The President's Message

Dear Fellow Alumni,

It does not seem possible that this is the third time I have put pen to paper to write a message to the membership of the School of Nursing Alumni Association. So much has happened in such a short three years, it would seem appropriate to recap some of the changes that have occurred.

Perhaps the most gratifying is the increased attendance at the Annual Meeting before the luncheon. It is here that the membership has the opportunity to hear, first hand, what has been done for the members. They have the opportunity to ask questions, to clarify the work which is reported by committee chairpersons, and to propose other activities which could result in improvements to the total membership.

Although Jefferson University subsidizes our office by providing space, postage, telephone, printing, and etc. It is our dues and annual giving which keeps us solvent. Yes, we are a wealthy organization when you look at the Relief Fund and Scholarship Fund monies, but, and that is a big BUT, those monies are restricted and can be used only for the purposes for which they are designated. So, the increase in paid membership in the past three years has helped us maintain our independence as an organization. We have a workable budget which you will find in the Treasurer's Report.

The Scholarship Fund was studied to see how we could benefit the greatest number of Alumni, and it was suggested that children, grandchildren, and nieces and nephews, should be able to utilize the money for nursing education. This past year the first of that level of aid was given.

The Relief Fund is more difficult to dispense. We really need to keep an eye out for our classmates and alumni sisters, and a few brothers. Many are reluctant to admit that they could use assistance. But even a small amount could help over a little hump and we would like to help. We are Nurses! So, if you know someone who has been having a hard time making ends meet, let the Relief Committee know.

The Satellite Committee has worked hard to help get groups started, but it takes someone at the location to do the work. As with any activity, it does take work. “The spirit is willing but the flesh is weak.” The main problems to be overcome are: a meeting place and time, and what you want to accomplish. The Officers and Board in Philadelphia are eager to have suggestions from the membership which can be incorporated into the organization and view the satellite groups as a means to learn of the needs of the members.

The By-Laws committee has reviewed the By-Laws and several amendments were approved by the membership at the Annual Meeting.

As you can see, these past three years have been busy ones. We are still in need of more people to help run the organization. We know that you who come back every five years for reunions have been renewing friendships and comparing notes on families, but your help is needed to make your day even better.

No longer is the hospital staffed with organly capped “pink and white” nurses. Many of our graduates have gone away to demonstrate the excellent education in nursing they got at Jefferson. Many graduates have small or teenage children and have problems getting free; but it can be done. Under discussion is a change of meeting times and number of meetings each year. A consensus has not been reached, so discussion goes on. As we hear from more of the membership changes are bound to evolve.

I have enjoyed my three years as President. It has been challenging and stimulating, and I feel progress has been made, and I look forward to further developments as our needs as an organization change.

Respectfully,
ALICE C. BOEHRETT, RN, EdD
President

History of the School of Nursing of The Jefferson Medical College Hospital

In the middle of the 18th century a small private school under the auspices of St. Mary's Church was founded in Canonsburg, Washington County, Pennsylvania. This became in 1794 the first chartered Academy, west of the Allegheny Mountains. It was founded as Jefferson College in 1802, and on February 2, 1870 united with the Washington College and became known as the Washington and Jefferson College.

Dr. George McClellan, desirous of teaching medicine in Philadelphia, enthusiastically supported by Dr. John Eberly, Dr. Joseph Klopp and Jacob Green, was invited to the Jefferson College at Canonsburg, Pennsylvania, for the establishment of a medical department. The plan was accepted in 1825 and in 1826 Jefferson Medical College was incorporated as the Medical Department of Jefferson College with the power of granting degrees.

The first course of Medical Lectures was delivered May 9, 1825, and the first operation was performed by Dr. George McClellan in the old Tivoli Theatre, 518 Locust Street.

In order to impart medical knowledge, and to demonstrate to students, it was necessary to have an infirmary where such bedside knowledge could be obtained; consequently the College organized what was called a "Teaching Infirmary" consisting of a clinical room for operations and lectures, one for general dispensary work, and two rooms, one for men and one for women and children, with about six beds in each room.

All patients, after operation, unless the operation was a serious one, were sent to their homes in carriages, where they were attended by the Clinical Assistant. In 1843, as a training for patients, a provision was made for twenty bed patients, and not until 1877 did the Jefferson Hospital have a home of its own, accommodating one hundred and twenty-five patients, located at 1000 Sansom Street.

In the earlier days there was no science of Bacteriology or attempt at surgical cleanliness, and no course of scientific training in male or female nursing.

The nursing care of patients was assigned to women, many of whom were not pleasing. Most of the male nurses had an unfortunate predilection for alcoholic liquors. The directions of physicians were often misunderstood because of ignorance, few nurses having even the slightest knowledge of drugs, symptoms and signs of hemorrhage, or any other dangers. There was no real sense of responsibility, no comprehension of the dignity of the nurse's responsibility and little realization of the needs of humanity.

