A LETTER FROM THE PRESIDENT

Dear Alumni,

Time passes so quickly that I can hardly believe it is time to write a message for the Bulletin.

This has been a successful year for our Alumni Association and it remains very much alive and well. Early in July we completed our pledge of $100,000.00 to the Sesquicentennial Campaign by presenting a check for $12,869.44 to the Development Offices. We can give ourselves a big pat on the back for this accomplishment. I hope you all will have the opportunity to see the Nurses' Alumnae recognition plaques, which will be placed in the new hospital. The plaques will be located at three patient lounges and two classrooms. We will also be listed on the large plaque located on the first floor of the hospital, with other major contributors to the "Sesqui Campaign".

Of course the anticipation of most everyone at Jefferson this past year has been the opening of the new hospital, and by the time you read this the "move" will have been completed and hopefully everyone will be adjusted to the new surroundings.

This year we have officially and legally changed the name of our Association from Alumnae to Alumni. We are proud to have the male nursing graduates as members of our Alumni. We extend a hearty welcome to you and encourage you to become active members of our Association.

It has been a privilege to serve as president of the Alumni Association for six years. I appreciate your trust in my leadership. It has not been without frustrations (and maybe a few added gray hairs) but the satisfaction I have gained far outweighs the frustrations.

At this time I would like to thank each one of you for your continuous confidence and help, especially my fellow officers and committees, this certainly made my term of office more pleasant and satisfying.

Best wishes to each one of you.

Sincerely yours,

Margaret Summers, class of 1941

Jefferson — Past, Present, and Future
Lewis W. Bluemle, Jr., M.D.
President, Thomas Jefferson University

The story of Jefferson's past is filled with vision, hope, and determination. The present finds our University closer to the end of a period of physical rejuvenation, the like of which few academic health centers have been able to accomplish. Jefferson's challenge for the future is to fill its new buildings with programs of quality and diversity befitting a medically oriented University.

The vision to establish a second medical school in Philadelphia came from Dr. George McClellan and a small group of colleagues who shared his conviction that medical students should participate actively in the care of patients under appropriate supervision. Thus in 1824, the Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia was established. Although 90 years younger than the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine, it quickly grew in size and more and more students learned about its dynamic faculty and its commitment to practical excellence in medicine.

As a consequence of its early founding, rapid growth, and large investment, Jefferson has supplied the United States with more physicians than any other single medical college. During the Civil War most, if not many, of the Confederate military surgeons were graduates of Jefferson. In 1859-60, two-thirds of the student body were from the South. This, of course, was before the expansion of medical education in our southern states.

Shortly after the Civil War, the Jefferson Medical College Hospital School of Nursing was organized. It, too, has served as a model of excellence in health manpower productivity. More than 4,500 registered nurses have graduated since its founding in 1893.

The significance of Jefferson's past is that it gave us our heritage of institutional values. The faculty members who added luster to academic life in times past also molded the present character of our institution. Their composite wisdom is as much a part of our life today as are their many portraits which now grace our halls and meeting places.

The present finds us near the end of a major rebuilding program which over the past several decades has added Jefferson Alumni Hall, the Scott Library building, Orłowitz and Barringer Residence Halls, and the renovated Health Sciences Center. The opening of the new Clinical Teaching Facility in early June marks the culmination of one of the largest and most successful capital undertakings of a private university in this country. Consequently, Jefferson can now proudly claim to have one of the most modern, attractive, and convenient campuses for health professional education. For this remarkable asset we are indebted to a visionary group of planners among Jefferson's Trustees, administrative officers, and faculty, as well as to the Alumni and other friends whose donations made this extensive program possible.

Realistically, we must recognize as well a significant fiscal obligation which will extend into the twenty-first century. Total bonds and debt service for the new facility amount to $159 million. This obligation must be the first consideration in budget development for many years to come. Debt service payments next year will total more than $7 million; a new expense which makes it all the more necessary that we use our resources prudently and garner every source of revenue.

