A RED ROSE FOR KATHERINE

A red rose and a Jefferson pin were presented to Katherine Fleck when she received her Diploma from the School of Nursing in May 1928.

A red rose, her Jefferson pin and Jefferson cap were by Katherine Sauder's side through the period of rest and during the services on July 6th, 1971. This was a special tribute to Katherine's devotion to nursing. The family's floral arrangement was made of red roses.

Those of us who were closely associated with Katherine know that she led a life of service. She had been active in the Private Duty Nurses Organization from 1928 to 1930. During World War II she was Supervisor of Nurses at the former Bellevue Hospital, Camden, N. J. At the time of her death she was President of the Alumnae Association of the School of Nursing, Thomas Jefferson Hospital and was active in Private Duty Nursing.

She was a member of the Haddonfield Visiting Nurse Association, the New Jersey Parent-Teachers Association, recording secretary of the Erlton Parent-Teachers Association, and treasurer of the Goodwill Church Sunday School.

Wife of the late Howard George Saunders, she is survived by a son, John W., and a daughter, Mrs. Mary Katherine Curwick.

A red rose for Katherine Fleck Saunders.

A MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Dear Graduates:

I wish all of the over 2700 living graduate nurses of Jefferson could have been present May 1st for our Annual Luncheon.

The weather cooperated beautifully. The attendance was excellent. The general spirit of the girls was one of much happiness. The food was hot and appetizing. The "speeches" were short and very concise. The Annual Giving to date has been most gratifying and your generosity is much appreciated.

But — we need your interest and presence more than once a year. If you are not a member of our alumnae association, why not join? The cost is minimal and the benefits are large! We have regular meetings at 7:00 P.M., the second Tuesday of the months of September, October, November, January, February, April and May. These meetings are held in the Student Nurses Residence. They are not dull, but are lively with discussions and we do have programs. Also, in December we have a Christmas dinner with an exchange of gifts and a dinner in March followed by an auction of donated articles. These dinners for the past three years have been held in the beautiful Jefferson Mall.

And so — Graduates and Alumnae Members — lend a small amount of active interest — become concerned and I am sure that you will become involved.

I want to express my thanks to all and especially to my Board of Directors and Committee Chairmen for all their kindness and help during the past two years.

Katherine Fleck Saunders, 1928

DEVELOPMENT AND PROGRESS OF JEFFERSON 1970-1971

As Jefferson completed the first year and moved forward into her second year in a University status, there has been accompaniment expansion and improvement of patient care facilities and services.

The Cardiac Care Unit, under construction at the time of the last report, was completed and ready for patients in February. While coronary care units are not new, Jefferson’s is unique in that it provides specialized facilities for patients who have had cardiac surgery, as well as for those with medical cardiac problems. The unit is bright and attractive and is furnished with most modern monitoring equipment so that any change in a patient’s condition may be instantly detected and corrective treatment established promptly. Needless to say, the medical, nursing and supportive staffs are especially trained for this type of patient care.

The long-awaited reconstruction of the term nurseries on the 10th Floor, Foerdener Pavilion, became a reality in May. Four adjoining, but separate nurseries are located at the south end of the floor. The glass-windowed walls of the nurseries and of the treatment room and nurses’ station afford visual control of all activities within the suits. New locker facilities for the nurseries assigned to this unit, a basin set washing room, increased work space for physicians and nurses have improved the functional use of this unit. The rooms are bright and cheerful and the decor is attractive, making this a pleasant, as well as a convenient place to work.

These plans and construction have taken nearly two years to complete, since every detailed change required the approval of the Philadelphia Department of Health.

Similar, but even more extensive plans have just been approved for the renovations of the Intensive Care and Pediatric nurseries located on the 9th Floor, Main Building. We hope that this reconstruction may begin shortly after the beginning of next year.

We are gradually moving toward the ultimate goal of lateralizing all maternity and infant care facilities so that, eventually, the maternity service beds and nursery on the 6th Floor, Main Building, may be moved to the 10th Floor of the same building. These plans do the job in time, and adequate funding difficult in these times.

An even more exciting venture is taking place now as construction of a helipad on top of the Foerdener Pavilion is underway. Permission for this construction was granted by national, state, and local government agencies.