Patients were burned with over-hot poultices. Male patients, at times, lay for hours with retention of urine, this being unaware of the significance of restlessness, rapid pulse, etc. In head injuries it was seldom realized that coma was not sleep, and is different from sleep. The pulse was taken, but nothing was known of the significance of rapidity, weakening, tension, irregularity, etc. The presence of three signs, if understood, would have led to calling the physician. It was always necessary to obtain a Clinical Assistant to sit by the patient's bedside during his or her emergence from ether in order to be certain that the patient was turned over properly during the attacks of vomiting. A number of unconscious or paralysed patients were burned with hot water bags and hot cans because of carelessness. It was extremely difficult in cases of spinal injury to have proper care of the skin, care imperatively necessary to prevent bed sores. The dressing of bed sores, unless done by the intern, was seldom carried out with care and regularity.

The nurse was not permitted to prepare or handle the instruments or the gauze dressings during surgical operations.

When the change to professional nursing began in the Jefferson Medical College Hospital in 1891, it was in a small way; only a few student nurses were entered on probation into the Training School under the Chief Nurse, Miss Ellis Benson. Many of the old type nurses were retained for a time. The old time physicians and the modern physician disagreed and quarreled. In spite of the modest beginning there were members of the medical staff who opposed the entire movement and regarded it as the first step on the road to chaos and destruction. It was considered by them a new fangled notion fraught with infinite possibilities of evil, an unbridled assumption of power, and was considered by them a new departure.

In the first Nurses' Home was located at 518 Spruce Street. In 1893 negotiations were made to move the Nurses' Home from 519 Spruce Street to 226 South Seventh Street. In 1894 negotiations were made to move the Nurses' Home from 519 Spruce Street to 226 South Seventh Street, and in the Spring of 1895 this building was occupied as a Nurses' Home.

The Diet Kitchen of the Hospital, where special diets could be prepared by nurses for the patients, was opened in October, 1897, and Miss Ann Bailey was employed as the teacher of the "Theory and Practice of Cooking". The sterilizing room of the Hospital was opened in October.
Through her efforts she did much toward the upbuilding of the Nurse's Training School at the Jefferson Medical College. By the war's future success, Miss L. M. L. Laughlin, a graduate of the Training School of the Jefferson Medical College Hospital and chief nurse in the operated unit of the hospital sur-grounded by the name of the institution. Those pins were first presented to the graduating class by Dr. W. M. L. Coplin, as the personal gift of the Board of Trustees of the Hospital and each graduate nurse has received the pin since its establishment.

In October 1910, the department for Diseases of the Eye was opened by the direction of Dr. Edna Smith, under the direction of the Service of Ophthalmology. The first effort was to increase the enrollment of the training school which had been opened in the old hospital building.

The enrollment of the training school was increased in number from fifty to ninety student nurses.

After the increase in the number of nurses the Hospital found itself again inadequate to accommodate the student body and efforts were made to adjust this condition. On August 22, 1913, the rededication of the new hospital building was accomplished and the Student Nurse's House was opened.

The study of the student nurses was increased to one hundred and twenty-five. The probationary period was changed from September 7 to September 1, 1917, when the second floor of the hospital building, as the wards were then not completed for the admission of patients.

In the spring of 1919 a school of radiography was added to the training school.

In August 1918, Miss Clara M. Melville, Director of the Training School, was appointed director of the school for nurses.

Through the continued good health of the student nurses, the work of the training school was conducted.

In 1920, the training school was enlarged to accommodate the hospital, and a new building was constructed.

In 1925, the school was moved to its present location on the campus of the Jefferson Medical College.

The nurses immediately reported for duty on the wards, assumed charge of the rooms, the dietitian taking charge of the kitchen, the civilian employees in the office, and the necessary adjustment made to the new surroundings.

At this time the weather was quite warm, the enemy using deadly gases, with much bombing and shelling. Consen­cuently the work was hectic and tiring. The work was accomplished by the nurses during long hours of duty, with unending devotion, always trying to make the terrible suffering less burdensome. This excellent work continued until the Armistice was signed November 11, 1918.

With the Armistice, the Americans felt their work was completed and one endeavor was to return to the United States. Dissatisfaction arose because real work had ceased and the vast majority were awaiting orders to return home. To adjust conditions, orders were issued to recall, detach and evacuate as rapidly as conditions and facts warranted. This orderly, efficient work was returned to Base; the sick and wounded who were able to travel, were transported rapidly to army hospitals in the United States. In March 1919, nurses were received for Base Hospital No. 38 to be prepared to return to the United States.

Thirty-eight nurses left the Grand Bateau, Nantes, France, and proceeded to LeBoule, France, remaining there about two weeks. They proceeded to Brest, France, and on the following morning embarked on the S.S. Harrisburg. After a rough voyage of ten days they landed in Hoboken, N.J., March 19, 1919. The nurses were stationed in New York for about three days, and then were honorably discharged from the Army and returned to their respective homes.