The real challenge of Jefferson's future, however, is to achieve an across-the-board quality of academic programs which matches the quality of our new campus. In this regard we must honestly examine the strengths and weaknesses of every activity. We must also determine the University's directions for the future.

Toward these ends a Task Force for University Planning is currently being developed by Mr. George M. Norwood, Jr., Vice President for Planning and Development. The charge to this Task Force, chaired by Mr. Frederic L. Ballant, Chairman of Jefferson's Board of Trustees, is to draft a comprehensive long range University Plan to replace the outdated Master Plan of 1972.
Because the University encompasses three Colleges, the university hospital, and the Children’s Heart Hospital, it will be necessary to rely on a number of subcommittees for planning in various programmatic areas. One of these subcommittees will deal with nursing education. Building on the deliberations of the current Committee on Nursing Education, chaired initially by Dean Marion M. Kerns and now by Dean Pro Temp Lawrence Abrams, this group will weigh the desirability of continuing our three separate programs—baccalaureate, diploma, and practical nursing—in their present forms against the alternatives of modified programs which might better meet changing needs.

Without preempting this subcommittee’s judgment, it seems reasonable to assume that one of its considerations will be an advanced baccalaureate program for registered nurses desiring a degree.

With regard to other programmatic possibilities in the College of Allied Health Sciences, we will explore the feasibility of starting new baccalaureate offerings in physical therapy and occupational therapy. The need for education in these areas is growing, and the lack of education to meet this demand is most evident in the case of physical therapy.

A realistic determinant of Jefferson's plans for the future will be the availability of adequate funding, particularly continuing appropriations from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. A reduction in the State appropriation during 1977-78 served to remind us all that financial exigencies have a serious impact on the balance between growth and the maintenance of ongoing programs. It would be a mistake, however, to let funding problems deter the planning effort. This could result in letting habit rather than conscious determination chart our directions for the future. While forces and problems beyond our control may modify the pace of change, they will not keep us from developing, through discussion, consultation, and consensus, a common understanding of where our University is going.

Lest we fail to chart our directions for the future, all will agree that the quality of our undergraduate program is the bedrock on which the university rests. As long as faculty and students are striving for excellence in scholarship and teaching, the University remains the largest program in the College.

SCHOOL OF NURSING
Report to the Alumni Association
1977-1978

"Between the innocence of an entrance exam and the dignity of an R.N. there comes a delightful creature... the student nurse...." Thus begins a poem, by an unknown author, traditionally passed on to incoming freshman; perhaps you remember it. Overstatement of the description, and activities of the student nurse makes it delightful reading, unveiling a flood of memories. To say that our students are a delight is no overstatement! True, some mornings it is necessary to get up before breakfast to keep one step ahead of them but, I suppose, if the truth were known, we would not have it otherwise.

Although our student population is still predominantly single females under twenty-one years of age, having no previous higher education, the picture is changing as an increasing number of applicants are married, male, over 21 years of age, and have had some college—some with degrees. Enrollment at the beginning of the 1977-78 academic year was 290. Of these, 84 joined the ranks of alumni June 3, 1978.

Year after year, I’ve been writing, with pride, of the accomplishments of our basketball team and cheerleaders—this year is no exception. Both groups won their respective championships. Included with the cheerleaders championship is a $250 scholarship; the recipient has yet not been named. Barbara McGrenra, ‘78, received the Thomas Jefferson Award for Athletic Achievement. She played on the basketball team for three years and was co-captain this year.

The College of Allied Health Sciences Alumni Dinner Dance, the night before Commencement, set the pace for the whirlwind of activities that week-end.

As Commencement speaker, Edna Fagan, Assistant Administrator, Nebraska Methodist Hospital, challenged graduates, faculty and administration to continue to strive for excellence in diploma education. Truly she is an outstanding supporter of diploma education.