The helipad will enable us to provide prompt medical treatment and support of high risk and premature infants by means of rapid transportation from other institutions which may not have the physical facilities nor the specialized professional staff to care for these babies. Jefferson, under the direction of Dr. Mary Louise Seoenti, is a regional center for the care of premature and high risk infants. We are presently caring for such babies, some of whom are born at Jefferson and others who are transferred from more than twenty hospitals along the eastern seaboard.

Transportation by ambulance or car over crowded highways can make the difference between life and death or irreversible damage. Concurrent with the need to transport infants with special problems is the need to provide rapid transportation for accident victims with hypothermic or severe shock conditions requiring immediate medical care.

Plans to establish a Burn-Trauma Unit at Thomas Jefferson University Hospital are in the discussion stages now. There is only one such unit in Pennsylvania, in Pittsburgh, and the other ones closest to this area are in Virginia and Massachusetts. In an urban setting such as ones with vast industrial complexes, and a network of highways, the establishment of such a unit is of utmost importance.

The development and planning for a Hand Surgery Reconstruction and Rehabilitation Center is also underway. The purpose of this Center will be to focus the best knowledge and experience on the comprehensive care of those patients whose hands and upper extremities have been damaged by injury or disease. Under the leadership of Dr. James Hunter, Jefferson is now the only institution in this area which can adequately manage the severe emergencies of the hand and upper extremities.

As a result of all of these accomplishments and plans, Jefferson is one of the four hospitals in Philadelphia being considered by the Hospital Survey Committee in the proposal to build a Burn-Trauma Unit. We hope we may be able to report progress in this venture in the near future.

In all of these exciting accomplishments, our Women’s Board has assumed a key role. Support has come through the ladies’ enthusiasm, dedication, and belief in Jefferson. In these days of budgetary crises, we would not have been able to renovate the nurseries or to construct a helipad without the financial support of the Women’s Board. Over the past five years, they have raised and contributed $46,000 for the renovation of the 6th Floor, Main Building; $100,000 for the renovation of the 4th Floor, Main Building; $46,000 for the term nurseries; and have pledged $10,000 for the helipad.

The Seventh Annual Old Market Fair was held at Head House, 2nd and Pine Streets in May, and was a huge success.

Beyond the Hospital’s walls, the University has realized further accomplishments. The Scott Library and Administration Building was completed and opened in October. This beautiful building provides impressively furnished offices for the President and Vice Presidents, as well as for some other key officers who serve all segments of the University.

The Library floors offer students and faculty the most modern facilities for studying, reading and preparing for classes. Jefferson’s School of Nursing, with its ninth-year students in this study facility, and the Library collection includes textbooks and reference books to meet the requirements of the curriculum of each school.

The College of Allied Health Sciences has passed another milestone, and plans for the beginning of a baccalaureate program in nursing have crystallized with the assistance of the School of Nursing. We continued our experience at Philadelphia State Hospital and encouraged the amount of time spent at Philadelphia Psychiatric Center, where the psychiatric nursing experience is presently an 11-week experience with 8 weeks at Philadelphia Psychiatric Center, two weeks on Jefferson’s In-Patient Psychiatric Unit on 14th Annex, and a class field. Field trips are arranged to Philadelphia Geriatric Center, Blackshear Veterans’ Hospital and several community agencies. We are presently considering integrating mental health nursing throughout the year rather than identifying it as a separate quarter in the second year.

We have 34 full-time faculty members in addition to the Medical College faculty, who teach the basic sciences. Seventeen of our faculty members are graduates of schools. The committee structure of the faculty organization permits each member to participate in the development of the program. Our Faculty In-Service Program this year was on the topic of stress, and reasons. A perpetual plaque, to be awarded to the Medical College, was the instructor for the year and that we may welcome your return to the library. The income from this estate which was received in 1931, was used as matching funds to be awarded to the Medical Library Assistance Act which is administered by the librarian program of the National Library of Medicine.

The second development that will affect the student the future and has been the planning of a new clinical teaching facility. The facility has engaged the services of E. D. Rosenfield Associates: Souder, Clark and Associates, and Harbenbush, Hough, Livingstone and Larson through the realization of this facility. Working closely with the consultants and architects has been a steering committee chaired by Francis J. Sweeney, Jr., M.D., Hospital Director. The College of Allied Health Sciences was represented by a faculty member and a student, both of whom are in the school of nursing—Margaret McClean, R.N. and Catherine Wiegman, 1972. The proposed site for the clinical teaching facility (CTF) is the block just north of the current clinical complex that is being purchased by Chestnut, Sansom, 10th and 11th Streets. Three levels will be below the street, including a parking lot. Commercial space will remain on these streets.

