An Appreciation

A. G. Ellis, M.D., Jefferson, 1900

Jefferson Medical College has suffered an irreparable loss by the passing of the Senior member of its Faculty, one whose memory will be forever treasured in its annals as a loyal Alumnus, an outstanding teacher, a gentle character, and a most lovable man.

To write a well-balanced appreciation of Dr. Rosenberger and his service to Jefferson is not easy for one who was his student and later was privileged for many years to be a teaching colleague. The man himself—his sterling character, sunny disposition, innate kindliness, perennial modesty, devotion to work, popularity with staff and students—stands out so prominently that one wishes to speak of him instead of giving proper space to his scientific attainments and the many well-deserved honors that came to him. He was so definitely the exact opposite of the absent-minded scientist and the pompous professor that to all those who knew him well he was “Rosie,” an affectionate appellation that just included the whole works. And methinks that if his gentle spirit were still in touch it would approve of this emphasis on the personal side. But a brief summary of his life must be on record.

Randle C. Rosenberger, descended from Pennsylvania Dutch ancestry, was born March 4, 1873, in Philadelphia, and reached his quota of days on February 21, 1944. Educated in the schools of his native city he was graduated from Jefferson Medical College in the class of 1894. In the fall of that year he was appointed Assistant Demonstrator of Histology in the College and Assistant in Out-Patient Diseases of Children. Thus began a service to his college that lasted within a few months of fifty years, a long and honorable career of continuous endeavor and loyalty that brought him many years before its close to membership in the major Faculty. And during all those years he was exactly the same to all persons in the institution—kindly, courteous, cheery, enthusiastic, modest almost to effacement. What a record and an inspiration for a man to leave behind!

On the road from Assistant to eminence in the Faculty were many milestones. In 1895 Pathologic Histology was added to his work and in 1898 he became Demonstrator of Normal Histology and Bacteriology and Curator of the Museum, the last-named post being held until 1910. In 1902 he was made Associate in, and in 1904 Assistant Professor of, Bacteriology. In 1909 came the honor of appointment to the Professorship of Hygiene and Bacteriology. In 1924 that title was changed to Professor of Preventive Medicine and Bacteriology and that in turn in 1941 to Professor of Bacteriology and Immunology. Bacteriology, with its ramifications, was his life work. Because of the passing of other colleagues he was for several years Senior member of the Faculty.
Dr. Rosenberger was at various periods Assistant Pathologist to the Philadelphia Hospital, Pathologist to the Henry Phipps Institute and to St. Joseph's Hospital, and Lecturer on Hygiene at the Women's Medical College of Pennsylvania. For many years he was Director of the Clinical Laboratory of the Philadelphia General Hospital. He was a member of various local, State and National Medical Societies.

During those busy years of teaching and laboratory supervision he wrote many medical articles, special studies being made on tuberculosis. But Dr. Rosenberger was pre-eminently a teacher, one who keenly recognized that thorough preparation for the instruction of students and precedence over research. Adherence to that principle, in spite of the exigencies of College finance, during the active and potentially productive period of his career saw him of necessity performing routine work that daily consumed hours of his time. In all our intimate conversations during the years we were in neighboring laboratories this dearth of trained assistants was the only regret, not real complaint, I ever heard him express. His loyalty to his college and to its students was complete. And that loyalty lasted through fifty years of hard work, of devotion to ideals, of co-operation with colleges, of stimulating comradeship with students that brought out their very best and continued them as admiring and devoted Alumni. Here was not only a teacher but a man, a gentle man, in the truest sense of the word. Allegiance of students and homage of Alumni were as natural and spontaneous and genuine as loving a parent.

Rosenberger's first hold on a student came from his uncanny ability to couple names with faces and remember both. After two or three periods with a laboratory section of fifty students he could quiz us by name without a roll-book, using the latter only to record our degree of ignorance concerning the appearance and personal habits of bacteria. That ability made a deep and lasting impression on us: it was a personal touch that lifted each man in the class out of his numbered position and assured him that he was still human and was being quizzed by another human being who already knew him by name. And that quizzing was never of the third degree type. We knew that he was fair and that the questions were fair and that we should know the answers. If we did not know them we felt he would be rather hurt over our absorbing so little of his teaching. So if we could not answer correctly we did not feel like berating him for showing us up but just sort of hated ourselves for being so dumb. And to attain that result is near tops in teaching.

That ability to remember names made Dr. Rosenberger an ideal welcomer of visiting Alumni. No matter how many years had elapsed since the visitor had graduated he would without hesitation be greeted by name. This was an amazing accomplishment greatly envied by those of us who lacked it and consequently suffered acute embarrassment under such circumstances. Always affable, always enjoying a joke whether on the giving or receiving end, conversation with Rosenberger was certain to be reminiscent and enlivening.

His teaching of student nurses and his bedside manner of courtesy and carefulness when duties brought him in contact with patients in Jefferson hospital, led to the respect and esteem of both nurses and patients. I liked to picture him as a general practitioner. Surely he would have been a "Doctor of the Old School," a veritable Weelum MacLure, beloved of his patients and their families.

To new members of the teaching staffs in Bacteriology and Pathology and especially to hospital internes during their months of laboratory service, Dr. Rosenberger was a real life-saver. Always ready and willing to help them with specimen diagnosis and writing of reports he never appeared bothered by their requests which were many during the earlier years when he was the buffer between them and the much-feared heads of departments. If there was joshing about our weird findings it was kindly and helpful; courtesy and personal regard was just as invariable toward we jittery beginners as they were in the presence of the high and mighty.

We were all pleased with the fact that the later years of Rosie's life were among his happiest and most contented. They were spent in a small and lovely country home from which he commuted to Philadelphia. His simple tastes were met and satisfied with the quiet home and surroundings, with gardening, and with old Dobbin and the carriage. If in very recent years the last-named treasures had to be replaced by a gasoline surrey with the steel on top we feel sure the change was not made without reluctance.

It would require a pen much more eloquent than mine to inscribe a merited tribute to the memory of Randle C. Rosenberger. A comforting thought is that wizardry of words is here not necessary; that memory is safely enshrined in the hearts of colleagues and of thousands of Jefferson Alumni. And that brings the saddening reminder that Alumni visiting Jefferson will no more be greeted by that cheery smile and that sincerely welcoming handshake. That goes for the boys of every year but its absence will be especially felt by us old-timers because in recent decades each visit has noted the passing of one or more members of the staff and the advent of new and strange faces. And the modest buildings of our days have been supplanted by commodious ones in which we get lost. "What changes," we would say, "this is not the old place any more; Jefferson has gone."