From the Faculty point of view this has been a busy year. The never ending flow of paper across our desks and the endless hours of meetings have been augmented by College activities during this initial year of implementation of the College By-Laws. Like anything new, the By-Laws have to be lived with, tried and tested before their real value can be judged. Thus far they seem to be faring well.

Increasing numbers of faculty are returning to college for certification or to obtain the next higher degree. Administratively, this is encouraging, for it is basic to the quality assurance. Betty (Bilbrough) Alexy, 1960, continued as Instructor, Community Health, has had an article accepted for publication in the Fall 1978 Nursing Clinics of North America. We are proud that Penma (Enhart) Davis, 1941, Instructor for Student Health, is the newly elected Alumni Association President.

At this writing, faculty are beginning to wonder how they will ever cope with the move to the new hospital in June. By the time you read this, the hospital facility in which each of you had your clinical laboratory experience will be a past history and a new era will have dawned. I am proud and grateful to think of the financial contribution you have made to help make it possible for our students to continue to practice in modern facilities. Major curriculum changes projected for next year include the dropping of chemistry, applying for three semester credits for nutrition and changing the agency for psychiatric nursing affiliation from Philadelphia Psychiatric Center to Albert Einstein, Dartmouth College and Jefferson.

Projected enrollment for the class of 1981 is less than 100. We are uncertain as to the reasons for this but one no doubt is the infamous 1980 proposal. This size class will, however, enable us to get to know each student better and to offer them more personal guidance and instruction. We remain the largest program in the College.

Each year the question of accreditation arises. I am pleased to report to you that we are fully approved by the Pennsylvania State Board of Nurse Examiners and fully accredited by the National League for Nursing.

It is always encouraging to hear from you and to learn of your successes. Increasing numbers of requests for transcripts are received annually. You are to be commended for your pursuit of higher education.

Accountability is here to stay! Since we receive both state and federal funds, the College is required to do a follow-up study of its graduates. This is in addition to the study that we have traditionally done. Thus, this year a combined questionnaire was sent to last year’s graduates. We are grateful for the cooperation shown. Truly she is an outstanding supporter of diploma education.
Students Affairs Council

This year has been a busy one for the Students Affairs Council and the student body in the diploma program. Students have actively participated in parties, fund raising, special events, cultural activities, sports events, conferences and meetings, plus their daily class and clinical experience.

As a result of an activity questionnaire prepared and distributed by the Students Affairs Council, several parties for the student body were held. Beginning in May, the annual senior party celebrated the graduation of the senior students. In September, a student-faculty picnic was held in the west courtyard of Jefferson Alumni Hall. Refreshments included hot dogs, cookies, punch and potato chips. The Halloween party included refreshments, games and prizes, including a $10.00 prize for the best costume. December 21, 1977, the Christmas party began by decorating a Christmas tree and playing Christmas music. A buffet of cold cuts, hot roast beef and rolls, lasagna, cookies, and drinks was served.

Student Affairs Council held various money making projects starting with a nurse's key chain sale in September. There were two raffles, one for a novelty watch and one for a blood pressure cuff. In addition, there was an ice cream and waffle sale.

Special events of Students Affairs Council included reviewing and updating the student handbook, assisting with commencement at the Sheraton Hotel on June 4, 1977, and serving at the Annual Tea given by the School of Nursing Department of the Women's Board. In December, the Students Affairs Council members decorated the display case between Foerderer and Thompson Buildings with various items of interest from the nursing school in addition to Christmas and New Year's ornaments. Members of Student Affairs Council and other students also went carolling in the hospital during the holidays. Through the Lutheran Social Services, the Council sponsored Albert, an American Indian child. Bulletins and snapshots have kept the students aware of Albert's activities throughout the year.