Most of the student activities during the past year were related to the fund-raising projects for the individual classes as well as for Student Council. We had a Student-Faculty Christmas Party and a Student-Faculty Basketball Game. The basketball team again demonstrated considerable determination in winning six out of seven games. In addition to providing new uniforms and the annual Basketball Banquet, the School of Nursing Department of the Women’s Board initiated the Thomas Jefferson Award for Achievements and Recognition on the basis of athletic ability, team leadership, and all-around sportsmanship. A perpetual plaque, to be inscribed with the names of the recipiency, will be placed on the wall by the trophy case. The recipient will also receive an individual trophy. This year’s recipient, the first to be awarded, received an inscribed silver Revere bowl.

In the student residence, we have a staff of 8 housemothers who cover the building on a 24-hour basis. Consideration is being given to providing accommodations for other female students in the residence as additional to nursing students. The School of Nursing Department of the Women’s Board has plans to completely redevelop the main lounge of the residence this summer. The second step will be accomplished this summer with the repainting of the lounge and the purchase of several new sofas. The color scheme will be changed from a color highlight of purple to one of orange.

I believe that you can see from this report that Jefferson is keeping pace with the changes in our society, that we are experiencing growing pains as we go from college to university, that while we are making it possible for them to reach a certain degree as they get their R.N.’s, still we believe that you received the best nursing education that it possible to receive — that in a diploma school, and one of the best diploma schools.
We are always pleased to hear from you and to learn of your current activities. My sincere best wishes for your success wherever you may use the education you have received here at Jefferson!

School of Practical Nursing ANNUAL REPORT TO THE ALUMNAE ASSOCIATION

The School of Practical Nursing continues to recruit students desire and qualify for a vocational nursing program. Most candidates find it possible to attend full-time for twelve months, but others continue to be interested in the pilot program approved by the State Board of Nursing to present the curculum as a work-study plan requiring twenty-one months to complete. Seven members of the class who inaugurated this program in September 1969 will be granted diplomas this June.

Our Practical Nursing program can now count 157 graduates, one of whom is a man. As in the case with a number of our graduates he intends to enter a school of professional nursing in September 1971 in a climb up the career ladder. The open ended curriculum in nursing is being actively promoted throughout the State of Pennsylvania and will no doubt vitally affect the College of Allied Health Sciences as it develops here at Jefferson.

Director

CARDIAC CARE UNIT
As of February 15, 1971 Thomas Jefferson University Hospital has provided a Cardiac Care Unit for the patients it services. The fourth floor of the Thompson Annex Building was completely rebuilt into a twelve bed facility designed to provide continuous observation and intensive care for patients with serious medical or surgical heart diseases.

Of the twelve beds seven are set together around a nurses' desk to form the medical side of the unit. The criteria for admission to the medical area are: 1) a clear diagnosis of acute myocardial infarction,
2) a syndrome requiring cardiac monitoring, and 3) a suspected myocardial infarction. In this area each patient has a completely private room to insure a peaceful environment. At the same time observation of the patient is made possible by the presence of windows facing the nurses' desk. Each room is supplied with oxygen, suction, and air as well as monitoring equipment and a bedside commode. The undersurface of the beds on the medical side are constructed of a radiolucent material so that pacing catheters or cardiac catheters for measuring pressures may be inserted under fluoroscopy while the patient remains in his bed. The bedside monitoring equipment is such that it is possible to observe the patient's electrocardiogram, his cardiac rate, his temperature, and up to three pressures at one time.
The pressures that might be monitored are central venous pressure, systemic arterial pressure, left ventricular pressure, or pulmonary artery pressure. In conjunction with the bedside monitors are the "slave" monitors at the nurses' desk that duplicate the electrocardiogram, the cardiac rate, and one pressure for each patient in the unit.

Because the main philosophy governing the care of a patient with myocardial infarction is the early treatment of arrhythmias, the medical area also has an emergency stretcher which is used to bring patients to the unit. This stretcher is provided with a portable monitor for the electrocardiogram, a portable oxygen tank, an emergency drug box, and a portable defibrillator.

Before completing this discussion of the medical side of the Cardiac Care Unit it is necessary to mention the presence of a Special Studies Room. This room is equipped very similarly to a cardiac catheterization laboratory, and is utilized for the insertion of pacemaker catheters, for cardiac function or metabolic studies, or for cardiac visualization by fluoroscop y. A small laboratory has been built next to this special studies room and is capable of processing blood samples for electrolytes, blood gases, and cardiac metabolites.