Then we would go up and be welcomed like long-lost brothers by Rosie—and Jefferson came back! Yes, sir. It was still there as long as he was there. That's what he did for us old-timers. And though we know that in spite of, or in truth because of, new faces and buildings and other changes Jefferson will endure and prosper indefinitely, we recognize keenly that the hearty personal welcome that has meant so much to us will now be lacking. And truly it will be missed by visiting Alumni until the last one taught by Randle C. Rosenberger has joined him in the Great Adventure.

So this feeble effort must serve doubly as a tribute to the Master teacher and as my farewell to Rosie. To have said less would have appeared ungrateful; to say more would savor of a poor painter's attempt to add color to a splendid sunset.

To those who were not able to attend the services for Dr. Rosenberger, we are quoting from the words of the Reverend Whorten A. Kline, A.M., B.D., Litt.D., Dean of Ursinus College, because he so ably describes Dr. Rosenberger as we all knew him:

"I knew Dr. Rosenberger intimately. We met each other frequently and on many different occasions. My long career as a teacher and a professional man has brought me in close personal relationship with many fine personalities, in every walk of life, but in all these years I never met a finer character than Dr. Rosenberger. His manliness, his genial nature, his willingness to serve, his devotion to duty, his loving kindness and his true genuine fellowship endeared him to all who came in contact with him and made him beloved by all.

"The influence of his life and character upon his colleagues, his students, of whom there are many, and upon those with whom he came in close personal touch will continue to live and bear fruit as the years come and go, and his death will be a challenge to those who are still in the flesh to emulate his noble example."
GOLDEN GREETINGS TO

RANDLE C. ROSENBERGER, M.D., Sc.D.

JEFFERSON MEDICAL COLLEGE - CLASS OF 1894
MEMBER OF THE FACULTY - 1894-1944
from the members of the Jefferson Alumni Association January fifth, One thousand, nine hundred and forty-four

To stand for fifty years in the forefront of Jefferson's history, is, in itself, an enviable distinction. To eminently deserve this honor, by reason of rare ability, might seem sufficient, since your Alma Mater towers high in the field of human benefactions. But mind and hands, however gifted and skilled, are but outward expressions of learning and experience, and while we, your former students and present associates, wish here to record our high respect for your professional attainments, our deeper desire is to pay tribute to those inner qualities of heart and spirit which have increasingly endeared you to us.

As loyal sons of Jefferson, we offer this testimonial of affection and admiration, garlanded with true appreciation of your kindliness and good cheer; your ever-present sense of humor, and, by no means least, your marvelous memory of names, faces and individualities. These attributes of personality have bound you to us in a way that defies fit material expression of our love and gratitude. Yet so memorable a milestone must wear some tangible token of what we feel in our hearts, and, in the name of that freedom you always have exemplified, we offer an actual bond, as betokening the higher bond of comradeship and loyalty. And, with every wish for that "peace which passeth all understanding", we hail your happy years to come, and sign in friendship's name:

Presented to Randle C. Rosenberger, M.D., Sc.D., by Mr. Robert P. Hooper, President of the Board of Trustees, in appreciation of fifty years of faithful service to The Jefferson Medical College.
Dr. John B. Montgomery, Sec’ty
1930 Chestnut St.,
Phila., Pa.

My Dear Dr. Montgomery:

I want to take this opportunity of extending my sincerest thanks for the really overwhelming tangible tokens which it was my good fortune to receive.

It has been a long while since I started as a tyro, but the years passed serenely and it is principally due to the acquaintances I have made with you fellow Alumni which have helped to make my tenure seem but a very short time.

I think the whole procedure of the presentation of the scroll and the War Bond was one of the best pieces of under cover work I have ever known in this institution and is worthy of F.B.I. praise! I want you all to know that I am very proud in knowing that I have your continued respect and confidence in carrying on the most difficult part of my position—passing judgment upon students whom I think are worthy of obtaining the degree of M.D. from Jefferson.

I hope the bond you have given me will purchase the weapon of war which will crush old Tojo into oblivion! Again I want to thank you for the wonderful tangible expression of good will, and as I start on my second half century I want you to know that I am and always will be your fellow student.

Cheerily and Sincerely,

ROSENBERGER MEMORIAL FELLOWSHIP FUND

At the Annual Meeting of the Alumni Association of the Jefferson Medical College, held at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel on Thursday, March 23, 1944, the following resolution, presented by the College Endowment Committee, was unanimously adopted:

"Resolved: that the recent death of our beloved Professor and Fellow Alumnus, Randle C. Rosenberger, on February 21, 1944, offers an opportunity to create a memorial fund to commemorate a life of devotion to his Alma Mater:

"That a Rosenberger Memorial Fellowship Fund be established at Jefferson Medical College by subscriptions obtained from the Alumni at large, and from friends of the Jefferson Medical College and Hospital;

"And furthermore, that this resolution be presented by those here assembled to the Executive Committee of the Alumni Association of the Jefferson Medical College for consideration and appropriate action, with power to act."

This proposal has now been accepted in principle by the Alumni Association. Complete details regarding this newly-created memorial fund will be made available in the near future through joint action of the Executive Committee of the Alumni Association and the Board of Trustees.
Mr. Joseph Lees Eastwick of Strafford has been elected a member of the Board of Trustees of the Jefferson Medical College and its Hospital. This was announced by Robert P. Hooper, President of the Board.

He graduated from Cornell University in 1919 and served as a lieutenant in the Field Artillery in the First World War.

Mr. Eastwick is president of Blueridge Co., Inc., in Virginia; vice-president of Charles P. Cochrane Co.; treasurer of James Lees & Sons Co.; vice-president, Norristown-Penn Trust Co.; member of the Board of Directors of Central-Penn National Bank; chairman of the 1943-44 Red Cross War Fund for the four counties of Montgomery, Bucks, Chester and Delaware; vestryman of Old Christ Swedes Church, Upper Merion, Pennsylvania; member of the Union League, Racquet Club, Merion Cricket Club and Gulph Mills Golf Club.

Jefferson is fortunate in having as a member of its Board, one so widely experienced, one who will ably help to guide its destiny.
Alumni of Jefferson:

As we receive the news of the world-wide conflict that we are engaged in, we are filled with overwhelming pride by the achievements of Alumni of Jefferson.