Each class held various fund raising events to support their activities and yearbook. Seniors were involved in bake sales, a hypertension screening clinic, the annual spaghetti dinner and a candy apple sale. The Juniors participated in bake sales and a stationery sale, while the Freshmen were busy with organization of class government.

The School of Nursing basketball team was undefeated in the Southeastern Pennsylvania League for Nursing Students Nurses' Basketball League Playoffs and won the championship. Barb McDougal, the team captain, was the recipient of the Women's Board Award for Outstanding Academic Achievement. The cheerleading squad, with Kathy Waters and Linda Krus as co-captains, won the first place trophy and brought to the school a $250.00 scholarship from the American Legion.

The School of Nursing Department of the Women's Board once again graciously provided complimentary tickets to the ballet, theatre, and orchestra which were much appreciated by the students.

The Dean's Student Advisory Committee representatives were Colleen Looby and Jean Humphrely; they participated in that committee's meetings throughout the year.

In December, Lorri McCullough, the 1977 Heart Queen for the American Heart Association, Southeastern Pennsylvania Chapter, was voted Chairman of the Heart Committee for Southeastern Pennsylvania. In April, 1978, she was sent to Dallas, Texas for a weekend conference of the First National Youth-in-Heart Committee, where national goals and proposals were set.

This year's Students Affairs Council endeavored to stimulate interest and participation in various social and academic functions, to enhance loyalty to the School of Nursing as well as the University and to promote individual and group responsibility in the students. We sincerely encourage future Students Affairs Councils to continue this tradition.

LORRAINE MCCULLOUGH Chairman, Students Affairs Council 1977-78

NURSING SERVICE

During the past year much was achieved in the Department of Nursing Service. Our greatest accomplishment last year was the planning and actual moving of 400 medical-surgical patients into the New Hospital. To accomplish this, beginning in January 1978 we held many educational programs with the nursing staff. These programs included sessions on the new nurse call system, which is a computerized system employing a central nurse call operator. This operator answers all patient calls and then locates a nurse to tell her what the patient wants so the patient will receive care promptly. Sessions with the new floor were held on infection control, as we now have four rooms on every floor which have air flow controls for reverse and protective isolation.

Other new systems which were to be implemented at the same time we moved to the New Hospital were also reviewed with the nursing staff so that they would have a good understanding of how these systems would operate.

On June 20 we began the actual move of patients to the New Hospital. This weekend prior to that move, the first three Operating Rooms were moved. Surgery began on the 19th of June. On the 20th, at about 8 a.m., the first patients came across the ramp and the New Hospital was officially opened. The move was completed within two weeks and on the first of July the hospital was fully occupied and all the Operating Rooms had completed their move.

Since everyone has been in the New Hospital, both staff and patients have appreciated the pleasant environment. Most patients do like the private rooms and almost all enjoy the view on Chestnut Street. The atrium cafeteria has been well used since it opened in the early part of the year.

As can be expected, there are still some settling-in problems which need to be worked out. Over the next two months we will be spending much time handling these details and then we will begin to work on the objectives for the coming year. Within the next two months we will begin using the educational channel on the patient televisions to show videotapes on specific subjects for patients. At this time we will begin to expand our patient education program.

All in all, it was a busy year but much was accomplished and the nursing staff has much to be proud of.

CAROL HUTELMYER
Director, Nursing Service

BACCALAUREATE NURSING PROGRAM

Our Department will be moving from Jefferson Alumni Hall to the Health Sciences Center in the Fall. We are pleased with the move into more spacious quarters and look forward to it.

Over the past year, an R.N. Advanced Placement Program leading to a Bachelor of Science in Nursing degree has been planned by the faculty. A limited number of students will be admitted in September 1978. It is expected that the program will be expanded in the next academic year. For information, please write or call:

Marian Nichols, Associate Professor Coordinator, Advanced Placement Program Sixth Floor, Health Sciences Center 829-7938

Our Department Continuing Education Committee will be scheduling programs during the 1978-79 academic year and we expect to offer a program the day before the Alumni Annual Luncheon. We hope that many of you will be interested in attending. Notices of the program will be sent to you.