On the surgical side of the unit there are five beds provided for the care of patients who have undergone operative procedures requiring cardiopulmonary bypass. Of these five beds four are enclosed in three walls with a drape on the remaining side facing the surgical nurses' desk. One surgical bed is housed in a private room. Equipment at the bedside is almost identical to that found on the medical side.

The only difference is the lack of bedside commodes and the presence of a regular hospital bed as opposed to a radiolucent one.

Both areas are provided with defibrillator ma-Chines, mechanical cardiac massagers, emergency drug boxes, anesthesia intubation equipment, and respirators.

Aside from the patient care areas, the Cardiac Care Unit was thoughtfully designed to provide three lounges: the nurses' lounge, the doctors' lounge, and the visitors' lounge. It is important to point out that the doctors' lounge allows for two physicians to sleep within close call of their patients. Also, it is important to realize that the visitors' lounge is meant to be a waiting area for visitors while their relative is in the operating room, or during the time between visiting periods. The unit also

MARIE CASTELLAN, B.S.N., R.N., M.S.N.
supplies coffee to these visitors taking into consideration the principle that nursing attention must extend beyond the individual patient to his family members.

The Director of the Cardiac Care Unit has an office on the floor. As the Director is mainly responsible for the medical staff, an office has also been provided for use by the surgical physicians. Finally, it only remains to note that a conference room is available for staff meetings, for classes, or for use by the physicians when talking with the patient's family.

The physical layout and equipment are important to the operation of this unit, but the personnel play an even more significant role. Aside from the physical coverage one must consider the nursing staff, the clerical staff, the engineer, and the technicians.

Being an intensive care area the nurse to patient ratio is necessarily high. Once the nurses have completed forty to fifty hours of orientation classes, they are able to assume the full list of responsibilities in the area. Protocols have been drawn up for the medical side that are followed by the nurse when various arrhythmias are recognized. These protocols give the nurse the right to administer intravenous medications or to deliver a defibrillation shock. Thus, it becomes clear that the orientation classes are critical to the unit and will, therefore, be offered at several times during the year.

In order for the nurse to spend more of her time at the bedside a number of assistant service co-ordinators attend the telephones, maintain supplies, and manage the paper work of the unit. Secondly, an engineer has been put on the staff with the main task of troubleshooting the machines in the area particularly the expensive monitoring and measuring equipment. Also, this individual is available for advice in maintaining an electrically safe environment for the patients. Finally, in the area work with the engineer in troubleshootng as well as being responsible for the function and maintenance of the Special Studies Room, the Laboratory, and the various equipments in these two rooms.

Much planning has gone into the physical designs, administrative organization, and the job descriptions for the various levels of personnel in this Cardiac Care Unit. Yet, these many considerations are but the speaking part of the story of the safety of the cardiac patient. Therefore, nursing even in such a sophisticated unit engineer has become a team effort, particularly the expensive monitoring and measuring equipment.

PATIENT SERVICES DEPARTMENT

Personalizing patient care still continues to be a goal of the Thomas Jefferson University Hospital's Patient Services Department. During the past year this goal has been furthered by the ever increasing importance of the analization of a hospital bill, or the explanation of why a remittance is not returned to one all of a certain procedure. Of course, the housekeeping and dietary staffs, as well as the staff of nurses and doctors, continue to maintain impressive accounts of the varied activities churned through its services. One can reiterate that the department's objectives will be to continue to provide whatever help is necessary to the patient and his family. Building the confidence of the doctors, nurses, social workers, and any others who spend their working hours caring for the patient, will be a means of attaining this objective.

Elizabeth S. Stone

During these visits, she handled a wide variety of professional problems on the scene. Others were transferred back to the Department Head, such as investigation into a patient's bill, etc.

The Patient Escorts were able to transport more than 130,000 patients to and from the Nursing and Treatment Study areas.

Needless to say, Patient Services is a most active and vital department in the hospital's organizational picture. It's role can be portrayed in numerous accounts of the varied activities churned through its services. One can reiterate that the department's objectives will be to continue to provide whatever help is necessary to the patient and his family.