We are proud not only of those who are serving in the active theatres of war but also of those who are carrying on at home. The loyalty which you have given to Jefferson and your Association, you are now giving unstintingly to our great nation, and when all the accomplishments, both great and small, of the men of Jefferson have been recorded, they will form another glorious chapter in the history of our great institution and will serve as an inspiration to those who follow.

Chairman, Property Committee,
Board of Trustees, Jefferson Medical College.
DEAR FELLOW ALUMNI:

I feel that you must want the assurance that your Alma Mater is standing up against "the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune" that beset her in these troublous times. I take this opportunity to send you along with my greetings just such assurance. Jefferson, along with other medical educational institutions, is faced with many difficulties of teaching personnel, student acceptances and operation under Government contracts. But in spite of these inconveniences and the concomitant strain on the standards set in former years by yourselves, we are pulling through without any serious setbacks as yet. Our status as an independent medical school has been to our advantage in many ways.

Keeping faith with you is our first consideration and when this is all over and you are back with us again I feel confident we will not have failed you.

With the sincere hope that "it can't be long now."

Fraternally yours,

[Signature]

Dean.
The newly elected president of the Alumni Association was born in Stamford, Connecticut, September 21, 1893; the son of Lewis Cass and Esther Mary Werner Scheffey, both of Pennsylvania German descent.

While he was very young, Dr. Scheffey's family returned to Wyomissing, Pennsylvania, settling near the original homesteads of the respective families.

He attended the grade and high schools of Reading, Pennsylvania, and was graduated there in 1915. He matriculated in The Jefferson Medical College in the fall of the same year, simultaneously becoming an assistant pharmacist in the drugstore of the Jefferson Hospital, which position he held throughout his college course. He received his degree from The Jefferson Medical College in 1920 and completed his internship in the hospital of the college in December of 1922, serving as acting Chief Resident Physician during several months of his final year.
January 1, 1923, he became Clinical Assistant in Gynecology, Out Patient Department and Assistant Demonstrator in Gynecology also serving as personal assistant to Professor Brooke M. Anspach for five years.

Through the honors bestowed upon him it can easily be appreciated that Dr. Scheffey's ability was immediately recognized and his rise to success has been rapid and continuous.

He was appointed Instructor in Gynecology in 1927, Demonstrator of Gynecology in 1928, Associate in Gynecology in 1930, Assistant Professor of Gynecology in 1932, Associate Professor of Gynecology in 1936, and Clinical Professor of Gynecology in 1938, Professor of Gynecology and Attending Gynecologist August 1, 1940, succeeding Dr. Brooke M. Anspach, who became Emeritus Professor and Consulting Gynecologist as of that date.

Dr. Scheffey is affiliated with the Philadelphia State Hospital and the Bryn Mawr and Delaware Hospital.

In June, 1943, the Honorary Degree of Doctor of Science was conferred on Dr. Scheffey by Ursinus College.

He is a member and has held office in many Medical Societies including: The American Gynecological Society, College of Physicians, Obstetrical Society, Pathological Society, Diplomate American Board of Obstetrics and Gynecology, American College of Surgeons, American Medical Association, Pennsylvania State Medical Association, Philadelphia County Medical Society (Member Board of Directors and Chairman of Finance Committee), Jefferson Society for Clinical Investigation (Founder and Past President, 1932-1933), North American Obstetrical and Gynecological Travel Club (Past President 1939).

He is also a member of many scientific and historical organizations, a few of which are the following:

- Sydenham Medical Coterie of Philadelphia
- Academy of Natural Sciences of Philadelphia
- Fairmount Park Art Association
- Berks County Historical Society
- Pennsylvania-German Folklore Society (Past President 1937-1939)
- Carl Schurz Memorial Foundation (Member Executive Board)
- German Society of Pennsylvania
- Franklin Institute of Philadelphia (Associate Member)
- Foreign Policy Association
- Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts
- Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science (Trustee)
- Alumni Association of the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science (Past President 1932-1933)
- Alumni Association of The Jefferson Medical College (1st Vice-President 1941-1943)
- Zoological Society of Philadelphia
- American Academy of Political and Social Science
- Huguenot Society of Pennsylvania
- Alpha Omega Alpha (Honorary Medical Fraternity)

Dr. Scheffey is author of numerous articles on Gynecology appearing in various Medical Journals and textbooks since 1925, is also the author of a number of medical articles of historical interest. He is assistant author of Anspach's 'Gynecology' Fifth Edition.
Dr. Scheffey has presented numerous unpublished talks before County Medical Societies and Hospital Staffs of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and other states where he is always in constant demand.

Dr. Scheffey was married December 12, 1922, to Anna Catherine Thun, of Wyomissing, Pennsylvania. They have three daughters and two sons.

The Alumni Association is fortunate in having so loyal an alumnus as its President. Dr. Scheffey has always been an enthusiastic and eager worker in all pertaining to the advancement of Jefferson.

A PRESIDENTIAL GREETING

My fellow Alumni have accorded me the highest honor within their power to bestow — the Presidency of the Association — and I am extremely grateful. It has been my good fortune to succeed David B. Allman, as deserving and competent a leader as we have ever had, and I take this opportunity to express our gratitude to him for his unselfish service to all of us.

I am your third “War President.” Warren B. Davis was in office when the Jefferson Unit, General Hospital 38, left on the long trek that was finally to bring them to their base in Egypt. Since then hundreds of our graduates have been serving with distinction in all branches of the armed services, at home and abroad. To all of you I send affectionate greetings in the name of the Alumni Association of the Jefferson Medical College. We know and appreciate the sacrifice you are making, and we are proud of you.

To those older Alumni not in the Army or Navy, but of whom many served in World War I, I extend similar good wishes. You are scattered all over this great continent, some in lands beyond the sea. While not in uniform, you are bearing a tremendous burden. With the scarcity of physicians on the home front, your tour of duty takes you far into the night. Jefferson is proud of you, too.

I am among those whose work is here at the College and Hospital. In fact, I have served the institution since entering it nearly thirty years ago, a span of time that has afforded me the privilege of personal acquaintance with so many Jefferson men. We at the School are carrying on to the best of our ability in spite of the many handicaps that the accelerated program has produced. There is little time for creative effort; the teaching days, the hospital tasks, are prolonged, tedious, and continuous, but the job will be done.