CHARLOTTE E. VOSS Chairman

THE SCHOOL OF PRACTICAL NURSING

The class of 1978 as the fourteenth class to be enrolled at Jefferson, has become the largest class to date with seventy students beginning the program on September 5, 1977. Attrition has been quite low during this year (12.9%) resulting in the largest group class to receive diplomas on August 30, 1978 with sixty-one graduates.

The faculty of the School of Practical Nursing has been active as have all the faculties of the College of Allied Health Sciences in the work of the committees created by the By-Laws of the College. The three nursing program directors have also represented their faculty and students on the Ad Hoc Committee on Nursing Education of the University so the future direction of these programs at Jefferson can be properly planned.

As the School of Practical Nursing enters its fifteenth year with another full class of students, it would be desirable to be able to offer the graduates of that class and future classes a career ladder program of advancement at Thomas Jefferson University.

Present for this momentous occasion were: President Bluemle, and the following Alumni members: Margaret Summers, President, Perma E. Davis, incoming President in September 1978, Betty Pieris, Recording Secretary, and Martha E. Riland, Clerk-Typist; also George M. Norwood, Jr., Vice-President for Planning and Development, Thomas Jefferson University, and George V. King, Director of Development, Thomas Jefferson University.

It is with gratitude and appreciation that we thank each one of you for making this dream of five years ago become a reality.

MARGARET SUMMERS
President

COMMITTEE REPORTS

THE BULLETIN
In 1973 our alumnae association pledged $100,000.00 to the Sesquicentennial Campaign. On July 11, 1978 the balance of this pledge was presented to the President of Thomas Jefferson University, Lewis W. Bluemle, Jr., M.D. Five recognition plaques have been placed at different locations in the new hospital. Each of us should be proud of our contribution to The New Jefferson Hospital/Clinical Teaching Facility.

We wish to thank Dr. Bluemle for his article entitled "Jefferson — Past, Present, and Future". Miss Doris E. Bowman, who busily keeps us well informed about the School of Nursing, Miss Mabel Prevost and Miss Bowman attended the A.N.A. Convention held in Hawaii — their report is very interesting.

COMMUNITY CENTER

I am sure all alumni join us in thanking our President, Miss Margaret Summers, for serving our association so efficiently during the past six years. She has written an article for this issue of "The Bulletin" giving us detailed data regarding our Nurses' Alumnae Diploma Program as events have taken place chronologically since 1981.

We wish to extend a cordial welcome to Mrs. Perma Davis, the incoming President of our alumni association. During 1978-79 lets make it our aim to increase attendance at our meetings and cooperate with her — sharing responsibilities as best we can.

CLERK-TYPIST REPORT

As the Pennsylvania Dutch would say, this has been a "good and busy" year in the Alumni Office. Our mailing list has grown to 2,860 — this is possible because of the excellent cooperation of the graduates in sending new addresses and married names promptly to the Alumni Office. Please keep up the good work as we do not want to "lose" any one.

It is important that our mailing list be kept accurate and up-dated at all times, since this assures all graduates that they will receive news of activities and changes at the University as they occur.

We are still trying to complete our collection of Commencement Exercises and/or Programs. We have started a special portfolio for them in the Alumni Office. If anyone has a missing program and would like to give it to the special collection, it will be greatly appreciated; or, if you want it returned, we will make a copy and return the original to you. The missing years are: 1944, 1946, 1948, 1949, 1952, 1954, 1956 and 1958.

The portraits of Clara M. Melville, Directress of Nurses from 1915 till 1937, now occupies a prominent position in the Alumni Office.

At the Alumni Meeting in May of 1978 it was unanimously accepted that the name Alumnae be officially changed to Alumni; however, we will continue to use our current supply of stationery. I hope this will not confuse you too much.