During the absence of Clara Melville, Nora E. Shoemaker was elected Acting Directress of the School and is stated to have been noble and un­faltering in her efforts. Her utmost was accomplished amid hard and strenuous conditions. The terrible ravages of the influenza epidemic, which had already claimed the death of many of the student nurses. Many of the nurses were off duty each day by reason of illness. It was almost impossible to secure adequate nurse care for the patients. The epidemic was placing the entire country in a general chaotic condition.

Upon the return to the United States of those engaged in military service, Miss Melville again assumed her former position as Directress of the Training School. Miss Shoemaker, Acting Directress of Nurses, had meanwhile reported to the Red Cross to do relief work in Siberia. Upon Miss Melville's return, Miss Shoemaker resigned and proceeded to France to assume duties as Directress of the School.

So many changes had taken place during the period of the war that considerable readjustment was necessary to return to normal conditions. This required much time and energy and a clearer vision than ever before to cope with and meet the existing situation. A feeling of unrest and dissatisfaction prevailed on every side and the reason offered was "Owing to the war the country can expect nothing other than prevailing conditions. Finally, more normal conditions prevailed; people again assuming the former responsibilities.

Business had taken on new aspects, and living conditions had changed. In place of hosieis, as formerly, apartments were in demand, and as a result hospitals in times of illness were in greater demand. More beds for ward patients, and an additional number of rooms for private patients were required. This problem of readjustment was met by designating the number of students in the Training School of Nurses, and in the Fall of 1919, another building was provided for the School.

In October, 1919, the office of the Director of the School was transferred to Clinton and Sansom Streets, formerly the home of the hospital building of Jefferson and Woodruff. Miss Emma P. Gillespie, formerly sixth floor nurse of the School, was elected supervisor of the teaching of undergraduate nurses. The School of Nursing was settled in a twenty-five room apartment house at 228 South Seventh Street, with a seating capacity of one hundred and seventy-five, a motion picture room, a small library, a private hospital, consisting of two rooms, and five ward rooms.

The Clinical Amphitheater of the School was opened for operative clinics to medical students during March of 1925 with Miss Nora E. Smith, a graduate of Jefferson, as chief clinician.

The formal opening exercises of the Samuel Gustine Thompson Annex was held in the Clinical Amphitheater of the School on October 30, 1924. The private floors of this new building were ready to receive patients on this date, with Miss Sarah J. Martin, a graduate of Jefferson, continuing as nurse-in-charge.

Following the commencement exercises of the School of Nursing on May 14, 1925, the nurses were invited to inspect the first section of the proposed new nurses' residence. Plans were drawn by Stone and Webster Company. Jefferson, along with the people of Philadelphia, was in great need of a convalescent home for men where such care could be provided in keeping with the financial ability of the patient. Miss Emma Gillespie, who had been appointed to the Jefferson Hospital for this purpose a tract of land and a house, to be known as "Ivycroft," located at 224 South Spruce Street was provided by the University. In November 1930. Early in the history of the School of Nursing, in order to further promote interest, awards were made to nurses for excellence in their work. Because much dissatisfaction arose over the prestige of these awards, the award of prizes was discontinued.

In May 1931, Mrs. Joseph Walker Wear in memory of her father, the late Hon. William Potter, a former President of the Board of Trustees of Jefferson Medical College for more than thirty-five years, established an award consisting of twenty-five dollars and a specially designed gold medal, bearing the head of Thomas Jefferson, to the member of the graduating class attending the School of Nursing who had shown the greatest scholastic attainments. This award is presented each year and is known as the William Potter Memorial Prize.

To continue to provide care for all dis­ servant ambulatory patients, the out-patient department hav­ing outgrown the space allotted to it in the General Hospital building. In this building three floors have been set aside to be used as classrooms for student nurses of the training school. In September 1925, these rooms were ready for occu­ pancy. On the twelfth floor is the assembly room, having a seating capacity of one hundred and seventy-five, a motion picture room, a large office, and private dressing rooms and cabinets. The lighting arrangement is excellent, the day­ light is seldom so dull as to require artificial lighting. Seats are arranged in a semicircular manner before the front of the room very clear. An Anatomy and Physiology Laboratory is provided with excellent equipment in the way of models, charts, a speaking fox and a large collection of animal and vegetable subjects.

The School is provided with a demonstration room containing beds, bedside tables, Chase doll and infant, blackboards, screens for motion pictures, a model bathroom for practice in a laboratory fashion. The School is fitted with various forms of treatment and also the linen necessary for the demonstrations. There is a closet containing a supply of rubber goods and other surgical supplies to teach the stu­ dents the necessary care required in the preservation of such supplies. Folding doors between classrooms and demonstra­ tion rooms can be closed to provide a classroom only, or opened into one large demonstration room for instruction in the Principles and Practice of Nursing.