Finally, it only remains to note that a conference room is necessarily high. This person is meant to be the representative. This person is meant to be the representative.
I sponsor a blind child in an orphanage in Kummamo, and have visited her twice. She is a very happy, healthy child, and doing very well. In school now that she has a mother who cares for her. Toyomi is the only blind Girl Scout in Japan.

Mildred Myers Smith 1934

SCHOOL NURSE VS. THE DRUG SCENE

Something new? The school nurses are finally involved! Not at all. Your school nurse has been involved with the drug problem for years. However, if you ask a belligerent teenager what his school nurse does, he'll probably tell you, "She doesn't do a thing. You go in there (her office) with a pain and what do you get? Nothing!" What he or she doesn't realize is just how much did go on! The following examples explain how the school nurse fights the drug problem daily simply by dispensing no medicine at all!

Your nurse has an extensive background in the use and misuse of drugs of all types. She has had probably at least three months' psychiatric experience in a mental institution where she spoke with and comforted and helped treat those individuals who went too far causing permanent damage to the brain. She brought all of this knowledge with her when she accepted her position as school nurse.

In the elementary school she is most effective. These are the "molding" years. Susan S. comes into Mrs. D's office complaining of a headache. Does the nurse say, "Sorry, I can't give you any pills. Go back to your room." Of course not. The nurse has her own office. It should be a comfortable room with cheerful curtains and a carpet to give it a "homey" atmosphere. In her office a student is free to relax and talk privately. No other student need be around.

She genuinely likes children and they know it and like her too! Mrs. D. says, "Susan, did you eat your breakfast?" "No, I got up late and almost missed the bus." Down to the cafeteria they go for crackers and milk and the headache is gone and - no pills!

Tommy S. comes in and says, "Mrs. D., I'm sick, could I have something for my belly ache?" "Did you eat your breakfast?" "Yes." "What did you have?" He tells her and she realizes that oatmeal, toast, and juice is certainly an adequate breakfast. She asks if the pain is in the lower right corner of his tummy (she's checking for possible appendicitis), he says "no." She sends him into the bathroom and tells him to take his time. He comes out and he's fine. No pills, nature took care of this problem.

The nurse realizes that a school age child is at a very healthy age. However, she is trained to recognize symptoms of a serious nature. She is not dispensing medicine, neither is she turning the child away.

The weather changed abruptly. At 1:30 P.M. it is hot. Tommy comes in, "Nurse, I've got a bad headache." He has no fever. But it was somewhat chilly in the morning and he was on a long sleeve undershirt and a knit sweater over top. He is overheated. Mrs. D. takes off the undershirt, puts it in a bag with his name on it, tells him to wash his face with cold water and lets him talk to her a minute or two until he "cools off." Headache gone. Again, no pills!

Here comes May Ann again. She always has a problem. But Mrs. D. recognizes it now as an excuse to visit her. "I'm sick, I want to go home" and starts to cry. Usually her complaint is not so strong. Mary Ann lies on the bed and Mrs. D. calls her mother. "Oh dear, how can I come get her. I have to go to court today. You see her dad left us this summer. Can you keep her there? I'll call in about an hour." I took off work today for this." Poor Mary Ann, even though she's in third grade she knows the turmoil things are in at home. Psychologically she is probably afraid that Mommie won't come back either. The nurse reassures her that her mother will call soon to see how she is but that she (the nurse) is there and will help. Then Mrs. D. starts talking about Mary Ann's pet cat, touches her gently and soon she forgets her illness and goes back to the classroom. Mrs. D. "clues" the teacher in — Mary Ann's sick feeling is gone — no pills!

We could go on and on citing examples. Your school nurse will explain to the students that the body is a wonderful machine and that it takes pretty good care of itself with a little use of common sense.

On the secondary level — Anita comes in — I've got to go home. I've got cramps." Miss K. the school nurse, tells her to lie down for awhile and curl up and reassures her that mild discomfort the first day is common and no reason to feel that she will feel better at home.

Allen comes in to obtain a permission slip excluding him from gym. Noticing his obvious weight problem, Miss K. starts to question him about his reason for not wanting to participate in the gym class. After a few minutes of relaxed conversation he has a difficult time keeping up with the strenuous activity. Miss K. talks about a serious weight control plan, good eating habits and refers him to his family physician. He promises to return to his office for a weekly "weigh-in". No gym excuse — no medication!

Misty comes in, starts to talk, but stops abruptly when a classmate enters. Miss K. senses her nervous state and waits until her office is empty. She asks Misty a few "straight" questions and finds out about her pregnancy. This isn't a one visit case, but pills certainly are not the answer.