I am in the Alumni Office on Tuesday of each week from 10 A.M. to 4 P.M. The Office is located on the Mezzanine Floor, Jefferson Alumni Hall, 1200 Locust Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19107 — Room M-2. The telephone number is 928-8981.

A.N.A. CONVENTION REPORT

Honolulu, Hawaii, is an ideal spot for vacation, home, and convention. More than six thousand nurses descend­ed upon this island, to attend the American Nurses’ Associa­tion Convention, June 9-14, 1978.

One could see nurses, many identified with the yellow plastic carryall bags or badges, trudging along the streets of Waikiki seeking the hotels where the meetings were held.

The A.N.A.’s 65th biennial convention opened on Friday evening at the Neal S. Blaisdell Convention Center. This was a gala opening with ceremonies bright with color, and island songs and dances. As the Convention News de­scribed it, it was a night of “firsts” — A.N.A.’s first con­vention held off the mainland, the first opening program to focus primarily on honoring its own, the winners of the A.N.A.’s awards, an Indian male nurse, James Hudson, received the Association’s highest honor, the Honorary Membership Award.

Friendly greetings from Hawaiian dignitaries representing Senator Daniel Inouye, Governor George Anyoshi, A.N.A. President, Anne Zimmerman, and Hawaiian Nurs­es’ Association President, Jean Barry, were received en­thusiastically.

The colorful procession of the Aloha Week Royal Court preceded the traditional entrance of A.N.A. Signatures. The rhythmic chanting and the pageantry included many songs by the Honolulu Boys’ Choir and featured accomplish­ments of the Hawaiian queens over a 200-year period.

These opening exercises were an impressive intro­duction to our sojourn in Honolulu. Gloria Corzen, one of our first black students, came up to speak with us. She is on the faculty at Seton College. Later, we learned from one of her friends that she is assistant dean, and soon will have her doctorate.

The Convention program was difficult to follow and we were not alone in our criticism of the program and the confusion attendant to what appeared to be poor planning of the meetings. The meetings were scheduled among the many hotels in Waikiki, most in rooms too small for the crowd. Meeting rooms were changed overnight without, except in one instance, any advance notice. Consequently there was much traffic along Waikiki. We learned early that the best way was to procure a taxi, and traveled in style via Cadillac and other spotless late-model cars from meeting to meeting, sometimes beating the traffic which went on foot. All taxis are privately owned, which accounted for the luxury and the cleanliness of the cars.

Prior to the Convention, the A.N.A.’s Council of State Boards, Inc. Membership will be open to any board of nursing who uses licensing examinations for RNs and LPNs developed by the Council, and abide by the security measures. At a forum convened on Saturday at the Convention, several A.N.A. delegates disagreed with the decision to establish a new Council, saying that the reason given — the possibility of conflict of interest for possible domination of governmental agencies by private, professional associations was an inadequate explanation for the step that has been taken.

The Convention program could be categorized into two major segments, the clinical aspects of practice and major factors influencing health care of the future, and changes in health care of which nursing should be cognizant.

In an early session, the program, “The Nurses, the Consumer, and the Practice Environment,” encompassed the process of aging and its implications for change in nursing concepts and practice.

Dr. Walter M. Beattie, Director and Professor, All-University Gerontology Center, Syracuse University in New York, reviewed the aging process, the increased growth of people over 65, and identified the 21st century as the “century of the aged.” He mentioned some of the factors in relation to this change in population that will have an impact on both service and education and pointed out that the aging process is oftentimes confused with the disease process and that preventive models for the developmental crises of older age need to be developed.

He stated that the most rapidly growing segment of our population is those over eighty years. The human development process is changing, creating a major revolution in thinking. We must, therefore, rethink the goals of service delivery and education. The aging concept of maturity is maturation and growth with some aspects of decline. In the biological process there is a decline of assets but also a wide dispersion of assets.