A splendid and well-equipped laboratory used for teach­ing chemistry and bacteriology is on the eleventh floor. Micro­ scopes are kept in specially provided closets for safety. Tables for microscopes, for each student, blackboards, desks for instructor, steriliz­ the Lucas and area were the facilities found in the well-lighted laboratory. Another class is offered on the tenth floor and is used for the theoretical and practical teaching of the Matera Medical classes divided into sections. The equipment consists of a double blackboard, screen for motion pictures, and two large closets for the storage of drugs and supplies. Adjacent to this room is a clinical laboratory equipped with a combination desk and table with wash attached, a sink with hot and cold running water, two gas traps and a complete set of cooking utensils for each of twenty students. A colony of four gas ovens serves the entire group. Other equipment consists of a blackboard, desk for instructor, colored nutrition charts, food models, specimens of foods, flavoring agents and other necessary household equipment. The reference library and study room, with the instructor's office adjoining, is also located on the tenth floor. This office is equipped with desks, typewriters, filing cabinets, bulletin board, mineograph machine and all facilities required for a well-regulated office. The reference library and study room has been a great source of information for the students, in that there are found many books containing valuable information on the various subjects pertaining to nursing. Comfortable chairs and tables have been provided. A large magazine stand contains all the latest medical and professional journals. Smaller cases are used to store magazines and periodicals to be kept in readiness to be bound and preserved for future use. A bulletin board class contains schedules and other important notices. The needs of the student are amply provided for. There is a large closest with deep shelves where she can deposit her wraps, coats, and uniforms during classes. Lavatories on the tenth and eleventh floors and drinking fountains on the tenth, eleventh and twelfth floors are provided.

The classrooms are splendidly located and have good ventilation, sunshine and ample lighting facilities. Artificial lighting is required only on an exceptional day or in the very short winter season. Through the interest of Dr. Ross V. Patterson, Dean of the Jefferson Medical College, the School was made possible for the School of Nursing to have excellent modernized teaching facilities and equipment.

With the changes in the trend of nursing education, and the employment of an additional number of the graduate nurses as full or part time instructors, a serious problem had to be met. In the Fall of 1931 the small remuneration allotted to each student per month was discontinued and the sum used to defray the expenses of the graduate nurses to supplement the student having charge of the wards; relieving the student of the responsibility of the ward and assuring her of the opportunity to attend classes. In the Fall of 1933, a tea was served in the Nurses' Home, 1010 Spruce Street, in the afternoon when most of the alumnae assembled and remitted them. The reunion was concluded by a reception and dance, held in the assembly hall of the Jefferson Medical College. Many of the older graduates responded, and everyone enjoyed a thorough evening. It was proposed at this time that an annual reunion could be made an annual event of the commencement each year.
lege professors in the basic sciences would teach the incoming class. Although these professors were reluctant to teach high level science courses, they agreed to help until a nurse instructor was employed. After teaching Anatomy, Physiology and Microbiology for a short time, all of the professors continued to concentrate on teaching. They became strong supporters of the School of Nursing, participating in Faculty Meetings and in other activities of the Board to keep the School of Nursing and Pharmacy there was no objection, and two more College professors joined the Faculty. The professors joining the Board in 1953 was an indication of their willingness to recertify for NNL accreditation.

The issue of NNL accreditation of the School was discussed in detail at the entire Faculty and it was unanimously agreed that an application for a review of the program be submitted. All believed that the weaknesses of the program would negate approval and cited poor housing facilities, too few well prepared faculty members and the use of student personnel service beyond the needs of the educational program.

Dr. Harrick was acquainted with the faculty evaluation and his submission as was refused accreditation of the Board of Trustees would not believe that Jefferson's School was not among the best in the nation. He invited the Director to attend the next meeting of the Board.

After discussing the educational program, its strengths and weaknesses with the Trustees, Miss Prevost and Dr. Harrick invited the members on a tour of the student's facilities. A second floor, it was expanded to accommodate all the students and the School of Nursing was revisited and further changes were recommended while commending the Faculty for changes already made.

Miss Prevost and Miss Bowman were asked to visit NNL headquarters in New York, Admiral Kaufman, President of Jefferson, asked Dr. Browneller to interrupt his vacation in Florida and to attend the meeting. After another in-depth discussion of Jefferson's representatives and the NNL Board, a return visit was scheduled.

The NNL recommendation for further changes in the educational program was accepted among faculty members and several changes were made. In late 1959 the Administration received word that the program at Jefferson was approved and Jefferson was named as a NNL accredited program for a period of six years — the maximum time period in 1959. Jefferson's School of Nursing Program was on the NNL list.

Dr. Browneller made administrative changes in the Nursing Department of Nursing and Nursing Service to the position of Assistant Hospital Director. Miss Doris Bowman was elected to the position of Assistant Hospital Director. Miss Doris Bowman was elected to the position of Assistant Hospital Director.

Miss Doris Bowman was elected to the position of Assistant Hospital Director. Miss Prevost was therefore administratively responsible for the School of Nursing and continuing to 1969. 80% of the staff was employed.