Alumni, at home and away, rest assured that Jefferson is looking to the future and not dreaming of the past. Your Association is working hand in hand with the College administration, planning for a post-war era that will not only enhance the prestige of your Alma Mater, but will offer increased opportunity to its graduates. With this goal in mind, we thrust aside the travail and annoyance of the present era, and look forward, with confidence, but with humility, toward victory and peace for all mankind.

MESSAGE FROM THE RETIRING PRESIDENT

I greet you, fellow Alumni at home and abroad, and extend to you the best wishes of your Alma Mater.

Another year has passed and, as my term of office draws to a close, I am gratified with the progress made by our Institution and our Alumni Association.

Jefferson's teaching staff has more than fulfilled their promise to keep the College work up to its traditional high standards. In spite of the limited personnel and the accelerated teaching program, the same unexcelled curriculum has been maintained.

Those of our Alumni returning from the battle fronts impress us with the fact that the records of those serving with the armed forces will make us justly proud. It was so in World War I. We are confident that history will repeat itself in this respect.

The low mortality statistics of our armed forces from disease and injury is something that every physician should feel proud of—and the low rate thereof is in no small measure due to our fellow alumni and the "basic training" they received while students at Jefferson.

Those of us on the home front are endeavoring to maintain the high standards of ethical practice that you expect of us. We are cognizant of the attempts to interfere with the practice of medicine as we would have it, and are using all power at our command to defeat any subversive legislation; so that you who are away, may return to that same satisfactory form of practice that you so willingly left to serve your Country and your fellow-man.

The chief function of an Alumni Association should be to maintain and strengthen the bonds of filial devotion. This, Jefferson has always attempted to do, and the rewards for our efforts are now being reaped by the splendid records our Graduates are making on all fronts. Probably no other medical school in the World has such a united Alumni Association, and our demonstration during this emergency should justify our continued increasing efforts along these lines in the future.

As we look both to the East and to the West, we can detect a break in the War Clouds; a faint ray of sunshine and of hope shining through.

May God speed the day when peace will reign supreme, so that you may all be back with us again, to strive and to labor for a bigger and better support. May we ever merit it, so that The Jefferson of the future, like The Jefferson of the past will be proud, powerful and unsurpassed.

The Alumni Dinner will be held on September 21, 1944, at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel.

Commencement exercises at the Academy of Music on September 22 at 12 o'clock.

One hundred fifteen of the Staff of The Jefferson Medical College and its Hospital are now in active duty with the Armed Forces of the United States.
By direction of the President, a Distinguished Service Medal was awarded by the War Department to Major General James C. Magee, United States Army, “For exceptionally distinguished and meritorious service in a position of great responsibility as Surgeon General of the Army for four years terminating 31 May, 1943. His farsighted and dynamic energy was greatly responsible for our soldiers being able thus far to emerge from battle with the lowest mortality rate among the wounded in our history. The Army has benefited greatly from his eagerness to avail himself of the most expert advice and data from the civilian medical profession in the fields of research against epidemics. General Magee foresaw and prevented a dangerous shortage of surgical instruments by pressing the development of domestic manufacture, resulting in an ample supply and improved quality of these vital materials. Under his guidance the Army’s battle against the acquisition of venereal disease produced the lowest rate of infection in the Army’s history.”
Born in Scranton, Pennsylvania, March 10, 1887, General Lull received his medical degree at the Jefferson Medical College in 1909. The degree of C.P.H. from the Harvard-Technology School of Public Health in 1921 and the degree of Dr. P.H. from the University of Pennsylvania in 1922.

He has served in the Medical Corps of the United States Army continuously since September, 1912, through all grades from First Lieutenant to Major General — serving in France during World War I. He also served in Panama and the Philippine Islands.

General Lull is now Deputy Surgeon General.

Jefferson is indeed very proud to have so distinguished a son as General Lull.

Colonel Mills was born January 4, 1869, in Leon, New York. He attended Princeton University and The Jefferson Medical College where he received his degree of medicine in 1894.

He is the oldest graduate of both Princeton and Jefferson on active duty. This year marks the fiftieth anniversary of his graduation from The Jefferson Medical College.

From 1895 to 1898 Colonel Mills devoted himself to private practice and in 1898 during the Spanish American War was Acting Assistant Surgeon, U. S. A. After the Spanish American War he resumed private practice until 1901, when he again entered the Army as a Contract Surgeon during the Boxer Rebellion and served in the Philippine Insurrection.

In 1908 the Medical Reserve Corps was organized and Colonel Mills was one of its first members.

He continued on active duty as a First Lieutenant until 1917 when he was commissioned a Major in the Medical Reserve Corps.

In 1924 Colonel Mills was assigned to the ROTC Unit at his Alma Mater, The Jefferson Medical College, where he became Professor of Military Science and Tactics.

For seven years he served in this capacity and retired at his own request September 30, 1931, after thirty years of service.

He was recalled to active duty July 20, 1942, to resume his duties as Professor of Military Science and Tactics of The Jefferson Medical College ROTC Unit.

Colonel Mills has always been held in affectionate regard by his many friends at Jefferson and we congratulate him most heartily upon the fiftieth anniversary of his graduation from The Jefferson Medical College and on the full, rich life of service which he has given to his country, his Alma Mater and his fellowmen.

Capt. Louis K. Collins, '34, is now in China directing air evacuation and doing a masterful job of it according to dispatches that filter in from that section of the world war zone. He writes that he has met several of the interesting persons mentioned in the book 'Burma Road'."

"Dr. Edward A. Mullen, '17, Assistant Professor of Pharmacology at Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science on leave of absence for duty in the U. S. Navy, has been promoted to the rank of captain in the U. S. Naval Reserve."

"The ship on which he has been serving as chief medical officer took part in the invasion of North Africa, of Sicily and in the conquest of the Pacific island of Tarawa. Having served on sea duty for more than two and a half years he had been transferred to shore duty and is now serving at one of the naval hospitals."

"Lt. Anthony V. Ziccardi, '27, of the Medical Corps of the Army, is now stationed in the Middle East."

"Captain John DeTuerk, Class of 1928, returned from serving as flight surgeon with the Air Forces in the field in Tunisia and was met by his nine-month-old twin sons, John and Allison, whom he saw for the first time."

"Capt. Anthony Pellican, '33, is with an evacuation hospital somewhere in Africa. In this unit he is a member of one of the surgical operating teams, and is the unit gas warfare officer."

"Captain George Knoll, Class of 1939, is stationed in the Trobriand Island in the Southwest Pacific where he recently joined with another Army doctor in performing the first surgical operation ever performed on a white man in this area. It was an appendectomy and the victim is doing well according to Army broadcasts."