Alex struts in — "Man I've got one headache. I gotta get outta this place!" Alex is a frequent visitor to your office and often absent. Checking with the classroom teacher, Miss K. finds that he has not done his homework again and is now jeopardizing his position on the football team. Miss K. feels a home visit is necessary. After meeting with his mother she finds out his eyes bother him, although he doesn’t openly complain about it. He has failed 2 eye screening tests but so far no follow-up. Realizing that the mother is struggling to make ends meet because the father is dead, Miss K. arranges free glasses for Alex. Rx lenses — not pills!

We don’t mean to imply that all complaints are not legitimate illnesses. Many are, and these students are sent home immediately. Therefore, your school nurse is working on the drug scene daily as she helps students find the natural “cures” for their complaints.

Perhaps now you see why she dispenses neither needles nor pills but psychology and love.

June Reginak Dupnock, R.N. Class of 1957

TO NURSES

Here she comes all dressed in white
Walking softly through the night
Her voice is always low and sweet, her patients now are all asleep
Like a shepherd watching his flock of sheep
Blessing the babies as they take their first breath
Closing the eyes that are still in death
She is always happy and gay
Looking forward to another day.

PROGRAM

The first program meeting this past year was held in October at the Modern Living Center, Philadelphia Electric Company, 211 South Broad Street. The members had an opportunity to tour the facilities, enjoy the lighting exhibition and acquire many helpful hints given during the cooking demonstration. The program was a huge success and many thanks to Miss Mary Ann Stauffer who was instrumental in helping to arrange this program.

At the January meeting a film entitled “Doctor, Teacher, Friend” was shown describing Project Hope’s people to people medical training and treatment on four continents. The film described the work of Hope’s dedicated medical personnel aboard the hospital ship in Tunisia and in the sixteen-million acre Navajo Indian reservation.

On February 2nd, 1971, the members viewed a film entitled “It Takes a Lot of Help”. This film explored the numerous avenues available to groups concerned with preventing drug abuse in an in-depth analysis of a citizen-initiated program. Following the film presentation, a timely discussion on drug abuse was conducted by the members.

Due to inclement weather our guest speaker for April agreed to return in October to further discuss the topic of Drug Abuse.

The Program Committee Chairman wishes to extend a sincere thank you to all members and guests who have participated in the monthly programs.

SCHOLARSHIP REPORT

The Clara Melville Scholarship Fund awards two $500 scholarships annually. All other things being equal, the applicant who has been most active in the Association and who has most nearly completed the degree requirements is given preference.

Closing dates for applications are April for those desiring to use the scholarship in the Fall or Winter semester, and September 1 for those desiring to use the scholarship in the Spring semester.

The committee reviewed three applications for awards to be granted in the Spring semester of 1971. The award was offered to Betty Lou Simonson Woods, Class of 1961. Mrs. Woods could not accept the award because it was necessary for her to change her plans in relation to full time attendance at school.

The procedure for utilization of the Adele Lewis Scholarship Fund was discussed and recommendations were submitted to the Alumnae Association for their approval. The purpose of this fund is to assist a student to pursue her course in the diploma program. The fund, at present, is not adequately funded to initiate the granting of awards. With the contributions received for this purpose through Annual giving, it may be possible to start using the fund by 1972. We are all grateful and most appreciative of the members’ support of this most worthy cause.

Doris E. Bowman, Chairman Scholarship Committee

HEALTH and WELFARE

In the past year cards were sent to all known members while patients in Thomas Jefferson University Hospital. One member asked and received aid with medical expenses.

Respectfully submitted, Jeannette Plasterer

BULLETIN

In order to survive, changes are necessary and changes have been made and are being made at “Jefl”: You already have noted the change in the size of the “BULLETIN”, also the name of our alumnae association; more changes are to be noted in the revised by-laws.

The Bulletin primarily is made up of articles, reports and news about and by graduates. The articles in our 1971 issue include an up to date report of the University in general, the School of Nursing, the School of Practical Nursing, the new Cardiac Care Unit, and Patient Services.

Our President encourages better attendance at our meetings, the Secretary gives us a comprehensive resume of alumnae activities, and the Treasurer reports a cash balance! Most of the members of the committees have had a busy year and we appreciate their reports.

We are proud to print articles and news from graduates — including the Class of 1911 and 1970.