The School of Nursing was reorganized in 1955. The first survey of the school was conducted in 1955. The school was then placed on the list for NNL accreditation. The school was reviewed in depth with the entire College faculty. The concerns of the student were considered. When the time came to teach Chemistry there were no requests for a survey of the program, its strengths and weaknesses. The professors joining the School in 1953 was an indication of their willingness to recertify for NNL accreditation.

Dr. Harrick died in 1957 and his Assistant Director, Dr. Ellsworth B. Browneller was appointed to fill his position by the Board of Trustees. Dr. Browneller was the first administrator to have formal, postgraduate training in Medical Administration. He supported the efforts of the Administration and Faculty to obtain National Accreditation for the School of Nursing and started to make changes in the School prior to applying for accreditation by the Joint Committee on Hospital Accreditation.

THE FUTURE OF NURSING

When the decision was made by each of you to enter nursing, it was fundamentally activated by a desire for service. This desire must continue after graduation, if you are to succeed. In the future, as never before, will the opportunity for nurses to fulfill this desire for service be ever present. Each graduating class will have certain duties and obligations to the nursing profession and the public. This class graduating as it does at a time when turmoil in the entire world is considered to be enormous, will obviously have an obligation.

Your profession is in a stage of transition. Graduate nurses are in great demand as the armed forces and for civilian duty. Many changes are being instituted to cope with this demand. It will be your responsibility to see that these changes are made so that your profession maintains its high standards. The demand for nursing service has been so great that volunteers have been recruited to help care for the sick. Do not believe the time to stay, whether as volunteers or as paid help. The supervision and education of these aides will be your duty.

Your education has been general in this special field for women. The general training you have received in the nursing school is necessary. There are some who feel there is too much theory; however, the theoretical and the practical must go together to form a well-rounded course. The training course serves as a basis for further study, just as a medical course serves as a basis for further study, just as medical college is a basic course for further study for the physician. It is now time to begin specialized training that will fit you for greater things to come.

I believe the nursing profession will sooner or later be a group of nursing specialists. You will all have eight-hour duty and group nursing. This is bound to come. It will be up to you now to decide how these changes are to be effected. The old idea of a more or less continuous duty and every nurse being called to any patient will be a thing of the past. Specialized nursing calls for higher salary, but this should also mean continuous group nursing and further education of the nurse. Your salaries should be commensurate with a high standard of living and be governed in some way by your qualifications. Those of you who prefer will be supervisors and educators.

No doubt of what you will sooner or later be married, but with eight-hour duty and group nursing, married nurses can have a greater opportunity to continue with their profession.

You have great opportunities for placing your acts ideally on the nursing profession and I wish you luck.

Nursing Education at Jefferson

"A Century of Excellence"

In March of 1990, Dr. Pamela Watson, Chairman of the Department of Nursing Education convened a meeting to plan for the one hundredth anniversary of Nursing Education at Jefferson. Honorary Chairman for the Committee were Chancellor Bela C. Poster, Dean of Allied Health, and Mary McGinley, Associate Executive Director/Director of Nursing.

The responsibilities for chairing the committee was shared by the following faculty from the College of Allied Health and a nurse representative from the hospital. The total committee was comprised of sixteen members of which two were non-nurses. Five were faculty members of the College of Allied Health, Dr. Lawrence Abrams. At the entrance to the dining room were arches of Red Roses, which were traditional at the School of Nursing Graduations.

At each place at dinner was a commemorative booklet giving a brief resume of the History of Nursing Education at Jefferson, and a few notes about the accomplishments of graduates. Dinner was excellent and it was followed by dancing and general visiting with friends and classmates who were in attendance.

SCHOOL HEALTH— 20 YEARS AGO— TODAY

Twenty years ago when our youngest son started school, I started school too. No, I wasn’t the biggest “kid” in sixth grade, I was the smallest. Asiatic Fever had taken the attention of the Jennifers in 1944.

Twenty years ago I’m sure our friends were taking “dibs” whether or not our marriage would survive, because back then few mothers of young children worked outside the home — today, probably the majority do — not by choice, but because they have to maintain a certain standard of living.

Twenty years ago day care centers, or nursery schools as they were called then were often a status symbol. Today they are a necessity.

Twenty years ago “seems like yesterday” (I remember people my age saying the same thing back then), but it’s not. I’ve lived long enough to see patterns and changes and I’m old enough now that I’ve developed some pretty strong opinions about our children’s lives and their future.

Twenty years ago sick children were kept home with mom. Today many are sent to school because no one is home to take care of them, so the nurse tries to make the students comfortable at school so parents won’t have to leave work early — with the economic hardships forecast for the future we’ll see even more truly sick children coming to school. Hard times have already hit our county. One family has a father and mother both layed off from local employers.

Twenty years ago it was easy for the school nurse to recognize sick children. They appeared flushed, had a runny nose, looked “blary-eyed”, and had a high fever.