"Col. Norman H. Wiley, '28, earned decoration in Africa for brilliant medical and surgical work during the height of the North African campaign. He was awarded the Legion of Merit by command of General Eisenhower and in the name of the President of the United States."

"Lt. Col. Walter Tatem, '22, has been designated force surgeon for the Whitehorse sector of the highway, and traveling by plane, truck, caterpillar tractor and dog sled, has organized a system by which patients from nearly any part of the Yukon could be removed to the clearing station at Whitehorse."

"Somewhere in Alaska. Of course, it is a military secret so I cannot give you the name of the place. We are surrounded by water and mountains and not a tree in sight. We live in tents, no running water, do our own laundry, etc., yet carry on with our professional work to the best of our ability," writes Samuel Alter, '25, Capt., M.C., A.U.S.

"Dr. Leonard Hudson Conly, '26, brought into the world, in a tossing lifeboat, jammed with survivors of a torpedoed cargo ship, in the midst of a storm on the North Atlantic, a baby boy."

"Dr. George Alexander Wildmann, '38, Captain, M.C., A.U.S., was killed in action in the North African area on October 7, 1943. He was awarded the Purple Heart Medal for meritorious work."

"Capt. Edward V. Rickenbacker and his courageous men landed in Samoa and were taken directly to the base hospital where Lt. Commander Austin T. Smith, Class of 1922, was stationed. 'When you get to Philadelphia,' Commander Smith said, 'if you have time will you call my little boy Tommy and give him a message for me?' Captain Rickenbacker promised and six months after fulfilled his promise, but when he called Tommy, the youngster was so excited he could hardly listen, so when he told his chums about the call they of course didn't believe it. But when Tommy received an autographed photograph from Captain Rickenbacker the boys thought Tommy was tops.

"Bob Darnall, '32, writes that Lewis C. Shellenberger, '32, and I are in Britain and both are Lt. Colonels, M.C., A.U.S."

A friend writes: "that Dr. Daniel Smith Currie, Jr., Class of 1938, has been promoted to Lt. Colonel and feeling that this is both an honor to his Alma Mater and himself, I feel justified in being thus presumptuous in writing you."

"Capt. Maurice M. Abramson, Class of 1937, delivered a baby to a ranger's wife while in Labrador on duty with the Army. He was the first American doctor to deliver a baby in this territory."

The Hanlon family is well represented in the Service of the United States Government. Frank Hanlon, Class of 1925, is a Lt. Colonel in the U.S. Army. Edmund Hanlon, '27, is a Captain in the Army. Paul, Class of 1940; George, Class of 1941, and David, of the 1942 class, are all First Lieutenants in the Army, according to the last reports. The youngest of the family, Robert, is still a student at Jefferson and is a Private First Class.

"Patriotism is a religion with Dr. William M. Workman, of Mt. Joy, Pennsylvania, and his family. Dr. Workman, a graduate of Jefferson in 1912, is a veteran of World War I. In the present conflict he is the medical examiner of his draft board. Mrs. Workman, a registered nurse, is working with a committee for the Red Cross Home Nursing Course. The son, William M., Jr., 21, is in active training in the South as a flying cadet; the 19-year-old son, James B., is a sailor in the U.S. Coast Guard. A daughter, Marion G., is a member of the University of Pennsylvania Hospital Unit now in active service, while Adelaide, 15, a high school student, is working with the Red Cross in Mt. Joy."

Portion of letter to Dr. Rosenberger from Dr. Alexander J. Orenstein, '05, in Pretoria, South Africa:

"Spent time in East Africa, Abyssinia, Tahahland, Egypt, Libya, Eritrea, etc. Now I am back here as Director General of Medical Services, the same job I had at the end of the 'war to end wars.' So the cycle is complete. In the process I collected the record for any Jefferson class having two heads of military medical services at the same time and the record for Jefferson of having an Alumnus who holds the Companion of the Bath, Companion of St. Michael and St. George, and Commander of British Empire Orders, and gets a paragraph in the British 'Who's Who' and Burke's 'Peerage.'"

"Major George G. Dawe, '34, of Lewistown, Pa., recently was assigned medical inspector of one of General MacArthur's advanced Southwest Pacific bases."

"Brigadier General Malcolm C. Grow, '09, has recently been appointed Surgeon, USSTAF, with headquarters in England. He is responsible for the planning and direction of the operation and supply of the medical services of the USSTAF."

General Grow has had a colorful life in the Army. After serving with the Russian Army during the years 1915 to 1917, he returned to the United States, joined the Army here and went to France with the 45th Regiment, Field Artillery. After a tour of duty with the Army of Occupation, he served at various posts in the United States and Alaska. He was assigned to duty with the Air Corps in 1928. Following graduation from the School of Aviation Medicine, he served as Post Surgeon at Patterson Field. While at Patterson Field, he established at Wright Field the medical research unit which later became the Aero Medical Laboratory. From 1934 to 1938 he was Chief Flight Surgeon in the Office of the Chief of the Army Air Corps. Subsequently, he served as Surgeon at MacDill Field and of the Third Air Force. Later he was appointed Surgeon of the Eighth Air Force and left for overseas duty with that organization in July, 1942. He has been awarded the Legion of Merit for his development of the flak suit and helmet. On his recommendation, the position of Personal Equipment Officer was established in combat units of the Eighth Air Force. He supervised the preparation of instructions for the Air-Sea Rescue plan later adopted by the Air Forces. He was promoted to Brigadier General in 1943."

In a letter recently received by the family of Major Francis A. Hegarty, '32, he writes: "Our operating room is sometimes just a clearing under the stars. Stationed in India since last Fall, I was recently transferred to Burma where the jungles are even thicker than those in the Southwest Pacific and it is impossible to see more than five yards off a trail if you can see that far.

"Sometimes we operate until 5 and 6 o'clock in the morning, one case after another, with several cases going at the same time. Usually I get to bed about 2:30. We sleep in jungle hammocks which have a waterproof cover and a mosquito bar attached which is zipped shut and pretty comfortable when you get used to them.

"I am still officially assigned to the Chinese but have been living, eating and working with an American surgical unit."

"Dr. Robert F. Sterner, '26, has been promoted to a Lt. Commander in the Navy and is located at the Naval Hospital in Philadelphia."

"A small naval hospital, but one which is eminently qualified to give superior service, is located somewhere in the South Pacific. It is quartered in Quonset huts, with spring beds, and is caring for 650 men.