Order people today have lived through experiences not known today. We fail to look at the ways people compensate for the “loss syndrome” and most of aging is due to losses — physical, psychological, and social.

How do nurses help people to live from loss to renewed growth? Aging in normal life spanning and should be separated from the disease deficit and dysfunction. We must change the model with emphasis on the capacity of the individual, private function and not how the body breaks down. We should change the environmental approach with no barriers to participation for older people. Physiologically, older people are more competent than in former years.

Factors suggested for consideration in the develop­mental crises include a change from the two- to three­generation family to the four- to five-generation family, changes in environmental setting (housing for the elderly); emergence of youth and stages of youth; loss of work role; income loss; loss of child-rearing role ("empty nest"); loss of house, parents, siblings; and dealing with death and dying.

A reaction panel consisted of Dolora Cotter, R.N., Administrative Associate Director, Denver Visiting Nurse Service; Margaret J. Stafford, R.N., Clinical Specialist, Hines Junior Veterans Administration Hospital, Hines, Illinois, and member, Executive Committee, ANA Division on Medical-Surgical Nursing Practice; and Sally Buseck, Dr.P.H., R.N., Chairperson, Graduate Division, Edinboro State College, Edinboro, Pennsylvania, and Secretary, Executive Committee, ANA Division on Gerontological Nursing Practice. Mrs. Cotter described several examples of dealing with life situations at various stages. Margaret Stafford and Sally Buseck stressed the need to listen to patients, find out what is going on, not only physically but socially and psychologically, and had two major recommendations: 1) nursing service needs to be more selective in staffing, 2) nursing education must prepare students more broadly to deal with patients not only in illness but in the total needs — need to include more about behavior and behavioral relationships.

Harriet Werley, Jefferson School of Nursing, Class of 1941, appeared on two programs, one as moderator for "New Developments in Knowledge for Nursing Practice in the 70's", and the other as moderator of the program on "The Three Faces of Teaching Research: Content, Strategies, Issues."

In the former session, five speakers outlined research suggestions as to how to accept pain, rehabilitate patients after myocardial infarction, improve the care of premature infants, correct problems related to tube feeding, and carry out patient education.

To improve the assessment of pain, Dr. Jacox, Professor of Nursing, University of Colorado, recommended that nurses go beyond asking patients if they are in pain. They should use other terminology, remembering that pain is a subjective phenomenon and can be reported as pain, painful, discomfort, pain acute and sharp — there is less information about pain in children.

It was suggested that line drawings asking children to color painful areas might elicit more information. There are few descriptions of pain in the literature. A nurse must use care in questioning a patient concerning pain and examine her own attitude to pain. She must be empathetic.

Discussing the care of premature infants, Kathryn E. Barnard, Professor of Nursing, University of Washington, told participants about the results of a study indicating that a regular pattern of stimuli benefits premature infants.

Another major focus of the convention was the credentialing system for nursing and plans for it's systematic implementation. In her report as Chairperson of the Credentialing Study Committee, Margaret Styles clarified several often confused terms — accreditation, certification, licensure, registration and credentialing service. She stated that credentialing is the overall term that embraces all of these terms. The final report of the project, including the committee's recommendation for implementing a credentialing system, will be published in February 1979.

Certification programs are planned to validate quality performance. Currently, certification programs are available from ANA for Adult and Family Nurse Practitioners, Pediatric Nurse Practitioners, Gerontological Nursing, Medical-Surgical Nursing and many others. Concern was voiced at one of the meetings at the large numbers of failures in earlier tests. For example, in gerontological nursing, of 246 tested, only 143 were certified, bringing the total of all certified to 271.

Throughout the convention, the House of Delegates deliberated many long hours over more than fifty resolutions. The most controversial dealt with entry into nursing practice, the present and future structure of the association, and the enactment of civil rights laws providing the same protection to persons regardless of sexual and affectional preference.