Today we see truly sick children with vague viral symptoms. At the last minute, the conference was called in, who look perfectly fine and have no elevated temperature.

Twenty years ago when a child came to the health office with a bloody nose the nurse took some tissues and applied pressure. Now we’re told to put rubber gloves on first as a precautionary measure due to the onset of AIDS!

Twenty years ago we saw children with teeth that were in bad condition. Toothaches and abscesses were one of the most common complaints in the health office.

Today we see a child with a toothache. Thanks to the “freebies” given to school children by toothpaste manufacturers and the health education done by the teachers and other health personnel, the dental hygiene program is much better than it was twenty years ago.

“green teeth” are a thing of the past. Cumberland County also has the use of the mobile dental office where all our children can receive totally free care during school time.

Now one of the most common complaints of young children are earaches. Thank Goodness for audiometers and otoscopes for school nurses can pick up the problem right away and send the children off to the family doctor for immediate care.

We have much cleaner toilets now and hope that our early diagnoses are helping reduce the number of tubes inserted into the school age child.

Otoscopes for school nurses can pick up the problem right away as you can hear some children with tubes inserted into the school age child.

Today, rarely do we see a child with a toothache. Thanks to the “freebies” given to all children by toothpaste manufacturers and the health education done by the teachers and other health personnel, the dental hygiene program is much better than it was twenty years ago.

The Decade Fund

In 1984 the University launched a project to raise funds for a variety of uses. The Alumni Association was asked to contribute and we did over the next five years. The amount we gave amounted to $45,000.00. The Development Office assigned the money.

Our Board of Directors indicated that the funds be equally divided between the Nursing Service Department and Nursing Research. Dr. Pamela Watson, chairman of the Department of Baccalaureate Nursing, had asked the Alumni Association for scholarship assistance for second career applicants. We received 2,564 GPA (B- or A-) and because she has a family, needs aid. She writes enthusiastically about her personal growth as she moved through the nursing program.

The Nursing Service Department used our contribution as "seed" money for several research projects in the practice of nursing, an area which needs research. We do not know the results of any of these projects as research is a slow process. We hope to be able to give you reports from time to time.

Our contribution has gone to further Nursing which is good.

Alumni Office News

As the saying goes "work goes on", this is so true for the Alumni Office. It is not unusual for us to be in the office more than Tuesday, especially from January through May, which is our busiest time.

Would you believe, over 14,000 pieces of mail goes out from this office each year?

BIRTHDAYS — flowers and/or cards were sent to 27 of our graduates this past year. One recipient was 105 in January and she wrote her own thank you note. If you know of any Jeff graduate 85 or over please send us the following: Name — first, maiden, married. Year of graduation, birthday (month, day, year), social security number and their address.

COMMITMENT TO EXCELLENCE — if you did not receive a copy of this book when the School closed in 1982 and want a copy, no charge, let us know and we will be happy to send you a copy as long as the supply lasts. The book is the history of our school from its beginning in 1891 until the closing in 1982.

CAPS — there is approximately 50 caps remaining in the office, they are for sale at $5.00 each plus $1.00 handling and postage. Sorry, when this supply is gone a Jeff cap will no longer be available, unless you make your own.

MEMORABILIA POSTERS — Jefferson Nursing 1891 — 1991. We will have about 225 Jefferson Nursing Memorabilia (1891-1991) posters which will be for sale at the Annual Luncheon on Saturday, May 2nd, 1992. SORRY, MAIL ORDERS NOT ACCEPTED.

If you plan to stop in the office for a visit, please call first to be sure we are in.

Bulletin Committee

Many thanks to everyone who has contributed in any way to the 1991, "CENTENNIAL EDITION" of the Nurses Alumni Bulletin. We hope everyone sold theirs.

Honestly, we do edit the material carefully, but occasionally a mispelled word or punctuation mark escapes our alert eyes, maybe we try too hard, so please excuse all errors, believe me they are not intentional.

Now that the 1991 bulletin is printed, we are looking for interesting news and articles for the 1992 edition. We are asking for your help, let us be the judge as to whether or not your news or articles are interesting.

Thanks again for all your help.

Betty Piersol
Chairman, Bulletin Committee

Relief Fund

Jefferson Diploma Nurses, do you know we have a "Relief Fund Trust"? The purpose of this trust is to assist the graduates of the School of Nursing (Diploma Program) and the White Havana School of Nursing who are ill, disabled or in need of additional support or maintenance.

The preliminary application found in the back of the bulletin can be sent to the Alumni Association. A second application will be sent to the applicant by the committee. When completed and returned the committee will evaluate the request, and the applicant will be notified as soon as possible. All the information on the application is confidential.

This past year several graduates of the school and their dependents were granted assistance. Four are receiving monthly stipends and three received a one time gift.

The Relief Fund committee also sends monetary gifts at Christmas time to those graduates known to be home bound or in a nursing home. Birthday flowers are sent to our graduates who know we will be celebrating their 85th or birthday.