"There is nothing in any first class hospital in the United States which this institution does not have, except brick construction. There are the various types of laboratories, X-ray equipment, physiotherapy, and opportunities for carrying on all the activities of the various specialized services. Their cases average two surgical to one medical, and the medical cases are largely malarial in character. The patients come especially from Guadalcanal, and patients are evacuated from that island by hospital ships which are capable of carrying 700 patients and are modern floating hospitals.

"This hospital also has a branch in Guadalcanal, where emergency treatment is administered. Teams of medical men travel back and forth between the two institutions. Particular comment was made in an article in the Louisville Courier Journal on the splendid sanitary conditions of the hospital, and it gives credit to Lt. Commander E. T. Lentz, '26, U. S. N. R., of Wyalusing, Pa., for keeping the island and the hospital clean and clear of mosquitoes, mildew, dank and close odors, so prevalent in the jungle islands, are noticeably absent there.

"Last December the boys were enjoying the summer season. Skies were blue and palm fronds were fanning the hospital huts. The humidity was low; the average temperature about 87°. Movies were shown in a natural palm-fringed amphitheater twice weekly when the latest 'A' pictures were flashed on the screen.

"The medical officers comment most favorably on the efficiency of the sulfa drugs. They are sprinkled on every wound immediately and as a result very little gangrene is seen. The Japs, on the other hand, apparently have no prophylactic treatment, as every wounded Jap is seen suffering from an advanced stage of infection.

"The story of this wonderful institution can be duplicated many score of times in the various service hospitals scattered throughout the world."
Lt. Comdr. Joseph Blanch, '37, writes: "Since returning from overseas duty in October, 1942, I have been engaged in research in the physiology of high altitude flying, underwater physiology, and experimental work in connection with compressed air illness, its prevention and treatment. I have also been assigned to conducting a course in submarine medicine and deep sea diving medicine for Naval Medical Officers."

A letter received from Major William M. McClements, '35, says: "As you have gathered I am in Australia and as yet our unit has not functioned as a hospital. I am on detached duty and am working in an Australian General Hospital doing neuropsychiatry. The work is interesting and the associations most pleasant."

"I have seen Loren E. Conner (1936) on two occasions. He is the medical officer (full Lieutenant) of an A.P.D. ship and has seen much action."

"From Assam to China over Japanese-held Northern Burma, remarkable doctors and nurses are flying with the planes carrying wounded and sick U. S. fighting men back to secure hospitals in India.

"One of the Japanese bombs hit in the outskirts of a native village. A lot of native women, who had been machine-gunned, were hysterical."

"Lt. John J. Duncan, '37, worked through the night helping to bandage and quiet them."

SOMETHING IN NEW guinea

Captain Albert S. Johnson, Jr., '41, is looking forward to his return to Elberton, Ga., to see for the first time his daughter, Peggy June, born the day he sailed for overseas duty, but meanwhile he is doing what has been termed "an excellent job" as Chief of the Laboratory Section and Assistant Chief of Medical Service at a Station Hospital in New Guinea.

Moreover, Captain Johnson is one of the proudest Army Medical Corps officers in the Southwest Pacific area. He takes pride not only in his unit's fine record in caring for sick and wounded, but also in the fact that he and members of his organization — doctors, dentists, nurses, technicians and clerks — actually built the hospital, from foundation to roof.

This up-to-date military hospital, which rose from the ruins of a deserted native mission in the green foothills of the Owen Stanley Mountains, in view of the blue-green waters of the tropical sea, stands as a monument to devotion to duty and ingenuity exercised by Medical Department personnel in the Southwest Pacific.

Army "medics" frequently find it necessary to play the role of construction engineer, sanitary engineer of jungle lumber-jack in carrying out their tremendous task of caring for battle casualties and victims of tropical disease endemic to this humid island-continent.

Arriving in New Guinea last September, after a brief stop in Australia, Capt. Johnson and members of his unit found only the remains of a Papuan mission, surrounded by high kunai grass, at the site assigned for erection of the hospital.

Immediately, classification records of all personnel in the unit were consulted for the purpose of selecting a "construction crew" to begin work on the project. Men who had had experience with hammer and saw became carpenters; those who as boys had tinkered with electrical "gadgets" became electricians — and on through the category of building trades until a complete construction gang, from superintendent to water boy, had been formed.
Each department head was placed in charge of construction of his respective section of the hospital, and thus a spirit of competition developed, with each group trying to do a better job than the other.

So, in a remarkably short time, considering the inexperience of the workers, the hospital was complete and in operation; and today this modern, fully equipped unit is doing a notable job of serving sick and wounded soldiers evacuated from all parts of New Guinea and other islands of the Southwest Pacific area.

Capt. Johnson was called to active service in the Army on September 7, 1942, and subsequently was on duty at Lawson General Hospital in the State of Washington and attended courses in Clinical Pathology and Tropical Medicine at the University of Tennessee, and a course in Tropical Medicine at the Army Medical School, Washington, D. C., before joining his present unit for duty in the Southwest Pacific.

Before entering the Army, Capt. Johnson practiced medicine in Elberton, Ga., where his wife and daughter now reside.

MAJOR THOMAS C. BRANDON, '35, AWARDED LEGION OF MERIT

The War Department recently announced the award of the Legion of Merit to Major Thomas C. Brandon "for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service as surgeon of the Eritrea Service Command in the organization and operation of a medical service in the occupied enemy territory of Eritrea from February 5 until June, 1942, and later as surgeon of the Levant Service Command, Services of Supply, United States Army Forces in the Middle East. Major Brandon, under the most trying circumstances and without adequate medical facilities, succeeded in maintaining the health of several hundred American civilian employees operating in the Eritrea and Palestine areas in addition to caring for the military personnel. In a strange country, where climatic and sanitary environment is detrimental to the average American, Major Brandon, unaided by any other medical officer or suitable assistants, in addition to caring for this unusual number of personnel, established a preventive sanitary program which succeeded in preserving the health and working ability of all American personnel in these areas. His expert professional attainments, energy and untiring efforts aided immeasurably to the state of health and morale of the command." Dr. Brandon formerly lived in Williamsport, Pa., and graduated from Jefferson Medical College of Philadelphia in 1935. He entered the service in March, 1941.

COLONEL KEYES '17, HONORED ON HIS RETURN FROM AFRICA

Dr. and Mrs. Perkins gave a delightful tea on March thirty-first in honor of Colonel Baldwin L. Keyes, who was in Philadelphia for a few days after returning from Africa.