Again — we welcome participation of the student nurses and have published the names and addresses of the June 1971 Graduation Class.

This is, in reality, the first building erected for the Jefferson Medical College. Through the generosity of the Rev. Ezra Styles Ely, D.D., a building was erected in 1828 on Tenth Street between Juniper Alley and George Street; and in 1846 this building was remodeled, as shown. Here, in 1846, was held the first anesthetic clinic in Philadelphia and here taught such brilliant men as Samuel D. Gross, George McClellan, Joseph Pancoast, J. Marion Sims, and Thomas D. Mutter.

I established the first birth control clinic in Dutchess County—back in Mary Sanger’s time. I came to Millbrook in 1919 to be Public Health Nurse for the Townships of Washington—no special training except working out of a small hospital in South, Del., with two Jefferson doctors. I live in an apartment, do all my own work, drive my car around the town—if it is too far to walk, and my health is very good. STUDENT NURSES SECTION

SCHOOL OF NURSING

THOMAS JEFFERSON UNIVERSITY STUDENT ACTIVITIES

Student Council decided that the 1970-71 year would be a year to change tradition starting with a Student-Faculty Swim-In, in place of the traditional picnic, to welcome the new freshman class. Students enjoyed swimming at the Commons and later returned to the residence for pizza and soda.

Fund raising was an important item on the council’s agenda this year. Doughnut sales were held on the first floor of the Foerdere Pavilion at various times throughout the year. Secondly, Christmas cards turned out to be a successful means of raising funds. Next, milk and cake sales were held in the residence at night for the girls. Lastly, a raffle for a donated wrist watch was successful in providing funds for the latter half of the year.

The school paper, Caps 'N Capes, under the leadership of Miss Jane Lease (a senior) published three editions.

The Halloween party was a complete surprise to most of the students this year. It was announced that the girls must make a costume and be in the basement for games and refreshments two hours before the party. Many students were present, and we were glad to see a few housemothers participate.

Christmas activities included a caroling party held in the residence lounge with refreshments and a semi-formal dance held in the Commons. The couples danced to a rock band and enjoyed a midnight buffet. Once again the residence was beautifully decorated with a Christmas tree and flowers by the School of Nursing Department of the Women’s Board. Also, the Student Council, with the help of the hospital fire marshal, sponsored a window decorating contest. A French fashion designer and a well known art designer judged the windows. Prizes consisted of cash, pocketbooks and perfume. The project was successful and added a touch of festivity to the residence.

Students decided to continue the traditional “Cupid Capers” party for Valentine’s Day. Throughout the week, girls had small gifts or clues of identity to her caper. At the end of the week, a party is held to learn the identity of the cupids.

The new school ring was received by many students this year. The ring is a medium sized 10K gold ring with a black onyx stone. Engraved in the stone is the Thomas Jefferson University seal which adds to the attractiveness of the ring.

Throughout the year the council has sponsored several Indian children through the Lutheran Social Services in Sioux Falls, South Dakota. Our present orphan is a three year old Indian girl named Eva.

Rudolph A. Lucente, Director of Clinical Instrument Services of Thomas Jefferson University Hospital, and his wife. This year the chorus caroled in the hospital at Christmas and performed a concert in McClellan Hall. They also sing at graduation exercises held at the Sheraton Hotel. The school is very proud of the fine ability of the chorus and advisors.

Students were represented on the Commons Board and Social Committee this year. Also one student was represented on the planning committee this year. Also one student was represented on the planning committee for the new addition to Thomas Jefferson Hospital.

Open House was our last social event of the year. Parents and friends visited the residence from 3 P.M. to 7 P.M. Everyone that participated enjoyed themselves and would like to have the open house several times throughout the year.

Student Council President

CLASS OF 1971

The Senior Class of 1971 is eagerly anticipating our June graduation.

Approximately thirty-six of the fifty-six graduating seniors plan to stay at Jefferson as staff nurses. Seven girls will attend college full-time in the fall and many others will be continuing their education on a part-time basis. Jeannette Steinhagen will begin La Salle College as a pre-medical student in September 1971.

Basic training in the U.S. Army will start shortly after graduation for Susan Graham and Christine Stack.

We are proud of the three senior members of our basketball team who led Jefferson to the Championship in the annual tournament which involved six other nursing schools in the Philadelphia area.

Although we are all looking forward to graduation, we will fondly remember our happy experiences, our friends, and all those who helped to make these past three years very rewarding.