Satellite Committee

The past year has seen some further progress of the Satellite program, but also some disappointing inactivity in other areas.

The first venture, that of the South New Jersey group was reactivated and we are encouraged and hopeful that this Satellite would gain strength. Although several meetings were scheduled with a program, attendance was poor and it was evident that there was little interest. Demanding positions, with varied time schedules, as well as family responsibilities accounted for most of the problems.

Knowing that a great many of our graduates live in the Willingboro and adjacent areas, we contacted Mrs. Joanne Weiskopf O'Connell, '56 and enlisted her support. Joanne is known for her dedication to nursing and was a most enthusiastic student and young graduate. She did not disappoint us, she has recruited a co-leader, Sandy Segal '66 and they are planning a luncheon or dinner meeting in October or November, hoping for a group of 20-25 alumni members.

The Central Pennsylvania Satellite with Dorothy Ranck, '39 as coordinator and leader continues its successful programs. This group had business and luncheon program meetings — all were accompanied by great camaraderie. At their last meeting held at Pennsylvania Nursing Association Headquarters in Harrisburg, the guest speaker, Marjorie Key, R.N., from the Long Term Care Division Bureau of Quality Assurance, Department of Health, spoke of the role of the nurse in assessing the care and safety of patients in nursing homes and the survey process for licensure of nursing homes.

The Harrisburg Satellite interested in attending an alumni luncheon meeting in Philadelphia, if held either on a weekday or a Saturday.

The Western Pennsylvania Satellite seems to be doing well. Sally Hindson Wagner, '54, coordinator, reported another meeting held in McKeesport. Although the group was small, the participants were interested and had some valuable input to be considered by our Association. These members are interested in planning future meetings this year.

We hope the Scopton-Wilkes-Barre graduates with Gladys Wilson Kitchen, '57 as coordinator will have its initial meeting before the snow flies. The bad weather cancelled their last planned meeting.

Knowing that a number of Jeff graduates live and work in the Jersey Shore area, we are planning to send letters about the Satellite program to them before the end of the summer.

Doris Bowman, '42 is interested in helping to get a Satellite group started in this location and has promised to help.

We know that there are other concentrations of Jeff graduates in other areas throughout the United States, and hope that we can interest other Alumni members in helping to extend the Satellite program concept beyond the State of Pennsylvania.

We would appreciate hearing from you and receiving your thoughts about the program and any ideas you may have for improving and extending it.

Social Committee

On a beautiful May day, to be specific, May 4, 1991 the 58th annual alumni luncheon was held. On this day we celebrated 100 years of Nursing Education at Jefferson.

The annual meeting was held in the Sibley-Cohen auditorium at 10 A.M., with a cocktail hour following the meeting, in the Eakin lounge and the West courtyard.

There were 425 luncheon reservations, representing 27 states, including Hong Kong and England.

Three mother and daughter members were present: Ann Woodford Crawford, class of 1935 and her daughter Bonnie Jean Crawford, class of 1966; Elmer E. Brosious, class of 1936 and her daughter Joann R. Brosious, class of 1963; Frances Hudson Rumberger, class of 1941 and her daughter Suzanne Rumberger Helden, class of 1962.

There were 2 members from the class of 1925. They were celebrating their 60th anniversary. Mildred Kroupa Okushinsky and Marion Shriver Carey. Each of these lovely ladies received a wrist corsage from the Alumni Association.

The class of 1941 celebrated their 50th anniversary with 20 graduates present. Betty Piersol and Peg Summers were each presented with a plaque expressing our sincere thanks and appreciation for the excellent job they are doing for the association.

Six students from the Baccalaureate Nursing program assisted us with the registration and remained to enjoy the luncheon. We do appreciate their help.

The memorabilia, which was on display, commemorating the Centennial of Nursing Education at Jefferson was enjoyed by all.

I wish to thank everyone who helped to make this Alumni Day special. Our next annual meeting and luncheon will be held on Saturday, May 2nd, 1992.

COME, RENEW THE JEFF CONNECTION!

The History of the Jefferson Cap

Jefferson graduated its first class of nurses in 1893. At that time the cap that was worn had a high crown and a wide brim with ruffle around the brim. It was made of a delicate material called "lawn", similar to material used to make handkerchiefs. The cap resembled the Philadelphia General Cap, which at that time was made of a similar material.

In 1894, Susan Hearle, a graduate of Philadelphia General became Directress of Nurses at Jefferson. When she noticed the similarity between caps, Miss Hearle decided that Jefferson Nurses should have their own distinctive cap.

The crown was lowered, the ruffle was removed and the brim was narrowed, fastened and spread like wing tips, across the front of the cap. The material was changed to organdy which gave the cap more body.

In 1902, the cap was worn with the high starched and the wings made to stand out — that is the way we wear it today.

Initially, it was traditional to earn the cap by passing the six month probationary period. Now the cap is given to the student to wear as soon as she enters the school.