The tea was hurriedly planned but everyone felt the spirit of gracious hospitality which filled the halls of old Jefferson. Although more used to academic sobriety, they did their best to echo the gay happiness which prevailed.

Everyone was glad to have the opportunity to greet Colonel Keyes after his two years' absence.

Altogether it was a lovely party and everywhere one heard the wish expressed that Dr. and Mrs. Perkins might sometime give another.

GENERAL ALUMNI NEWS

Mrs. Virgil C. Belknap, of Nampa, Idaho, writes that she and the doctor are planning to return to the College during the Commencement season to celebrate the doctor’s fiftieth year in practice. They are looking forward to this trip with a great deal of pleasure and hope that they may renew a number of friendships made during student days.

The Alumni Dinner will be held September 21st. Realizing fully the hardship in planning to leave one’s practice during these busy days, the Committee is giving plenty of time to make any necessary plans.

Dr. William S. Wallace of 369 S. Glasswell street, Orange, California, celebrated his fiftieth year of graduation from Jefferson and his fiftieth year of marriage in 1943. He visited the College on September 2, 1943.

Dr. Verne S. Caviness, Class of ’21, tells us that Dr. James W. Vernon, Morganton, N. C., Class of 1909, is the president of the North Carolina State Medical Society, elected May 12, 1943. He has been president-elect for a year.
Dr. Wingate M. Johnson, Winston-Salem, N. C., Class of 1908, is editor of the North Carolina Medical Journal, and has been for three years. Many of the articles have been abstracted in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Dr. William T. Palchanies, Class of '16, from Columbus, Ohio, has been made Assistant Professor of Medicine at the University of Ohio in Columbus.

Dr. Ignatius S. Hneleski, Class of 1928, was appointed as superintendent and medical director of the Philadelphia General Hospital to succeed Dr. William G. Turnbull who died March 11, 1944.

Dr. LeRoy A. Schall, Class of 1917, Professor of Laryngology and Walter Augustus LeCompte, Professor of Otology and Head of the Department at Harvard School of Medicine, was granted an honorary degree (A.M.) from Harvard University in April, 1942.

It is unfortunate that every Alumnus was not able to attend the Annual Dinner held January 5, 1944. It was a little unusual to have this festivity in the middle of winter, but the comfort of the cold weather was enjoyed by all.

The Dinner was a very successful one. The Services were well represented by those in the Army and Navy who happened to be in the city. The speeches were short and not too many. An air of expectancy filled the room as the evening drew to a close. The President of the Board, Mr. Hooper, presented Dr. Rosenberger with a gold medal in appreciation of his faithful service covering a period of fifty years and Dr. Warren B. Davis, in behalf of the Alumni Association, presented a war bond and a testimonial which was signed by all attending the Dinner. Dr. Rosenberger was completely surprised and greatly touched by the honor that had been paid him. In response he told the guests how much he appreciated the beautiful tribute and how he hoped to carry on for some additional years—we are all so glad that we were able to show a little of what was felt in our hearts and to do this before it was too late.

Col. Mills, who also celebrated his fiftieth anniversary of graduation, received a very handsome set of luggage, a gift to him by his students and members of his staff. The presentation was made by Lt. Ralph J. Blake.

The following interesting Clinics were held during the morning of January 5, between 11:00 and 1:00.

Endowed Room and Benevolence Fund

Graduates of Jefferson in need of financial assistance during their illnesses, under the provisions of the Alumni Endowed Room Fund, have used the room since February, 1940, at a total saving to date in the amount of $5,325.70.

Our additional fund, the income of which is to be used for private-duty nurses for occupants of the Endowed Room, when special nursing is necessary, has been increased by twenty-one contributions during the past year, from March 1, 1943, to March 23, 1944, raising the amount from $1,140.86 to $2,616.86. It is the hope of the Committee that donations this year will be sufficient in number and amount to reach our Goal of $10,000. More of our Alumni should have a part in this endeavor. Your generous cooperation will be appreciated.

Warren B. Davis, Chairman.

ATTENTION, ALUMNI!

Every graduate of the Jefferson Medical College is proud of the fact that our Alma Mater occupies a conspicuous place in the foremost rank of teaching institutions. To maintain this eminent position requires not only loyal devotion to Jefferson in a spiritual sense, but material support as well. Manifestation of the latter becomes more apparent in these days of stress and strain, especially when government is making more and more inroads into the affairs of private enterprise.

Annual payments to the Alumni Endowment Fund continue to be made by the many graduates who originally subscribed to the "DaCosta Memorial Fund." The returns from these pledges of long standing have been substantially added to by the plan of graduate promissory note signing, first adopted in principle by the Class of 1926. This procedure, whereby the members of each graduating class sign notes beginning with an initial payment of one dollar and increased a dollar annually over a twenty-year period, results in a total payment of $210 by each alumnus who participates and is able to fulfill his agreement. One hundred thirteen members of the Class of 1944 (January) have signed such notes.

The College Endowment Committee is planning to present interesting statistics in the near future relative to the total contributions of the Alumni, such as aggregate class subscriptions, percentage of class subscribers, and other pertinent data.

The necessity for continued and increasing support of the Alumni Endowment Fund is especially mentioned elsewhere in these pages; may the memory and spirit of "Jack" DaCosta refresh our efforts in behalf of it!

It behooves all of us seriously to consider the necessity of giving financial support to the various activities of the College as generously as our means and commitments allow. It is a privilege to be enrolled as a Jefferson Alumnus; with this privilege goes the responsibility—yes, the duty—of emphasizing our obligation to the College in a substantial way. In this manner we can, to some extent at least, express our gratitude for the medical education afforded us in years gone by.

The Alumni Endowment Fund needs your help to fulfill its various purposes. It is pertinent to remind the Alumni at large that contributions to Jefferson Medical College are deductible in computing Federal Income Taxes. Knowledge of this fact should have a practical appeal to many of us, especially when it is realized that under this feature of the Revenue Act, the government really pays a fair proportion of your gift. Think over this angle of the matter before the 31st of December, 1944!

ALUMNI ENDOWMENT FUND

At the Annual Meeting of the Alumni Association held on March 23, 1944, the report of the College Endowment Committee showed a substantial increase in the income of the Alumni Endowment Fund.

