 1890-1891, when he entered Jefferson Medical College, from which he graduated in 1893.

He was resident physician in Jefferson Medical College Hospital the year after his graduation, and in 1895 he was made an instructor in Clinical Gynecology at the College, a position he held for ten years. He then became Professor of Gynecology at Temple University Medical School, where he served for a number of years as Trustee and Vice-President and was very active in the work of widening the scope and usefulness of the institution. He ultimately became Honorary Vice-President and Professor Emeritus of Gynecology.

Dr. Krusen served twice as Director of Public Health in Philadelphia, was President of the Philadelphia Obstetrical Society, the Philadelphia Clinical Society for two years, the State Health Association and the Philadelphia Medical Club. He was a fellow of the American College of Surgeons and the Philadelphia College of Physicians, a member of the Pharmaceutical Association, the Philadelphia Medical Society, the American Medical Association and many other organizations.

Although Dr. Krusen had been invalided for the past three years, his death, which occurred February 9th at his home in Media, came as a great shock to his many friends.

A life of service seems somehow to be foremost in the mind of the student who plans a career in medicine. Dr. Dudley L. Page, who died November 20, 1942, at the age of 97, retained that principle, though he never practiced. Born in New London, N. H., October 20, 1845, he earned his first money digging potatoes, but left farm work to volunteer in the Army of the North at the beginning of the Civil War, when he was just sixteen.

Dr. Page opened his first candy shop in Lowell, Massachusetts, in 1866 and lived and prospered there the greater part of his life. Ten years after the Civil War he opened a second shop in Philadelphia to earn his way through a course of lectures at the Jefferson Medical College, but he returned to his first enterprise in Lowell as soon as he had received his degree in 1879. His skill in candy-making and his natural aptitude in business kept Dr. Page at his chosen occupation for almost seventy years. Except for the time he took off to serve in the Spanish War and in the State Guard during the World War, and his brief interlude in medicine, Dr. Page made business and good citizenship his life work.

He emerged, as head of Page & Shaw Confectioners, the most beloved citizen of Lowell, known to local residents as "Uncle Dudley" and largely identified with the business, social and civic life of the city.

SAMUEL W. WOODHOUSE, JR., '95

Samuel W. Woodhouse, Jr., of the Class of 1895, who died February 2, 1943, had a long double career in medicine and in art, although his age was only sixty-nine. He followed the career of Physician through to the end of the First World War, during which he served as medical director for the Red Cross in Southern France. In 1919 he left the field of medicine and became director of the Philadelphia Museum, which post he held until 1928, the year the beautiful new Museum on the Parkway was completed.

Dr. Woodhouse's hobby of collecting 18th Century furniture and silverware and his intense interest in early American craftsmanship and odd topics of art won him a high reputation in Philadelphia circles as art expert and antiquarian.