It was a great responsibility for the student, knowing that the Nurse's Cap originated historically from the veil worn by women who traditionally covered their heads in public, and the cap is a symbol of humility and service to mankind. A responsibility because the Jefferson Cap is recognized and respected the world over, being worn by more than 4500 graduates of the school, many of whom earned their cap and consider it an honor to wear it. (With the closing of the School of Nursing in June of 1982 — the total number of graduates will be 5,078).

The student is entrusted with the cap and must wear it with dignity and respect for the tradition that is to be upheld.

(Related to the above article was presented at Capping Exercises for the Class of 1982, by Patricia Zarella '51, R.N., B.S.N., Instructor School of Nursing, September 1958 to July 1980).

RENEZVOUS

I cannot do my work today,
A butterfly is on the fence,
And though skies are blue and clouds are white,
I just come down from there.

I'll have a rendezvous to keep,
For sometimes I can't remember.
When skies are blue and clouds are white,
If I'm getting more forgetful.

And more mixed up in the head.
And little forest trails invite?
There's no need of getting sore,
I've just come down from there.

There's never a better time.
Look how the ivy hugs the wall.
And wish that you were here,
I am a miser who cannot Afford to waste a single day!

Oh, I'm not among the dead,
I don't scold me if I seem,
I'm getting more forgetful.

Oh, do not scold me if I seem,
A little absent-minded, dear!
There's never a better time.
And little forest trails invite?

Grace E. Easley

JUST A LITTLE BIT MIXED UP

Just a line to say I'm living,
That I'm not among the dead,
I'm getting more forgetful,
And I'm just getting out of bed.

And before the frig, so often,
My poor mind is filled with doubt.
Have I just put food away,
Or have I come to take some out.

And before the frig, so often,
My poor mind is filled with doubt.
Have I just put food away,
Or have I come to take some out.

And there's time when it is dark out,
With my mind on my head,
I don't know if I'm retiring,
Someone I can't remember.

And more mixed up in the head.
And little forest trails invite?
There's no need of getting sore,
I don't know if I'm retiring.

And before the frig, so often,
My poor mind is filled with doubt.

Weather Lore

Whether it's cold or whether it's hot... We shall have weather, whether or not!

A sunny shower won't last half an hour.

The sharper the blast, the sooner it's past.

News and weather... they travel together.

To talk of the weather is nothing folly;
when it rains on the hill, it suns in the valley.

Yellow streaks in sunset sky, wind and day-long rain is nigh.

The south wind brings wet weather; the norther wind, wet and cold together; the west wind always brings us rain... the east wind blows it back again.

When the morning sun is red...

Owes and lambs go well to bed.

Onion skin is very thin

Mild winter is coming in.

Onion skin is thick and tough

Winter will be cold and rough.

Clear moon, frost soon.

The moon and the weather may change together, but change of the moon does not change the weather.

Pale moon doth rain,

Red moon doth blow,

White moon doth neither rain nor snow.

When the stars begin to huddle

The earth will soon begin to puddle.

According to old lore, rain is coming if:

1. Birds sit on telephone wires.
2. Cats sneeze.
3. Dogs refuse meat.
5. Bees stay in hives.
6. Pigeons fly slowly.
7. Tarantulas crawl in daytime.
8. Horses grin.

OUR YOUTH
How do I know my youth has been spent?
Because my getup and go, has got up and went!
But in spite of all that, I am able to grin
When I think of where my getup has been;
Old age is golden, I have heard someone say.
And sometimes I wonder as I go to bed,
My ears in a drawer, my teeth in a cup
Ere sleep dims my eyes, I say to myself;
Is there anything else I should lay on the shelf?
And I am happy to say as I close my door,
My friends are the same as in days of yore.
When I was young my slippers were red
I could kick my heels way over my head.
When I grew older my slippers were blue
But I could dance the whole night thru.
Now I am old, my slippers are black
I walk to the corner and puff my way back.
The reason I know my youth has been spent
My get up and go, has got up and went.
But I really don’t mind, when I think with a grin
Of the places my getup has been.
Since I have retired from life’s competition
I busy myself with complete repetition.
I get up each morning; dust off my wits
Pick up my paper and read the obits.
If my name is still missing, I’m sure I’m not dead
So I eat a good breakfast and go back to bed.

A POET’S PRAYER
Let me not lose the wonder of this earth
When I become ensnared in daily toil.
Open my ears to Springtime’s joyous mirth,
My eyes behold the promise of the soil.
Let me remember quiet mountain heights,
Or dusk who folds her wings above the sea.
Awake to crystal dawn’s first freshening lights,
These things made life so beautiful for me.
Give me the faith to see beyond all fears,
And wisdom for each trial that meets my day.
Teach me the words to halt my brother’s tears,
And find the courage in truth’s shining way.
Of all my prayers, Lord, grant me this one part,
The understanding of a loving heart.