It may be recalled that in 1927 the Alumni Association, through subscriptions from its members, had accumulated a fund that amounted to about $90,000. Recognizing the necessity of enhancing this principal, in order to aid in the expansion of the College and its facilities, the Alumni Association resolved to add to this amount an additional sum of $200,000 to be obtained by an intensive subscription campaign. This goal was achieved, and the fund was designated as the "John Chalmers DaCosta Memorial Alumni Fund." It was further specified that 50 percent of the moneys collected be used for building construction cost,
25 percent be used for a permanent Alumni Endowment Fund for stipulated purposes, and 25 percent be used by the Trustees at their discretion for either of the preceding purposes.

All of the commitments and purposes of the "DaCosta Memorial" have been met and the disposition and present status of the accumulated funds is as follows:

ALUMNI ENDOWMENT FUND

Transferred to College and Hospital Campaign Fund, April 16, 1930 ........... $100,000.00
Transferred to the Research Building Fund, August 2, 1940 ...................... 125,000.00
Transferred to the Permanent Alumni Endowment Fund, November 11, 1939 ... 80,088.20
(This figure represents 25 percent of accumulated funds set aside to provide an income for the payment of full-time laboratory teachers and research workers, preferably Jefferson graduates.)
Less loss on sale of investments and charged off book values .................... 5,786.69

Balance, March 23, 1944 ................................................................. 36,990.02

The balance of the Alumni Endowment Fund, as noted above, is made up as follows:

Alumni contributions and interest, February 15, 1943, to March 23, 1944 .... 7,700.41

Total ................................................................................................. $36,990.02

(Alumni contributions and interest from January 31, 1942, to February 15, 1943, amounted to $5,250.08. The contributions noted above represent an increase over the past year of $2,450.33.)

A medical library during a time of war must meet certain challenges if it would best fit its readers for the tasks to be set before them. Foreseeing this challenge, the Library has greatly enlarged its collection of material on tropical medicine, parasitology, war surgery and war medicine.

For materials which the library would not otherwise be able to obtain because of their rarity or because of inability to borrow through the mails, the library has made good use of its newly purchased Spencer microfilm reader. Through the microfilm service of the Army Medical Library, practically all printed material is now made available to Jefferson students and Alumni.

The library is always an eager recipient of publications and reprints of articles by members of the Alumni Association, and also receives with pride mementos of its older Alumni. Among gifts recently received is a case of surgical instruments used by Dr. William A. Platt ('51), a collection of the manuscripts, letters and lecture notes of Dr. William S. Forbes ('52); 284 books from the library of Dr. Charles A. Service ('82); the diploma of Dr. Jacob Gillespie ('85) and of Dr. Charles A. Wynn ('96) which were added to the growing collection of Jefferson Medical College diplomas; and two 16th Century books of Dr. P. Brooke Bland ('01) which were added to the Bland collection.

Two members of the Alumni Association have presented to the library copies of their recent publications; 'Expectantly Yours' by Dr. Mario A. Castello ('20) and 'A Manual of Fractures' by Dr. Camille M. Shaar ('16).

Dr. S. Weir Mitchell ('50) has long been acclaimed as America's first neurologist, but it must not be forgotten that he also won wide recognition as a writer of fiction and verse. Dr. Milton S. Percival has presented his collection of fictional and poetical works of Dr. Mitchell, most of which are first editions.

A collection of pictures in the library is now being catalogued and to this will be added two pictures only recently received; they are the W. S. Forbes Anatomical League and the Class of 1896. The library has compiled a collection of admission cards to Jefferson Medical College lectures which now contains sets of cards of doctors who matriculated at Jefferson from 1828-83. To this collection has been added a set of cards belonging to Dr. Adam L. Kotz ('81).

The members of the Alumni Association noted below have recently presented to the library not only books and journals which have supplemented the library's collection but also the much-demanded reprints of their periodical publications. Gifts such as these contribute much toward making the library collection a Mecca of research for Jefferson men.

Dr. Robert G. Carlin, chief surgeon of the Murray Hill Hospital, died October 3, 1943. He was born in Petrolia, Pennsylvania, in 1878. He was graduated from Grove City College in 1898, and received his degree of medicine from The Jefferson Medical College in 1902 when he opened his office in Philipsburg, Pennsylvania, and after some years of practice moved to New York City.

Through his efforts the New York Chapter was organized in 1939 and many of the most enjoyable Alumni gatherings have been given by this Chapter.

Dr. Carlin was an enthusiastic worker and many of the Alumni in his community were spurred on to greater achievement by his energy and forcefulness.

Born in New Lexington, Pennsylvania, he was the son of Dr. Henry Brubaker and Emiline Philson Brubaker. He received his early education from his father, Somerset Academy and private tutors.

He graduated from The Jefferson Medical College in 1874 and immediately was associated with Dr. James C. Wilson in Medical Clinics of Jefferson Hospital. He was made Demonstrator in 1880 and five years later became Professor of Physiology. In 1885 he became Professor of Pathology and Physiology in Pennsylvania School of Dental Surgery, holding that post for twenty-two years.

In 1897, he was appointed adjunct Professor of Physiology and Hygiene at The Jefferson Medical College, which post he held until 1909 when he was elected to the full Professorship of Physiology and Medical Jurisprudence which position he held until his retirement in 1927 when he became Emeritus Professor. In 1891 he accepted the lectureship of Physiology and Hygiene at the Drexel Institute of Technology.

Dr. Brubaker made many contributions to Medical and Scientific Literature and was a member of numerous clubs and medical societies. In 1924 he received the I. T. Strittmatter annual award at the Philadelphia County Medical Society for meritorious medical service.

Dr. Brubaker was a familiar figure at Jefferson even after his retirement, as he made many visits to the institution that he had learned to love through his many years of close association.

He was a scholar and a great teacher. He devoted most of his life to the instruction of medical students, all of whom held him in high esteem.

We say they're gone. So are they—from our sight.
But mystic power of memory gives us clear
And certain vision which can cleave the night
Of absence, so, in truth, they still are here:
Not as they were, when welcomed eye to eye,
But as they live in works that cannot die!

No day but brings them back in deathless deeds;
No passing hour but tells their strength and skill:
A noble army, formed to serve man's needs;
Fighting all-vanfully to save, not kill;
Full-girt with wisdom gained through patient toil;
Full-bent the hordes of pain and grief to foil!

Into this very room their spirits come;
The ranks made greater by the passing year.
No bugle call, no measured roll of drum
Announces them, yet through our thoughts they're here,
Urging the living hosts of Jefferson
To add new victories to those they won!