At the Pennsylvania Nurses' Association caucus, concerns were discussed in relation to the preliminary hearings on the resolutions relating to the entry into practice resolutions (#56, #57 and #58) and several recommendations for additions/deletions were made. At a conference held the preceding day, considerable discussion had occurred in relation to these resolutions and Louren Fisher, Task Force Chairperson, told the audience that the three resolutions are "based on a series of logical steps for continuing development of a pattern of implementation" of ANA's 1965 Position Paper on Educational Preparation for Nursing Practice. Following a discussion on the resolution relating to the identity of competencies at the different levels, the Executive Director of the National League for Nursing commented that NLN has developed statements on the competencies of all types of nurses graduated from basic programs but the baccalaureate-prepared Nurse.

Despite considerable opposition, Resolutions #56, #57 and #58 were finally adopted at the last meeting of the House of Delegates. The National Guidelines for implementation are to be identified and reported back to the membership at the 1980 ANA convention, including comprehensive statements of competencies for the two categories of nurses to be identified (#56 and #57). Resolution #58 urges ANA to support increased access to high quality mobility programs.

To provide for the majority of nurses at the preferred level, the delegates adopted a motion and ANA fully supports the concept of "grandfathering" in those nurses not possessing full qualifications by 1985. Implementation will be left to the State Nurses' Associations.

The passing of these resolutions will have many ramifications for every practicing nurse in this country, as well as for the health care of individuals, and we all need to become more aware of activities and legislation affecting health care on the national, state and local levels and use appropriate channels of communication in expressing our concern and in making recommendations. Political and Assertiveness are the names of the game!
THE LIBERATION OF A POW
Madeline Ullom (Retired Lt. Col.), Class of '38, Remembers Her Internment in a Japanese Prison Camp in the Philippines

Santo Tomas University was used as a prison compound by the Japanese in World War II for 3700 American, Australian and Allied prisoners. The residents of Santo Tomas referred to the prisoners as internees, since they were civilians. Their internment began in May 1942 when General Douglas MacArthur left the Philippines and General Jonathan Wainwright surrendered Corregidor. Col. Ullom had been stationed at Stelberg General Hospital in Manila. Manila was Headquarters of the Philippine Dept. of U.S. Army.

During the first and second years of imprisonment, the internees made toys for the children (600 under the age of 16 years) from scrap of material. By the third year material was extremely limited and so was everything else.

On Sept. 21, 1944, tremendous flights of American planes were over the area almost all day. They surprised the Japanese. Air raid signals in Manila and at Camp sounded several minutes after the flights. They knew from the short intervals of flights that tremendous assistance was coming. After the southern islands were taken, rations were cut and cut — another nurse and Col. Ullom waited in line for several hours to sign up for a garden plot where they grew mango beans from three seeds that an internee had given her, also okra, camates (something like sweet potatoes), and a few other foods.

On December 25, 1944, the prisoners knew that a plane had flown over the prison compound about 4:00 A.M. Since the prisoners were locked in their buildings until 6:00 A.M., they found several leaflets when they were allowed out of doors. The leaflets read: "Santa Claus is here!" Pencil copies were made and passed around, however, the message spread rapidly by word of mouth.

The February liberation of Santo Tomas internment camp was led by General William Chase and the U.S. Army's First Calvary Armored Unit.

Last October Col. Ullom returned to the Philippines with South West Pacific Area General Headquarters and Commanders Group. The General Douglas MacArthur Memorial at Leyte was dedicated "I Shall Return" on October 20th. Hortense McKay and Madeline Ullom were privileged to lay the Wreath at the huge and beautiful Memorial to the Defenders of Bataan and Corregidor in Manila, and also at the dedication of the plaque at Mount Samat for the 21st Bombardment Group.

Col. Ullom recently returned from St. Louis where she attended the Annual Convention of American Defenders of Bataan and Corregidor.
